Seattle Office of Emergency
Management

The City of Seattle has created the Seattle Neighborhoods Actively Prepare (SNAP) program to help your neighborhood get organized in case of a major emergency, like an earthquake. We encourage people not to only prepare for themselves and their families but to talk to neighbors about how they will work together to make sure everyone in the neighborhood is safe and cared for.

MEETING GOALS

- Meet new neighbors, share contact information, establish a meeting place
- Learn what to do to be better prepared
- Learn how to be safe in an earthquake
- Learn how to use the Help/OK sign
- Know your top three response priorities after a disaster
