Padre's Corner

Dear Family,

Sometimes faith is found in strange and unexpected places. I know from my own experience, times when I am not satisfied with a homily, only to be approached by someone after Mass that “needed” to hear those words. Many of us can recall moments when someone with a checkered past rises up to perform some great act of virtue, love, and compassion or turns their life around all together. It’s precisely these moments, those that catch us off guard that are reminders that God is bigger than us, way bigger! He is not limited as we are limited and neither is His work in the world. His presence can be found in many places, faces and times, even when the odds are stacked against Him. Today the example of the Magi is one of those great moments which should continue to surprise us all. From what we can tell, these men had no reason to seek out the Christ child, as they did not belong to the same context of language, culture, or belief that young Jesus was born into. If anything, they had ample reason to stay away, including the dangers of travel and the threat that comes when dealing with corrupt political leaders like Herod. However, God’s presence was illumined in signs and they hungered for truth. They sought Jesus and they were welcomed. So many times, I am afraid that because of fear and prejudice in one form or another, these beautiful moments are hindered, or worse, prevented. Let us take the Epiphany as an opportunity to recommit to our baptismal promise to evangelize well. Only when we represent the faith well with hope, joy, and kindness are connections possible. God will do the heavy lifting insofar as we remain open to His surprises!

In his joy, Fr Daniel

Friends,

during the month of January, I will not be taking any appointments, with the sole exception of grave emergencies and confession. This is technically the slowest period for our parish in terms of lack of activities and so I will be taking the month to work on back-burner administrative and pastoral obligations. I will be taking appointments during office hours in February. Sorry for any inconvenience and know I always keep you and your family's needs in my daily prayers.

In His Incarnate Joy, Fr. Daniel
