We continue to lift up to the Lord all who have died. We pray for those who struggle with migration, aging, cold weather, disease, illness, grief or addiction, especially Joe Koenen and Jan Scobee. We are grateful for those who feed, house and clothe the world, and those who labor selflessly for our safety, growth and well being, including our catechists, first responders and military. May we always devote our efforts to being salt and light for our neighbor.

The Fifth Sunday of Ordinary Time, Year A, Quinto Domingo del Tiempo Ordinario, el año A del evangelio de San Mateo February-Febrero 9, 2020

From Deacon John...

Jesus uses the metaphors of salt and light to describe the life of discipleship. We take salt and light for granted in our society, but these were more precious in ancient cultures. Salt was more expensive and electricity makes us less aware of the value and importance of light. Still Jesus' call to be salt and light powerfully states our mission as Church and Christians. Social justice flows from today's Gospel. This leads us to concrete expression as the Corporal and Spiritual Works of Mercy. When we feed the hungry, clothe the naked and console those who mourn we show ourselves to be salt of the earth and light of the world. When we do these things within the community of faith, we are indeed acting as "a city set on a mountain" that cannot be hidden!

Jesús usa las metáforas de sal y luz para describir la vida del discipulado. Damos por sentado la sal y la luz en nuestra sociedad, pero estos eran más preciados en las culturas antiguas. La sal era más cara y la electricidad nos hace menos conscientes del valor y la importancia de la luz. Aún así, el llamado de Jesús a ser sal y luz declara poderosamente nuestra misión como Cristianos. La justicia social fluye del Evangelio de hoy. Esto nos lleva a una expresión concreta como las Obras Corporales y Espirituales de la Misericordia. Cuando damos de comer a los hambrientos, viste a los desnudos y consuela a los que lloran, nos mostramos a nosotros mismos como la sal de la tierra y la luz del mundo. Cuando hacemos estas cosas dentro de la comunidad de fe, ¡estamos actuando como "una ciudad en una montaña" que no se puede ocultar!

Question of the Week

The Fifth Sunday — Matthew 5:13-16

Key Passage:

"Just so, your light must shine before others, that they may see your good deeds and glorify your heavenly Father."

Question for adults:

What does it mean to recognize the Spirit of God in your actions? How has that understanding helped others to glorify God?

Question for children:

What good things do you do that help your friends want to be good too?

Pregunta de la Semana

El Quinto Domingo-- Mateo 5, 13-16

Pasaje Crucial:

"Que de igual manera brille la luz de ustedes ante los hombres, para que viendo las buenas obras que ustedes hacen, den gloria a su Padre, que está en los cielos."

Pregunta para los adultos:

¿Qué significa reconocer el Espíritu de Dios en sus acciones? ¿Cómo ha ayudado a otros comprender a glorificar a Dios?

Pregunta para los niños:

¿Qué cosas buenas que haces que ayuda a tus amigos a querer ser bueno también?

Pope urges global finance leaders to reduce economic inequality

By Devin Watkins, Vatican News, February 5, 2020

Pope Francis is calling on the architects of the global financial system to reduce rising income inequality by prioritizing the needs of the poor who are left behind by the globalization of indifference around us.” Hundreds of millions of people, said the Pope, are struggling in extreme poverty, and are lacking food, housing, healthcare, schooling, electricity, and drinkable water. Around 5 million children will die this year of causes related to poverty, he said.

VATICAN CITY (VNS) Finance ministers from France, Argentina, Mexico, Paraguay, and El Salvador; a Nobel economics laureate; and the director of the International Monetary Fund are among global leaders who took part in a Vatican workshop on Wednesday.

Pope Francis with finance ministers and economists at the Vatican workshop

The event – entitled “New Forms of Solidarity” – was held at the Pontifical Academy of Social Sciences. It provided a forum for key players in the global financial system to discuss rising inequality through “inclusion, integration, and innovation”. In his address to participants, Pope Francis laid out several dangers lurking behind prevailing economic models, as well as several ways to build bridges between the rich and the poor.

Rising inequality

“The world is rich, and yet the number of poor people is swelling all

Pope Francis added that rising income inequality has also left millions of people as victims of forced labor, prostitution, and organ trafficking.

Solutions exist

These facts should impel us to take action, and not to fall into despair. “These are solvable problems,” he said. “We are not condemned to global inequality.”

Poverty can be overcome, said the Pope, if an economic system is put in place that includes, feeds, cures, and dresses those left behind by society.

“We have to choose what and who to prioritize,” he said. Our choice will lead either to increased social injustice and violence, or to “humanizing socio-economic systems”.

Structures of sin

Pope Francis went on to say how extreme poverty has continued to exist alongside great wealth throughout much of human history. Currently, the 50 richest people possess the equivalent of US$ 2.2 trillion. The Pope said that, on their own, they could finance “medical care and education for every poor child in the world, either through taxes and/or philanthropy” and save millions of lives every year. And he condemned recurrent tax breaks for wealthy individuals as “structures of sin”. “Every year hundreds of millions of dollars – which should be collected as taxes and go to finance healthcare and education – instead end up in off-shore accounts,” he said.

Co-responsibility and fraternity

Turning to solutions, the Pope urged global financial leaders to “co-responsibility” in the pursuit of fraternity and trust. Banks and financial institutions, he said, should help disadvantaged peoples and developing nations to achieve a certain standard of development. “Social protection, a basic income, healthcare for all, and universal education,” he said, are “economic rights” that form the basis of human solidarity.

Benefiting the excluded

Finally, Pope Francis invited participants in the workshop to use their positions of authority to promote development for the disadvantaged, debt relief for struggling nations, and efforts to reduce the effects of climate change. “We celebrate the opportunity to recognize co-participants in the Lord’s work, which can change the course of history to benefit the dignity of every person, especially those who are excluded.”
