A priest was accosted by a thief while walking down a dark alley. The thief demanded that he hand over his wallet. As the priest opened his coat to reach for his wallet, the thief saw the collar and realized he was robbing a priest. He immediately apologized and said, “Father, forget it! Keep your money. I had no idea you were a priest.” Then, both nervous and relieved, the priest took out a cigarette and offered one to the thief. But, the thief replied, “No, thank you Father. I gave up smoking for Lent.”

We got to be consistent as Catholics in our words and actions. When we are not, then foolish we will appear to others- much like the thief described in the aforementioned story. If someone is consistent in his/her inconsistency, the person’s words and actions create confusion in the beholder.

If you wish to be taken seriously as a Catholic Christian, be consistent. Then, the other person will follow your good example.

God bless you!

Peace,
Fr. Marc
