

God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, so that everyone who believes in him might have eternal life.

Tanto amó Dios al mundo, que le entregó a su Hijo único; para que todo el que crea en él tenga vida eterna.

Third Sunday of Lent, Year B, Tercer Domingo de Cuaresma, el año B del Evangelio de San Marcus March/Marzo 3/4, 2018

From The Deacon's Desk...

Most sporting events take a temporary break in the play of the game, a half-time; a time not only of respite, but a time to evaluate what has transpired and a time to look forward, a time to plan the adjustments necessary for second half success. We are at the half-time of Lent. This weekend can be a half-time to evaluate our Lenten game plan. A time to note both short coming and success. If we have need, time remains to make the adjustments necessary.

La mayoría de los eventos deportivos toman un descanso temporal en el juego, un medio tiempo; un tiempo no solo de respiro, sino un tiempo para evaluar lo que ha sucedido y un tiempo para mirar hacia adelante, un momento para planificar los ajustes necesarios para el éxito de la segunda mitad. Estamos en el medio tiempo de la Cuaresma. Este fin de semana puede ser un medio tiempo útil para evaluar qué tan bien estamos logrando nuestro plan de juego cuaresmal. Un momento para notar tanto nuestra corta llegada como nuestro éxito. Si tenemos necesidad, queda tiempo para hacer los ajustes necesarios.

A Biblical Walk Through the Mass: Understanding What We Say & Do in the Liturgy

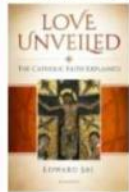

As Catholics, the Mass is the center of our Faith. We celebrate it every day. We know all the responses. We know all the gestures. But do we know what it all means?

In A Biblical Walk Through the Mass, Dr. Edward Sri takes us on a unique tour of the liturgy. Based on the revised translation of the Mass, this book explores the biblical roots of the words and gestures we experience in the liturgy and explains their profound significance. This intriguing look at the Mass is sure to renew your faith and deepen your devotion to the Eucharist.

VIBRANT FAITH IN A SECULAR AGE—TODAY’S CHALLENGES FOR PARENTS, FAMILIES & PARISH LEADERS

This presentation engages the challenges we, our children and our friends constantly face from the secular culture—challenges that, if not addressed, can choke the life of faith in the people we love.

- Why do I need a Church? Can't I be spiritual on my own?
- Isn't one religion just as good as another?
- Isn't each person free to make up his own morality?
- Why does the Church talk so much about human life, sex and marriage? Shouldn't we just be tolerant and get along with everyone?

This engaging and thought-provoking talk shows how parish ministry and faith formation in the home cannot be "business as usual." We cannot simply teach the truth. We must pass on the faith in a way that anticipates the cultural influences that affect the life of faith and give people the tools to thrive as intentional Catholics in a relativistic world.

Most sporting events take a temporary break in the play of the game, a half-time. This can be a time not only of respite, but a time to evaluate what has just transpired and a time to look forward, a time to plan the adjustments necessary for a successful outcome in the second half of competition.

We are, in a sense, at the half-time, the midway point of Lent. This weekend can be a useful half-time to evaluate how well we are accomplishing our Lenten game plan. A time to note both our short coming and our success. If we have need, time remains to make the adjustments necessary for a successful outcome when the triumph of Easter arrives.

Pope Francis: there are no threats in the confessional – only forgiveness

By Editor, Catholic News Service, February 27, 2018

VATICAN CITY (CNS) The Lord never grows weary of calling each of us to change our lives, to take a new step towards Him by being converted; and He does it with the sweetness and confidence of a Father. Confessors do the same. This was the heart of Pope Francis' homily at the Mass at the Casa Santa Marta on Tuesday.

Pope Francis at Casa Santa Marta

Lent is a time that is “helpful for conversion,” for growing close to God, for changing our life – and this is a grace we should ask for from the Lord.

Pope Francis' homily began with the first reading, from the book of Isaiah, which he described as a true call to conversion. This reading, he said, shows us the special attitude

Jesus takes with regard to our sins: “He does not threaten,” the Pope said, but instead, calls us “with kindness, gentleness, giving us confidence.” In the reading, after having pointed out to them the evil they should avoid and the good they should do, the Lord says to the rulers of Sodom and the people of Gomorrah: “Come, let us reason together.” And, the Pope said, He does the same with us:

“The Lord says, ‘Come now, let us reason together,’ Let’s talk for a while. He doesn’t frighten us. He is like a father of a small child who has pulled a prank, and he has to correct him. And he knows that if he approaches him with a stick in hand, things will not go well. He has to approach him with trust and confidence. In this passage, this is how the Lord calls us: ‘Come on, let’s have a coffee together. Let’s talk this over, let’s discuss it. Don’t be afraid, I’m not going to beat you.’ And since he knows his child is thinking ‘But I did something wrong...’, he immediately [adds], ‘Even if your sins be like scarlet, they may become white as snow. If they be

Just like the father confronting his young child, Jesus begins by inspiring trust and confidence, to lead bring us to “forgiveness, and a change of heart.” He acted in the same way, the Pope said, when he called Zacchaeus and Matthew; and He acts in this way in our lives, too. He helps us to see “how to take a step forward along the path of conversion”:

“Let us thank the Lord for His goodness. He does not want to beat us and condemn us. He gave His life for us and this is His goodness. And He is always looking for a way to get to the heart. And when we priests, in the place of the Lord, have to hear confessions, we too should have this attitude of goodness. As the Lord says: ‘Come on, let’s discuss this. It’s no problem, there is forgiveness.’ And from the beginning, there is no threat.”

The Pope spoke about the experience of a cardinal who heard confessions. When faced with sins that he understood were very serious, the confessor didn’t dwell on them, but moved on, continuing the conversation: “And this opens the heart,” the Pope emphasized, “and the other person feels at peace.” The Lord does the same with us, saying, “Come now, let us discuss it, let’s talk. Receive forgiveness. There is forgiveness”:

“It is helpful to me to see this attitude of the Lord: the [attitude of a] father with the child who thinks he is big, that he is all grown up, and yet is only halfway there. And the Lord knows that all of us are halfway there, and often we need this, we need to hear these words: ‘Come on, don’t be afraid, come. There is forgiveness.’ And this encourages us. Go to the Lord with an open heart: He is the Father who is waiting for you.”
