April 13, 2020

Endurance is not easy. Although, sometimes a person arrives at the realization he/she has endured more than what seemed possible. That is becoming aware of a tremendous accomplishment, successfully achieved.

However, even though sometimes we can do more than we ever imagined, there are times for a person to endure what he/she has been challenged to do, it requires extraordinary assistance. Divine intervention is necessary.

Today, we begin another week with the challenge to endure the ramifications caused by the COVID-19 virus. Perhaps, for you, it is another day to respond to the call to do what has most recently been done to keep yourself healthy, as well for others you love. Maybe, it is one more day for you to help someone else who may not be as healthy as you are, due to the pandemic.

Whatever you are called to endure, even though you may be able to do it on your own, don't eliminate the possibility the Lord is present to help you. Call upon Him. Give the Lord a chance to provide the divine assistance you need.

In addition, know there are more people than you realize, praying for you right now! Certainly more than ever before! You are never alone.

God bless you!
