Seminarian Project Update

Dear Parishioners of Church of the Assumption, Thank you for your help this past week with my "seminarian project." It was nice to see many people whom I've already gotten to know and to be able to put a face to a name with many others. I had almost 50 families stop by my table on Sunday! I didn't know exactly what to expect, but the first weekend really felt like a great start. Because of your help, we discovered records that were outdated or incorrect for some and have started the process of registration for others. Having the best, up-to-date information will really help the parish run well. I look forward to seeing many more families this Sunday, and I hope that together we can put an even bigger dent in the project this week! Remember, I would like to complete this project by the end of the month! - Luke Wilgenbusch

Transitional Deacon Rhodes Bolster will be the deacon for the Mass, and he will offer the homily. Our summer seminarian, Luke Wilgenbusch, will be the sub-deacon. Those who can attend should know that, because of the solemnity, the Mass will be expected to last a little over an hour. This is longer than a normal weekday Mass, so please plan appropriately.
