

During COVID-19 STARRY Counseling is here for you.

If you are struggling at home with your child's behaviors, feeling frustrated, needing some strategies to help you get through these stressful times, or you have lost your job and no longer have insurance for your children's therapy -- we would love to support you with counseling and family support services.

Please reach out to STARRY Counseling. We are now offering no cost counseling sessions via phone or online platforms. Call today to schedule a session.

- * Coaching and support for parents
