We lift up to the Lord All those who have died. We pray for those who struggle with aging, disease, illness, grief or addiction, especially Joe Koenen and Hugh Morehead. We are grateful for those who feed, house and clothe the world, and those who labor selflessly for our safety, growth and well being, including our catechists, first responders and military. May we always value the well-being of all our brothers and sisters in faith of greater import than material possessions or personal preferences.

From Deacon John...

Jesus argues the Law of Moses to show that there is resurrection, describing Moses' encounter with the burning bush. He shows God is God of the living, not the dead. He uses the same method to counter the Sadducees, beating them at their own game! Jesus shows the limits of our imaginations about eternal life. The Sadducees argued against resurrection because of the limits of earthly existence. Jesus proposes possibilities of resurrected life are beyond imagination. An eternal relationship with God is possible.

Jesús argumenta la Ley de Moisés para mostrar que hay resurrección, describiendo el encuentro de Moisés con la zarza ardiente. Él muestra que Dios es Dios de los vivos, no de los muertos.

¡Utiliza el mismo método para contrarrestar a los saduceos. Jesús muestra los límites de nuestra imaginación sobre la vida eterna. Los saduceos argumentaron en contra de la resurrección debido a los límites de la existencia terrenal. Jesús propone que posibilidades de la vida resucitada están más allá de la imaginación. Una relación eterna con Dios es posible.

Catholic Stewardship Appeal 2020

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

This year's theme "As each one has received a gift, use it to serve one another as good stewards," speaks to one of the many ways we are united in giving thanks to God for His many blessings.

I am extremely grateful for your past generosity. Now I am coming to you to ask you to continue to "serve one another as good stewards" to help our community grow stronger in faith.

I ask that you prayerfully consider supporting the 2020 Catholic Stewardship Appeal through a sacrificial gift.

May God bless you for your generosity, and may Christ's peace be with you. I am,

Sincerely yours in Christ,
Most Rev. W. Shawn McKnight

Pope urges opportunities for prisoners to reform and reintegrate

By Robin Gomes, November 8, 2019

Pope Francis on Friday met some 50 participants in an international conference on the Catholic Church's pastoral care of prisons.

VATICAN CITY (VNS) Pope Francis is urging for a change in the outlook and approach in treating prisoners who, he said, must be offered equal opportunities for reform, development and reintegration.

He made the remark to the participants in the international conference on the theme, "Integral Human Development and Catholic Prison Pastoral Care". The November 7 - 8 meeting was organized by the Vatican Dicastery for Promoting Integral Human Development.

Integral human development

The Pope said, "Many times society, through legalistic and inhumane decisions, justified by an alleged search for good and security, seeks in the isolation and detention of those who act against social norms, the ultimate solution to the problems of community life."

The Pope lamented that large amounts of public resources are allocated to suppressing offenders instead of truly seeking the promotion of the integral development of people, which reduces the circumstances that encourage committing of illegal acts.

He said, "It is easier and comfortable to suppress than to educate, to deny the injustice present in society and to create these spaces for shutting off transgressors into oblivion than to offer equal opportunities for development to all citizens." He said this is an "educated way of discarding persons".

Reintegration

Pope Francis noted that places of detention often fail to promote reintegration into society because they lack sufficient resources and also because of frequent overcrowding which turns prisons into real places of what he called, "depersonalisation". On the contrary, real social reintegration, he said, starts by guaranteeing opportunities for development, education, decent work, access to healthcare, as well as generating public spaces for civic participation.

The Pope urged today's society to overcome the stigmatization of someone who has made a mistake because, he said, "instead of offering help and adequate resources to live a dignified life, we are accustomed to discarding the person rather than making efforts for him or her to return to the love of God in his or her life."

Often, he said, a person leaving prison faces an alien world that does not recognize him or her as trustworthy, denying him or her the possibility of working for a dignified livelihood.

With these people prevented from regaining the full exercise of their dignity, the Pope warned, they are once again exposed to the dangers of the lack of development opportunities, in the midst of violence and insecurity.

The Holy Father said that these prisoners, who have already served their sentences for the evil committed, should not be subject to a new social punishment with rejection and indifference. Such aversion, he warned, exposes them to falling back on the same mistakes.

Window and horizon

Setting aside his prepared Spanish text, the Pope offered the participants two images to take back home to their countries and regions. Firstly, he said, one cannot speak about debt repayment by prisoners without offering them a window and one cannot change his life without seeing a horizon. He asked the participants to make sure their prisons always have a window and a horizon. "Even a life sentence, which for me is debatable, would have to have a horizon," he stressed.

The second image is drawn from the Pope's own experience at the Devoto Prison of his native Buenos Aires, where he used to see a long line of mothers of detainees being subjected to security checks, often humiliating. For the sake of their children, these women were not ashamed to be seen by everyone. The Pope urged that the Church learn about motherhood from these women for these detained brothers and sisters
