“This is the day the Lord has made; let us rejoice and be glad”

Christ is indeed risen from the dead today. Thus, the Psalmist tells us today is the day the Lord has made we should rejoice and be glad. Why should we rejoice? Because by rising from the dead, Christ ultimately conquered death and gave us a meaning to a new life. The story of the suffering and death of Jesus on Good Friday is the story of the triumph of falsity over truth, of injustice over justice, of evil over goodness. If that were the end of the story, it would be a bad story and a tragedy. Thankfully at the end, He was vindicated. Jesus regains His eternal glory with the Father.

Before His death, Jesus converted many sinners, preached the good news to the poor, liberated the captives, offered freedom to the oppressed and restored the outcasts back into the community. By the end of His earthly ministry, He suffered persecution, betrayal, denial, rejection and death on the cross. Three days later He rose from the dead leaving behind in the tomb the dishonesty, false accusation, the violence and unjust condemnation that led to His death. With this in mind, rising with Christ from the tomb also means leaving behind a painful chapter in our lives that has brought us into darkness and caused us a lot of pain.

“In a life-changing, life-affirming way, having “died with Christ” empowers us to stare death itself in the face and say, You have no power over me because Jesus Christ died and rose again and I belong to him! Look back at the wreckage sin created in your past. Choices that left more pain than joy, relationships or marriage that robbed you of self-respect, bouts with illness and other health challenges that played havoc with your dreams, hurtful words spoken or bitterness tasted that kept you from being the person God created you to be. Look at them all and know that because you and I have died with Christ, everything that looks and smells and acts like death is behind us.” We are freed from death’s bonds. So on this Easter, we can embrace the equally powerful truth that we are “raised with Christ” to new life. Therefore, on this Easter, let us joyfully sing with Psalmist: “This is the day the Lord has made, let us rejoice and be glad.”
