The First Sunday of Ordinary Time, Year A, Primer Domingo de Cuaresma, el año A del evangelio de San Mateo March-Marzo 1, 2020

From Deacon John...

In the Gospels of Mark, Matthew and Luke, Jesus goes to the desert to fast and pray for 40 days. Each recounting tells how the devil tempts Jesus in three ways. He tempts Jesus to use his power to appease his hunger; he tempts Jesus to put God's promise of protection to the test; and he offers Jesus all of the kingdoms of the world if Jesus will worship him. Each temptation offers insight into the human condition. Yet, Jesus will not put God to the test. Grounding himself on the word and authority of Scripture, he rebukes the devil, confident in God's protection and faithfulness. Our readings call us to adopt the same confidence in the face of temptation: God's word alone will suffice; God's promise of protection can be trusted; God alone is God.

En los Evangelios de Marcos, Mateo y Lucas, Jesús va al desierto a ayunar y rezar durante 40 días. Cada recuento cuenta cómo el diablo tienta a Jesús de tres maneras. Él tienta a Jesús a usar su poder para apaciguar su hambre; tienta a Jesús a poner a prueba la promesa de protección de Dios; y le ofrece a Jesús todos los reinos del mundo si Jesús lo adora. Cada tentación ofrece una idea de la condición humana. Sin embargo, Jesús no pondrá a Dios a prueba. Basándose en la palabra y la autoridad de las Escrituras, reprende al diablo, confiando en la protección y fidelidad de Dios. Las lecturas nos llaman a adoptar la misma confianza: solo la palabra de Dios será suficiente; Se puede confiar en la promesa de protección de Dios; Dios solo es Dios.

Pope: Church's social teaching can help AI serve the common good

By Robin Gomes, Vatican News, February 28, 2020

Pope Francis sent a message to participants in a workshop titled, "The 'Good' Algorithm? Artificial Intelligence: Ethics, Law, Health", organized by the Pontifical Academy for Life in the Vatican, February, 26-28.

VATICAN CITY (VNS) In the newly emerging discipline of "the ethical development of algorithms" or more simply "algor-ethics", a critical contribution can be made by the principles of the Church's social teaching, namely the dignity of the person, justice, subsidiarity and solidarity.

The Pope made the remark on Friday in a message that was read to participants in a workshop titled, "The 'Good' Algorithm? Artificial Intelligence: Ethics, Law, Health", organized by the Pontifical Academy for Life in the Vatican, February, 26-28.

The Holy Father was scheduled to address the group but because of a "slight indisposition", he postponed all of Friday's official audiences outside Casa Santa Marta, where he resides.

Ethical framework and human rights

In his message, the Pope noted that the complexity of the technological world demands of us an increasingly clear ethical framework, so as to make our commitment to serving every individual in his or her integrity and of all people, without discrimination or exclusion, truly effective.

Algor-ethics, he pointed out, can be a bridge enabling those principles to enter concretely into digital technologies through effective cross-disciplinary dialogue.

He, however, stressed that in the encounter between different visions of the world, human rights are an important point of convergence in the search for common ground.

The "good algorithm", he said, points to the need for renewed reflection on rights and duties in this area.

Pope Francis expressed appreciation for their "Call" at the end of the workshop, saying it is "an important step in this direction, with its three fundamental coordinates along which to journey: ethics, education and law.

Challenges and dangers

The scope and acceleration of the transformations of the digital era, the Pope said, have in fact raised unforeseen problems and situations that challenge our individual and collective ethos.

On the personal level, the digital age is changing our perception of space, of time and of the body, and on (Artificial Intelligence continued) the socio-economic level, users are often reduced to "consumers", prey to private interests concentrated in the hands of a few. Algorithms now extract data that enable mental and relational habits to be controlled, for commercial or political ends, frequently without our knowledge.

The asymmetry, by which a select few know everything about us while we know nothing about them, the Pope said, dulls critical thought and the conscious exercise of freedom. He also lamented the inequalities that are expanding enormously with knowledge and wealth accumulate in a few hands with grave risks for democratic societies.

Potential of new technologies

However, these dangers, the Pope said, must not detract us from the immense potential that new technologies offer. Broader educational effort and solid reasons need to be developed in the pursuit of the common good, even when no immediate advantage is apparent.

As believers, the Pope said, we ought to allow ourselves to be challenged, so that the word of God and our faith tradition can help us interpret the phenomena of our world and identify paths of humanization.

At the conclusion of the Vatican workshop on Friday, the Pontifical Academy for Life, Microsoft, IBM, the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) and the Italian government signed the "Call for an AI Ethics", a document developed to support an ethical approach to Artificial Intelligence and promote a sense of responsibility among organizations, governments and institutions with the aim to create a future in which digital innovation and technological progress serve human genius and creativity and not their gradual replacement.
