Tenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

In the sequence we encounter a narrative arrangement that schoolers acknowledge as a feature of Marcan style, an intercalation sometimes called inelegantly the "Marcan sandwich". In it Mark initiates an action that requires time to be completed, interrupts it by another scene filling in the time, the meat between the surrounding pieces of bread, and then resumes the initial action bringing it to a close. Here the action begins with Jesus' relatives, who do not understand this turn of life where he is not even taking the time to eat and want to bring him back home. The time it requires to move from Nazareth where they are to Jesus' new home at Capernaum is filled in by scribes who come from Jerusalem. The relatives' objection "He is beside himself" is matched by the scribes "He is possessed by Beelzebub", the one expressing radical misunderstanding and the other antagonistic disbelieved. And the end of the intercalation, the mother and brothers of Jesus finally arrive; but, now the proclamation of the kingdom has begun, they have been replaced: "Whoever does the will of God is my brother, and sister, and mother" The intermediary scene with scribes from Jerusalem constitutes one of the Marcan Jesus' clearest statements about Satan, whose kingdom opposes the kingdom of God. With the appearance of Jesus the two kingdoms are locked in struggle. The allegorical parable in 3,27 suggests that Satan is the strong one in possession of his house and good, this world, and that Jesus is the stronger one who has come to bind him and take his possessions away. The unforgivable blasphemy in Mark is to attribute Jesus' works to an unclean spirit rather than to the Holy Spirit.

El Décimo Domingo del Tiempo Ordinario

En la secuencia encontramos un arreglo narrativo que los escolares reconocen como una característica del estilo Marcan, un intercalación a veces llamado inelegantemente el "bocadillo de Marcan". En él Marcos inicia una acción que requiere tiempo para ser completada, la interrumpe por otra escena que rellena en el tiempo, la carne entre los trozos de pan circundantes, y luego reanuda la acción inicial acercándola a su fin. Aquí la acción comienza con los parientes de Jesús, que no entienden este cambio de vida donde él ni siquiera se toma el tiempo para comer y quiere traerlo de vuelta a casa. El tiempo que requiere mudarse de Nazaret donde están a la nueva casa de Jesús en Capernaum es llenado por los escribas que vienen de Jerusalén. La objeción de los parientes "él está al lado de sí mismo" es emparejado por los escribas "él es poseído por Beelzebub", el que expresa el malentendido radical y el otro antagonistic descreído. Y el fin del intercalación, la madre y los hermanos de Jesús finalmente llegan; pero, ahora que la proclamación del Reino ha comenzado, ellos han sido reemplazados: quien hace la voluntad de Dios es mi hermano, y hermana, y madre "la escena intermediaria con los escribas de Jerusalén constituye una de las declaraciones más claras de Jesús marcan sobre Satanás, cuyo Reino se opone al Reino de Dios. Con la aparición de Jesús, los dos reinos están encerrados en la lucha. La parábola alegórica en el 3, 27 sugiere que Satanás es el fuerte en posesión de su casa y el bien, este mundo, y que Jesús es el más fuerte que ha venido para atarlo y quitar sus posesiones. La imperdonable blasfemia en Marcos es atribuir las obras de Jesús a un espíritu impuro más que al Espíritu Santo.
