CATHOLIC RADIO

CATHOLIC RADIO
St. Ignatius of Antioch referred to the Eucharist as the worship since the original Feast of the Last Supper. We have been celebrating the Eucharist as part of our worship since they have come to us directly from Jesus.

Our tradition basically translates into an annual or yearly celebration. We can be proud of our traditions and our history as its roots two Latin words — soletand annus, which means to come together. A covenant is basically an agreement between people, or between God and His people, that binds one to the other. A popular phrase in today’s Church is “new covenant.” Christ Himself is the new covenant between God and His people. We confirm and seal this covenant every time we receive the Body and Blood of Christ. De we really understand what a remarkable thing that is? People who understand that are always overwhelmed when they approach to receive this powerful gift of the Eucharist.

As mentioned in the introduction, the Gospel Reading from St. Mark is a reminder to us of the covenant made with us by Jesus at the Last Supper. That is really what Easter was and is all about. That Gospel also emphasizes the importance of the Body and Blood. In the three synoptic Gospels (Matthew, Mark, and Luke) there is no mention of a “lamb” as part of the Passover meal even though that is normally an important part of that meal. A careful study of the Bible brings us to the realization that nothing happens by accident. Some scholars have concluded that the absence of the “lamb” merely meant they could not obtain one. It would seem far more likely that this was the way Jesus wanted it. It was a way of Him emphasizing that He was the Passover sacrifice, the Lamb of God.

What Jesus says, and what we do at Mass are very important. The Lord says, “Take it; this is my body.” The word “take” implies that this is not something that is forced upon us. Without food and drink we will perish; the key to the Eucharist is that without Jesus, we will also perish. This is something that when we take it, we need to take it into our innermost being. The bottom line on all this is that the Eucharist is our acceptance of the New Covenant. There is more to it than just receiving. It also means sharing and disciplship.

FISH Food Bank Gather your family and friends to sign up for the FISH Awareness Walk on Saturday, June 23. Individuals and teams of 5-10 walkers are welcome. It would be great to have a few teams from St. Andrew’s—all ages! The two-mile walk starts at 9:00 a.m. at FISH and ends at Rotary Pavilion with fun and games for the whole family. Walkers pay $15 each for registration and are encouraged to find sponsors to donate $10 to FISH. The top three teams collecting the most will receive a prize. Team Captains are the link between your walking team and FISH, so contact Elise or Cameron at FISH, 925-5990, to register. Awareness Walk brochures are available at the church office and at FISH. Thanks, St. Andrew’s, for your steadfast support of the FISH Community Food Bank. Awareness is the first step to understanding the faces of hunger in Kittitas County.
