Padre's Corner

Dear family,

It's an unfortunate tendency that some of our Christian brothers or sisters use or view the second coming of Christ as a scary or worrisome event. Sometimes used to instill fear and thus a synthetic conversion of heart, the so called "end times" can be intimidating to say the least! But this is not what we get from Jesus, who is the face and the voice of God revealed to us. Instead, as with this Gospel today, we are reassured of His Lordship and love for us. "Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away." The second coming of Christ, is something joyous and exciting for us Christians to welcome, not a reality to fear. And though no one knows (and He said it, no one will know) exactly when this is to take place, we do know that we are given cause for joy because in this moment of reconciliation, we finally get to know the fullness of God's peace and be with Him whom our heart desires most. As we finish up the liturgical year, let's not forget that this great journey of life has a definite end toward which we are climbing. And the "view" is going to make all of our striving worth it.

In His Joy, Fr. Daniel
