28th Sunday in Ordinary Time, Year B, 28° Domingo del Tiempo Ordinario, el año B del Evangelio de San Marcus October/Octubre 13/14, 2018

From Deacon John...

A man approaches Jesus and inquires about what he must do to inherit eternal life. Jesus makes two requirements of the man. First, give up his possessions. Christians have understood that following Jesus requires that believers hold material possessions loosely and remain vigilant against seeking security in accumulating possessions. Second is an invitation Jesus extends to all would-be disciples: "follow me." We believe that the Christian faith is one in which each believer is in a personal relationship with Jesus.

Un hombre se acerca a Jesús y le pregunta qué debe hacer para heredar la vida eterna. Jesús hace dos exigencias del hombre. Primero, debe renunciar a sus posesiones. Los cristianos han comprendido que seguir a Jesús requiere que los creyentes tengan posesiones materiales de manera relajada y permanezcan vigilantes contra la búsqueda de seguridad al acumular posesiones. La segunda es una invitación que Jesús extiende a todos los aspirantes a ser discípulos: "siganme". Creemos que la fe cristiana es una en la que cada creyente está en una relación personal con Jesús.

Question of the Week

28th Sunday – Mark 10:17-30

Key Passage: “How hard it is for those who have wealth to enter the kingdom of God. ... It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for one who is rich to enter the kingdom of God.’ They were exceedingly astonished and said among themselves, ‘Then who can be saved?’ Jesus looked at them and said, ‘For human beings it is impossible, but not for God. All things are possible for God.’”

Question for adults: How do you allow faith to shape your use of money?

Question for children: What favorite thing would you be willing to give up for Jesus' sake?

Pregunta de la Semana

28° Domingo-- Marcos 10:17-30

Pasaje Crucial: “Hijitos, ¡qué difícil es para los que confían en las riquezas, entrar en el Reino de Dios! Más fácil le es a un camello pasar por el ojo de una aguja, que a un rico entrar en el Reino de Dios". Ellos se asombraron todavía más y comentaban entre sí: "Entonces, ¿quién puede salvarse?" Jesús, mirándolos fijamente, les dijo: "Es imposible para los hombres, mas no para Dios. Para Dios todo es posible".

Pregunta para los adultos: ¿Cómo permites que la fe dé forma a tu uso del dinero?

Pregunta para los niños: ¿Qué cosa favorita estarías dispuesto a renunciar por el amor de Jesús?

We lift up to the Lord all who enter the eternal peace of Christ. We pray too, for all the sick, especially Father Ed Doyle, Gary Drummond and all those battling cancers. May the healing mercy of almighty God always provide their every need. We pray for those who struggle with grief or addictions, those who feed the world, and those who labor to provide our well being especially first responders, military and all who work to support victims of the current storms and hurricane.

Bishop McKnight's October prayer intention for our Local Church is "For the protection of the life and dignity of those most vulnerable in society, especially the unborn."

Christians have generally understood that at the least, following Jesus requires that believers hold material possessions loosely and remain vigilant against seeking security in accumulating possessions. Second is an invitation Jesus extends to all would-be disciples: "follow me." Jesus very much wants this man to be his disciple. We believe that the Christian faith is one in which each believer is in a personal relationship with Jesus. Just as this Gospel tells us that Jesus loves the man and is sad when he departs, so too, Jesus loves us and is saddened when we choose not to follow him.

Synod of Bishops: Women, persecution, “nones” and Humanae vitae

By Editor, VNS, October 12, 2018

VATICAN CITY Bishops Robert Barron from the United States and Everardus Johannes de Jong from the Netherlands told the briefing that the Synod has been a joyful experience in which there has been, so far, good open discussions. Bishop de Jong said that he felt the atmosphere was democratic. Bishop Barron said that if there was any doubt about who the protagonists of the Synod were, he assures people that it was most certainly the young people. He said that it was wonderful to see how the Church has listened. The bishop said that it was the catholicity of the Church on full display.

The Prefect for Communications, Dr Paolo Ruffini, gave a synopsis of what was discussed in the assembly. These included the accompaniment of young people – not just for vocational discernment but all through life; Christians who are being persecuted; the role of women; clerical abuse; the failure of the Church in communication and the education of the faithful; migration; intergenerational dialogue; the possibility of new ways of living community life which may be for a limited time but can help young people find the accompaniment they seek; and how liturgy should not be reduced to an artifact.

Women

Sr Mina Kwon from Korea spoke specifically about women in ministry and the need for them to be treated with the same respect as men. She said that religious women and lay people must take on the role of journeying with young people more and more. She said that sometimes, in ministry, religious women are excluded from pastoral care and are not given equal responsibility and decision-making power. Bishops Barron and de Jong said that although women cannot vote at the Synod, because it is a Synod of bishops, they both feel that women have been listened to very carefully and that what they say will find its way into the final document of the Synod. Sr Kwon said that young people are sensitive to inequality and exclusion; they want collaboration and equality.

Persecution and Migration

Bishop Barron said that it helped listening to people speak about the situation in Iraq where Christians are being persecuted. He said that this helped the bishops get out of “first world preoccupations” and realise people are dying for their faith. Bishop de Jong said that hearing about Iraq forced him to ask the question “What am I doing in my diocese for (Synod continued) the Christians of Iraq?” He said that the Synod is also a place where questions of global solidarity can be explored.

Bishop de Jong spoke about migration, saying that often, in Europe, people complain about migrants entering their countries. He said that although western Europe does receive migrants, it puts things in perspective when you hear that single countries have received thousands more than the European collective. Dr Ruffini, said that was migration not only an issue between continents but also on continents; specifically Africa

Reaching the “nones”

Bishop Barron said that one thing that struck him was that young people were really asking for spiritual mentorship. They want a church that is maternal and paternal. Many come from unstable family backgrounds and need to be mentored, nurtured and taught. Bishop Barron also said that close to his heart is a question: How do we reach the “nones”, those whom the Church has no contact with, those who have no religious foundation. He said that the Church has to find ways of reaching them. This is a challenge but, he said, we have the world of social media, to help us achieve this.

Humanae vitae

Asked about whether or not Humanae vitae is being discussed by the Synod, Bishop Barron responded that there were no direct discussions but that it had certainly come up. He said that the canonization of Pope Paul VI at this time was a prophetic move because if you read the document in our context today, it takes on a whole new meaning and shows that what he predicted was prophetic. He said that the assembly and small groups had spoken a lot about marriage and family life but that this was a moment to celebrate the prophetic quality of Humanae vitae.
