From Deacon John...

Truth has been another important theme in John's Gospel. Those who know the truth will recognize Jesus as king and will know how to interpret this insight. Yet Jesus' kingship was hidden from many of his contemporaries. Only those chosen, those who have the eyes of faith, are able to see. As modern disciples of Jesus, we also struggle at times to recognize Jesus as king. Today's Gospel invites us to see with eyes of faith that we might recognize that Jesus, through his crucifixion and death, is indeed king and Savior of all.

La verdad ha sido otro tema importante en el Evangelio de Juan. Aquellos que conocen la verdad reconocerán a Jesús como rey y sabrán cómo interpretar esta percepción. Sin embargo, la realeza de Jesús estaba oculta para muchos de sus contemporáneos. Sólo los elegidos, los que tienen ojos de fe, son capaces de ver. Como discípulos modernos de Jesús, a veces también nos cuesta reconocer a Jesús como rey. El Evangelio de hoy nos invita a ver con ojos de fe que podemos reconocer que Jesús, a través de su crucifixión y muerte, es ciertamente el rey y el Salvador de todos.

From Deacon John...

Jesus refers to a kingdom that does not belong to this world. Recall that at the Last Supper Jesus prayed for his disciples who are in the world but do not belong to the world. Yet like Jesus, they are sent into the world for the world's salvation. In today's reading, we see Jesus identify the final proof that his kingdom is not of this world: If his kingdom were of this world, then there would be people fighting to save him.

It is helpful to return to the first chapter of John's Gospel to understand the context for Jesus' words to Pilate. Jesus came into the world, but the world did not know him. In John's language, the world prefers the darkness, and yet the light will not be overcome by the darkness.

US Bishops against racism: Open wide our hearts

By Sr. Bernadette Mary Reis, fsp, November 19, 2018

“Open Wide Our Hearts: The Enduring Call to Love” is the title of the Pastoral Letter released by the US Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB). It received almost unanimous approval by the Bishops gathered in the Fall General Assembly on 14 October.

Defining racism

Racism consists in judging other persons to be inferior due to race or ethnicity. Racist actions arising from such feelings of superiority “violate justice”, the Bishops state in the beginning of the Pastoral Letter. In Christian terms, it is a failure to love our neighbor. It is also a denial of the fundamental truth that all persons are “all equally made in the image of God”. The Bishops draw attention to forms of racism that still plague society in the US, racism directed primarily at Native Americans, African Americans, and Hispanics/Latinos.

“Racism still profoundly affects our culture, and it has no place in the Christian heart.... What is needed...is a genuine conversion of heart, a conversion that will compel change.... Moving our nation to a full realization of the promise of liberty equality, and justice for all is even more challenging.

History of racism

The Bishops provide a sketch of the history of racism experienced by all three ethnic groups listed above. They describe how the “lust to dominate” others led to a systematic theft of the land and the forced resettlement of the Native American population. Not only were African peoples brutally enslaved, but they were consistently barred from social advancement through unjust laws, and the label used by many in society, that they were “inferior” and did not fully bear God’s image. Hispanics, or Latinos, have constantly borne the brunt of “discrimination in housing, employment, healthcare, and education”.

Remediating Racism

Doing justice, loving goodness, and walking humbly with God, three actions encouraged in the Biblical book of Micah (6:8), can remedy this history, the Bishops propose. “Justice” requires an honest assessment of the reality and the “restoring of right relationships”. Love for our (Racism continued) neighbor is the key to “loving goodness”. It requires that we “make room for others in our hearts” and that we remember that when one member of the Body of Christ suffers, all suffer. Lastly, rebuilding the relationships broken through racism is how we can “walk humbly with God”. Even the Catholic Church must admit its own complicity in “the evil of racism”, in the past and in the present, the Letter says, citing specific cases.

“We can learn from the example of other countries, such as South Africa, Germany, and Rwanda, and from certain institutions that have recognized past wrongs and have come to understand the truth of their history.”

Ecumenical cooperation

The ecumenical spirit adopted by Rev Martin Luther King, Jr. “is integral to the fight today”, the Bishops write, because ending racism requires conversion. In addition, they acknowledge that: “The injustice and harm racism causes are an attack on human life.... As bishops, we unequivocally state that racism is a life issue.” Our hope as Christians to one day be united in heaven with people from “every nation, race, people, and tongue” is one which the Bishops offer as an inspiration for others to join with them in their commitment to end racism in the United States.

“We pray that all join us in striving for the end of racism in all forms, that we may walk together humbly with God and with all of our brothers and sisters in a renewed unity.””

Bishop McKnight has issued an important statement on the abuse scandal, read it by going to the parish website stmary.church or scan the QR code on the front page.
