May the blessings of the Risen Christ fill your lives with joy!

Father Dylan and I wish you a blessed Easter Season. We are most thankful to everyone who worked so tirelessly and with great generosity to make our observance of the Lenten Season and our celebration of the Pascal Mystery such a meaningful experience. May we all continue to give the Lord thanks for the gift of this community of faith. Father Dylan and Deacon John.

El padre Dylan y yo te deseamos una bendita temporada de Pascua. Estamos muy agradecidos a todos los que trabajaron tan incansablemente y con gran generosidad para hacer de nuestra observancia del Tiempo de Cuaresma y nuestra celebración del Misterio Pascal una experiencia tan significativa. Que todos sigamos dando gracias al Señor por el don de esta comunidad de fe. El padre Dylan y el diácono John.

If you are seeking ways to deepen your relationship with God or to deepen your prayer life, the Benedictine Sisters of Perpetual Adoration are inviting single women ages 18 - 40 to attend a Festival of Prayer Retreat at our monastery in Clyde, MO April 13-15, 2018.

It's a chance to experience the daily rhythm of our way of life. You can join our community in the singing the divine office, attend daily Mass, share in community meals and recreation, spend time in Adoration/Exposition and in personal prayer. Those who come will also learn about the Rule of St. Benedict, contemplative prayer, the call, various ways to pray. They will also meet with others who are seeking to deepen their relationship with God. There is no cost to attend.

More details can be found at www.benedictinesisters.org. To register: contact Sr. Maria Victoria at 660-944-2221 ex. 127 or e-mail: vocation@benedictinesisters.org.

Pope: Jesus' church offers truth, comfort despite efforts to discredit it

By Editor, Catholic News Service, March 30, 2018

ROME (CNS) Leading a prayer to God for the grace to feel ashamed and repentant for so many sins in the world, Pope Francis highlighted the hope that always comes from Jesus.

There is hope "because your church, holy and made up of sinners, continues even today, in spite of attempts to discredit it, to be a light that illuminates, encourages, comforts and witnesses your unlimited love for humanity, a model of altruism, an ark of salvation and a source of certainty and truth," the pope said.

There is hope "because from your cross -- the fruit of greed and cowardice of many doctors of the law and hypocrites -- came the resurrection," which turned darkness into eternal light and shows that Jesus' love is their hope, he said.

At the end of the Stations of the Cross in Rome's Colosseum March 30, the pope read a prayer he wrote, asking Jesus to help "strip us of the arrogance" of the unrepentant criminal that was next to him at his crucifixion and to become more like the "good thief" who was filled with shame, repentance and hope when he gazed upon Jesus.

In his prayer, which he read from a hillside overlooking the crowds holding candles and a torch-lit cross, the pope listed a number of sins and the shame they cause when one gazes upon Jesus' supreme act of love.

There is shame for: having abandoned God or mocked him when things got difficult; choosing power, appearances and money over God; there being so many people, even some clergy, who let themselves be misled by ambition and vainglory; leaving younger generations "a world broken by divisions and wars, a world devoured by selfishness where the young, the least, the ill and the elderly are marginalized"; and the shame for having lost all sense of shame.

Repentance comes from recognizing one's "nothingness" and knowing with certainty that only Jesus can "save us from evil, only you can heal us from our leprosy of hatred, selfishness, pride, greed, revenge, cowardice, idolatry," he said.

Praying that Jesus always offer the grace of shame and repentance, the pope also prayed people remember the hope contained in his Gospel, which continues to inspire so many people to see that only the good can win over evil, "only forgiveness can conquer rancor and revenge, only a fraternal embrace can dissolve hostility and fear of the other."

Missionaries, too, bring hope, he said, because they are ones challenging humanity's sleeping conscience by (Church continued) risking their lives to serve others, including immigrants and the exploited.

The meditations for the late-night event were written by 15 current and former students of a high school religion teacher in Rome. The pope wanted the reflections to be written by a group of young people as part of giving them a voice before the upcoming synod of bishops.

Earlier in the day, Pope Francis presided over the Good Friday Liturgy of the Lord's Passion, which began with a silent, solemn procession down the central nave of St. Peter's Basilica.

As is customary, the papal household's preacher gave the homily.

Capuchin Father Raniero Cantalamessa said that while the church listens to young people in preparation for the synod, the church must not forget to also help them listen to Jesus and discover what he has to offer.

Repeating the pope's call for all Christians to renew their relationship with Jesus or at least be open to letting him encounter them each day, the Capuchin priest said God has a special mission for young people.

Their task, he said, is "to rescue human love from the tragic drift it had ended up -- love that is no longer a gift of self but only the possession, often violent and tyrannical, of another."

The ability to be totally giving and welcoming of love requires long preparation, whether it be for the vocation of marriage, religious life or service, he said.

Jesus on the cross is an example of giving himself for others carried to the extreme, and Christians are called to be courageous in going against the current cultural stream of selfishness and going against the crowd that chases after worldly things, he said.

After the homily, the assembly venerated the cross.
