That our country, from leadership to citizens, will build a society that respects human dignity and is guided by God's mercy. By Catholic Daughters

The parish is happy to announce that work will continue on Ranchitos Capilla, Immaculate Conception to repair the building in hopes to be re-opened before the community's feast day on December 8th of 2016. There will be a work day on July 9th, while we have enough help already, your prayers are appreciated and anyone from the community should stop by and say "hello."

To all daily Mass goers, until the completion of the Ranchitos project, daily Mass on the 2nd Tuesday of the Month will be held at the Morada de Nuestra Señora de Guadalupe, please join us.

Dear Family

"The customer is always right." So goes the mantra for every modern business person. The idea is that because the goal is increasing profit, the salesman need to tailor his message to the customer and completely cater to the customer in every way. In an unneeded attempt to make Christianity more relevant, many have adopted this business mentality as a way of evangelization, but at what price? Two false assumptions right away reveal why this method is not congruent with the Gospel. First and foremost, there can be no tailoring of a message that has a life of its own. The Gospel is not a specimen to be manipulated, it is a dangerous and transforming fire that brings about conversion and change wherever it is present. To attempt to manipulate it is to throw away its charge. Secondly, the statement itself goes directly against the command of Jesus in today's Gospel. While it's true that Jesus commands his followers to treat everyone with dignity, he lets his disciple know that they are not to cater to people's whims and desires. On the one hand, this protects the dignity of the minister whose life is not a joke. This also protects the dignity of the people the minister is serving. Think of analogy from parenting, what is the role of a life guide where no guidance is required. If we assume the infallibility of those we serve or we disregard the truth all together, then we disregard and deny one's legitimate need for God's word. Dear family, tempting as public praise may be, our faith will never allow for the customer to always be right.

In His joy,
Rev. Daniel J. Gutierrez

Year of Mercy Corner: It is no secret that as a minister of God's message we are all subject to an often hard road and that we are also necessarily messengers of His mercy. However, the minister deserves mercy also. Jesus makes clear in this Sunday's Gospel, Jesus sends out His disciples and gives them lots of instruction. Among His advice: don't accept mistreatment. While the Christian will always be in an awkward place in some sense, we must, as believers in God's truth and mercy, proclaim the dignity of every person, including the bearer of this great message. Preach respect, show respect and demand respect. It's as simple as that.
