My dear parishioners,

In the gospel, when Jesus began to speak in the synagogue, the crowd listened to Him and all spoke highly of Him. Things began to change when Jesus started to speak words that were not any more pleasurable to their ears. So, right there and then they decided to kill Jesus even if Jesus spoke in the synagogue out of His great love for them. There are people who like to be praised, they love it very much. Praises are like wondrous music to their ears. But notice also the behavior of this people when they are told about their shortcomings. They easily get angry even if the person who tells them about it does it out of love.

Then, the one who tells the truth out of concern and love becomes now the enemies. The one to be persecuted, to be hated and the most extreme that may happen is that the person who's telling the truth out of love may even be killed.

Sometimes the truth that is said with love and concern will hurt us. However, this same truth will help us, will liberate us and it will set us free. It's also not easy at times to tell the truth because it may create enemies with our friends and relatives. But who cares? For as long as we tell the truth and we do it out of love and concern we need not fear anyone.

God Bless,
Fr. Pawel
