We lift up to the Lord All those who have died. We pray for those who struggle with aging, disease, illness, grief or addiction, especially Joe Koenen and Hugh Morehead. We are grateful for those who feed, house and clothe the world, and those who labor selflessly for our safety, growth and well being, including our catechists, first responders and military. May we always value the well-being of all our brothers and sisters in faith of greater import than material possessions or personal preferences.

33rd Sunday in Ordinary Time, Year C, 33° Domingo del Tiempo Ordinario, el año C del evangelio de San Lucas November-Noviembre 17, 2019

From Deacon John...

The destruction of the Temple in Jerusalem by the Romans was 70 A.D.; Luke's Gospel, scholars propose, was written between 80 and 90 A.D. His audience was probably Gentile Christians. Luke here tries to interpret the fall of Jerusalem for them and to locate it in God's plans for humankind, that is, salvation history. At the same time, Luke suggests to his audience that there will be a considerable time before Jesus' final coming. Luke's listeners have seen much upheaval and are anxious to know if these are the signs of Jesus' coming. Luke is urging patience. Today, as disciples of Jesus, we try to follow his example, trusting in God's mercy and protection, even when we are facing difficulties.

La destrucción del Templo en Jerusalén por los romanos fue en 70 d.C.; El Evangelio de Lucas, proponen los eruditos católicos, fue escrito entre los años 80 y 90 d. C. Su audiencia probablemente era cristianos gentiles. Lucas aquí intenta interpretar la caída de Jerusalén para ellos y ubicarla en los planes de Dios para la humanidad, es decir, la historia de la salvación. Al mismo tiempo, Lucas sugiere a su audiencia que habrá un tiempo considerable antes de la venida final de Jesús. Los oyentes de Lucas probablemente han visto mucha agitación y están ansiosos por saber si estos son los signos de la venida de Jesús. Luke está instando a una mayor paciencia. Hoy, como discípulos de Jesús, tratamos de seguir el ejemplo de Jesús, confiando en la misericordia y protección de Dios, incluso cuando enfrentamos dificultades.

Catholic Stewardship Appeal 2020

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

This year's theme "As each one has received a gift, use it to serve one another as good stewards," speaks to one of the many ways we are united in giving thanks to God for His many blessings.

I am extremely grateful for your past generosity. Now I am coming to you to ask you to continue to "serve one another as good stewards" to help our community grow stronger in faith.

I ask that you prayerfully consider supporting the 2020 Catholic Stewardship Appeal through a sacrificial gift.

May God bless you for your generosity, and may Christ's peace be with you. I am,

Sincerely yours in Christ,
 Most Rev. W. Shawn McKnight
 Bishop of Jefferson City

Bishop McKnight's November prayer intention for our Local Church

For all our deceased family and friends, and for all the souls in purgatory: that the Lord may have mercy on them, and may they see the face of God and live.

Intención del mes de noviembre del Obispo McKnight por nuestra Iglesia Local Por todos los difuntos de nuestra familia y amigos, y por todas las almas del purgatorio. Que el Señor tenga misericordia de ellos y que puedan vivir y ver el rostro de Dios.

Question of the Week

Week Thirty Three – Luke 21:5-19

Key Passage: Then they asked him, "Teacher, when will this happen? And what sign will there be when all these things are about to happen?" Jesus answered: "See that you not be deceived, for many will come in my name, saying, 'I am he.' and 'The time has come.' Do not follow them!"

Question for adults: What are some criteria for discerning what is not of Jesus?

Question for children: Who do you know now that acts like Jesus?

Pregunta de la Semana

33° Semana--Lucas 21, 5-19

Pasaje Crucial: Entonces le preguntaron: "Maestro, ¿cuándo va a ocurrir esto y cuál será la señal de que ya está a punto de suceder?" Él les respondió: "Cuidense de que nadie los engañe, porque muchos vendrán usurpando mi nombre y dirán: 'Yo soy el Mesías. El tiempo ha llegado'. Pero no les hagan caso.

Pregunta para los adultos: ¿Cuáles son algunos de los criterios para discernir lo que no es de Jesús?

Pregunta para los niños: ¿Qué persona que tú conoces actúa como Jesús?

Pope urges opportunities for prisoners to reform and reintegrate

By Robin Gomes, November 8, 2019

Pope Francis on Friday met some 50 participants in an international conference on the Catholic Church's pastoral care of prisons.

VATICAN CITY (VNS) Pope Francis is urging for a change in the outlook and approach in treating prisoners who, he said, must be offered equal opportunities for reform, development and reintegration.

He made the remark to the participants in the international conference on the theme, "Integral Human Development and Catholic Prison Pastoral Care". The November 7 - 8 meeting was organized by the Vatican Dicastery for Promoting Integral Human Development.

Integral human development

The Pope said, "Many times society, through legalistic and inhumane decisions, justified by an alleged search for good and security, seeks in the isolation and detention of those who act against social norms, the ultimate solution to the problems of community life."

The Pope lamented that large amounts of public resources are allocated to suppressing offenders instead of truly seeking the promotion of the integral development of people, which reduces the circumstances that encourage committing of illegal acts.

He said, "It is easier and comfortable to suppress than to educate, to deny the injustice present in society and to create these spaces for shutting off transgressors into oblivion than to offer equal opportunities for development to all citizens." He said this is an "educated way of discarding persons".

Reintegration

Pope Francis noted that places of detention often fail to promote reintegration into society because they lack sufficient resources and also because of frequent overcrowding which turns prisons into real places of what he called, "depersonalisation". On the contrary, real social reintegration, he said, starts by guaranteeing opportunities for development, education, decent work, access to healthcare, as well as generating public spaces for civic participation.

The Pope urged today's society to overcome the stigmatization of someone who has made a mistake because, he said, "instead of offering help and adequate resources to live a dignified life, we are accustomed to discarding the person rather than making efforts for him or her to return to the love of God in his or her life."

Often, he said, a person leaving prison faces an alien world that does not recognize him or her as trustworthy, denying him or her the possibility of working for a dignified livelihood.

With these people prevented from regaining the full exercise of their dignity, the Pope warned, they are once again exposed to the dangers of the lack of development opportunities, in the midst of violence and insecurity.

The Holy Father said that these prisoners, who have already served their sentences for the evil committed, should not be subject to a new social punishment with rejection and indifference. Such aversion, he warned, exposes them to falling back on the same mistakes.

Window and horizon

Setting aside his prepared Spanish text, the Pope offered the participants two images to take back home to their countries and regions. Firstly, he said, one cannot speak about debt repayment by prisoners without offering them a window and one cannot change his life without seeing a horizon. He asked the participants to make sure their prisons always have a window and a horizon. "Even a life sentence, which for me is debatable, would have to have a horizon," he stressed.

The second image is drawn from the Pope's own experience at the Devoto Prison of his native Buenos Aires, where he used to see a long line of mothers of detainees being subjected to security checks, often humiliating. For the sake of their children, these women were not ashamed to be seen by everyone. The Pope urged that the Church learn about motherhood from these women for these detained brothers and sisters

Our diocese serves the spiritual and temporal needs of people living in the center/northeast quadrant of the state of Missouri. In these 38 counties are more than 80,000 Catholics who worship, pray, serve and celebrate their faith in God every day!
