Eleventh Sunday in Ordinary Time, Year B, 11° Domingo del Tiempo Ordinario, el año B del Evangelio de San Marcus June/Junio 16/17, 2018

From Deacon John...

Finally, we return to the everyday themes of Ordinary Time. Our gospel consists of parables about germination, growth and producing fruit. They help us gain understanding about the kingdom of God and our own faith. The mission of proclaiming Good News given to the Apostles is now ours. But just as seeds need time to grow, so does the Kingdom of God. Remember we pray, "thy kingdom come."

Finalmente, volvemos a los temas de la vida cotidiana del Tiempo Ordinario. Nuestro evangelio consiste en dos parábolas sobre germinación, crecimiento y producción de fruta. Estas parábolas nos ayudan a comprender tanto el reino de Dios como nuestra propia fe. La misión de proclamar las Buenas Nuevas del Reino dadas a los Apóstoles ahora nos es dada. Pero así como las semillas necesitan tiempo para crecer, también lo hace el Reino de Dios. Recuerde en el Padre-nuestro, oremos, "venga a nosotros tu reino".

From Deacon John...

Finally, we return to the everyday themes of Ordinary Time. Our gospel consists of two parables about germination, growth and producing fruit. These parables help us gain understanding both about the kingdom of God and our own faith. In God we have our being, but God is also a mystery and his kingdom, though present now in some ways, has not yet come to fulfillment. The mission of proclaiming the Good News of the Kingdom given to the Apostles is now given to us. But just as seeds need time to grow, so too, does the Kingdom of God. Remember in the Lord's Prayer, we pray, "thy kingdom come." We know that reign will come in a complete way at the end of time. But for now we must live in faith through the example of Jesus Christ.

Pope releases Message for World Day of the Poor

By Editor, Catholic News Service, June 14, 2018

Vatican City, (CNA/EWTN News)

In a message released on Thursday for the 2nd World Day of the Poor, celebrated this year on November 18, Pope Francis said we live in a world “which praises, follows and imitates those who have power and riches, while at the same time marginalizing the poor and considering them an object of shame.”

Pope Francis shares a meal with poor people at a soup kitchen.

The theme chosen for this year’s message is “This poor man cried and the Lord heard him”. It comes on the heels of the 1st World Day of the Poor which was established by Pope Francis at the conclusion of the extraordinary Jubilee of Mercy and fixed for the 33rd Sunday of Ordinary Time.

Pointing out that the World Day of the Poor “wishes to be a small answer which the whole Church, spread throughout the world, gives to the poor of every type and in every land, the Pope pointed out that “often it is the case that cooperation with other enterprises, moved not by faith but by human solidarity, enable us to give assistance which by ourselves would have been impossible.

He said that by recognizing that in the immense world of poverty our capacity for action is limited, we are pushed to recognize other forms of assistance and solidarity “albeit that we do not neglect our proper role which is to lead everyone to God and holiness”.

He also spoke of the need to be humble and put aside all forms of protagonism: “Dialogue among the different forms of experience and humility in giving freely of our collaboration, without seeking the limelight, is an adequate and fully evangelical response which we can all give”.

In his message, the Pope also examined the roots of poverty saying it is not brought on by itself, “but is caused by selfishness, pride, greed and injustice”.

“These are evils, he said, as old as man himself, but also sins in which the innocents are caught up, leading to dramatic consequences on a social

He also remarked on what he called a contemporary “phobia” for the poor who are considered not only as destitute, but also as “bearers of insecurity and instability, detached from the habits of daily life and, consequently, to be rejected and kept afar”.

On the other hand, Francis continued, “when we find a way to draw near to the poor, we know that the first place belongs to Him who has opened our eyes and our heart to conversion”.

The poor, he stressed, have no need of protagonists, “but of a love which knows how to hide and forget the good which it has done.”

The Lord, the Pope affirmed, “listens to the poor”, He listens to those “who are downtrodden in their dignity and yet have strength to look up in order to receive light and comfort. He listens to those who are persecuted in the name of a false justice, oppressed by policies unworthy of the name and intimidated by violence.”

He commented on how so many of our brothers and sisters today find themselves on paths that lead to forms of precariousness: “The lack of basic means of subsistence, marginalization stemming from a reduced capacity to work owing to ill-health, the various forms of social slavery, notwithstanding the progress made by humankind”.

The Pope said that the Disciples of Christ are exhorted never to nourish “sentiments of contempt or pietism” towards the poor, but they are called “to honor them, giving them precedence, out of the conviction that they are a real presence of Jesus in our midst”.

Pope Francis concluded that often it is the poor themselves who undermine our indifference and said that “the cry of the poor is also a cry of hope which manifests the certainty of being liberated”.
