Our Parish Mission Statement

We, the Roman Catholic Community of St. Hubert, called and formed by the Word of God, reach out to all in our parish and in the larger community . . .

through our

Being God’s People
by our outreach, welcome, love and compassion;

through our

Becoming God’s People
by our liturgical celebration, spiritual formation and social interaction;

through our

Building-Up God’s People
by our evangelization of all from birth to New Life — at all stages of their Faith Journey.
Dear Friends,

I hope that you have had a chance to reflect on the Annual Catholic Appeal, which we spoke about last weekend, and upon your financial response to the Appeal.

In this Jubilee Year of Mercy, the Appeal is adopting the theme, which is: The Hands of God’s Mercy. God’s mercy flows not only to us, but through us. As recipients of God’s mercy, we are called to be bearers of the spiritual and corporal works of mercy to those who are in need. It is an amazing responsibility and extraordinary calling that draws us to reflection and prayer. Once we are touched and transformed by God’s mercy, we bring that gift of mercy to a world that desperately needs it. Our combined contributions help to make God’s mercy present to thousands of people in the Archdiocese of Chicago and throughout the world.

It is important that we realize and reflect upon the connectedness of our Church. Every time that we say the Creed, we reaffirm that fact that we are members of the One, Holy Catholic and Apostolic Church. Every one of us is part of the local Church and part of the Universal Church. Each of us is responsible not only for his or her parish, but also for the wellbeing of the Church throughout our Archdiocese and throughout the world. Since we are one community of believers, we are all asked to share our financial gifts to the Annual Catholic Appeal, thereby helping to provide Catholic education, ministry and services to the people, parishes and schools throughout our Archdiocese.

As we contemplate God’s many gifts to us, we should also reflect on our gratitude for these gifts. Our financial support for the work of our parish, our Archdiocese and the Church throughout the world is, in fact, one way to express this gratitude.

Jesus’ mission was to bring the mercy of God to this world. Our mission, as followers of Christ, is to walk in his footsteps and to be the hand of God’s mercy in this world. Whether in our family or workplace or community or the world at-large, by our presence, our words, and our actions we bring the healing and compassionate mercy of God to those who are broken, wounded, and in need. The Eucharist we celebrate together brings us to a living encounter with the merciful Jesus, and it empowers us to be the bearers of mercy to his people.

As a people steeped in gratitude, I hope our personal and shared awareness of how much God has done for us as individuals and as a parish will inspire us to generous giving.

May we continue to celebrate the many blessings God lovingly bestows on us.

Bury THE DEAD

Even in death, Jesus was vulnerable and dependent on the kindness of his disciples. To bury the dead is an act of mercy and respect. [Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus] took the body of Jesus and wrapped it with the spices in linen cloths, according to the burial custom of the Jews. (John 19:40)

4th Sunday in Ordinary Time

3  January 31, 2016
4th Sunday in Ordinary Time

"When the people in the synagogue heard this, they were all filled with fury." Why were these folks furious? Because they didn't like what Jesus told them. They took offense at his teaching that "no prophet is accepted in his own native place." Jesus was implying that his fellow Nazarenes in the synagogue were blind to who he really was. And this made them mad. They didn't like being told that they were wrong. But Jesus told them anyway. He knew that these people needed to hear the truth, even if it meant that he would be unpopular. In fact, he spoke the truth even at risk of his own life. "They rose up, drove him out of the town, and led him to the brow of the hill on which their town had been built, to hurl him down headlong."

It can be tempting to confuse Jesus' kindness and goodness with passivity, mistakenly imagining him as a person who would never ruffle any feathers because he was so concerned about being "nice." This one-sided image of Jesus can lead us to excuse our own passivity about the falsehood and evil that surrounds us. We can justify our silence or inaction by convincing ourselves that we shouldn't upset anyone. But the fact is that Jesus upset people on a regular basis. That wasn't his goal, of course, but he was willing to deal with resistance for the sake of truth and justice. And we should be willing to do the same.

Our world is growing more and more hostile to the message of the Gospel. When we simply live our faith authentically, it makes some people angry. But we should not recoil from this reality. Jesus' witness made people furious too. But when they got mad, he didn't cave in. Whether people like it or not, the truth does not change.

Take a close look at this Sunday’s Gospel story. Jesus has just finished reading the scripture that we heard last Sunday (“The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, he has anointed me to bring good news to the poor,” etc.). He tells the people in the synagogue that this scripture is now being fulfilled through him, and they all speak highly of him. But by the end of this scripture, they’re furious.

What changed their attitude?

Their awe turned into confusion when they remembered, “Isn’t this the son of Joseph?” Unlike those who would meet Jesus for the first time in later chapters of the story, these people had experiences with Jesus the toddler who fell when learning to walk, Jesus the teenager who bled from mistakes made while learning the carpentry trade from his father, Jesus the young man who wept at his father’s funeral.

Their attitude changed when they stopped listening with their spirits and started listening with their preconceived notions. This disconnect from the divine then stirred up their emotions.

Think of how people react when you confuse them by doing or saying something out of character, that is, out of the character that they expect from you. If you’re perceived as too young or too old to do what you are in fact capable of doing, or if your education level doesn’t include a formal degree that proves that you know what you do already know, or if you don’t tell people what they want to hear, their surprise turns into confusion that triggers an emotional response against you.

We expect them to believe us, and when they don’t, our surprise turns into confusion and self-protective anger. But how did Jesus handle it when they treated him this way? He calmly spoke a truth that was inspired by the Holy Spirit. Did he have an emotional reaction? Sure! He was human like us; we were all created by the Father to have emotions. The problem is not in the emotions; the problem occurs when we listen through our emotions instead of our spiritual connection to the Holy Spirit.

Reflect & Discuss:

1. How much time do you spend training your ear to hear the Holy Spirit within you?

2. When life is busy happening around you, do you mostly react to it or are you on some level praying about it?

3. What can you do this week to develop a more automatic connection to the Spirit of God?

4. What are some of the ways you listen to the Holy Spirit?

5. Keeping in mind a surprising challenge that happened to you recently, describe the differences between an emotional reaction and a spiritual action.
My teenage years were a time of considerable loneliness. I remember myself only too well as a teen, driven by restlessness, haunted by unspoken dreams, full of youthful grandiosity, unsure of myself, shuffling hesitantly in the stag-line at the local dance.

It was at this time in my life that I was fascinated by Shakespeare’s Hamlet. I read the play over and over again and watched it almost a dozen times at school. The figure of Hamlet spoke deeply to my mood at the time for I was restless and lonely and I admired precisely this kind of anti-hero – the loner, the figure haunted by deep melancholy, the man of secrets so paralyzed by the world’s infidelity that he himself could never be happy and dance. Hamlet provided me with this, someone enigmatically silent, apart from others, sarcastic, unhappily at odds with all that is warm, domestic, and normal. Youthful restlessness and grandiosity want this kind of hero, the archetypal trickster, the wounded romantic, the embittered Christ-child, and the hero who is alone. The man or woman who radiates this is the perfect idol for the lonely teen. Literature and movies thrive on just this kind of hero, the Clint-Eastwood-type Christ figure.

There is something perennially intriguing in this image. So it is no accident that we often project it onto Jesus and define him precisely as the enigmatic Hamlet, the loner, the man haunted by hidden dreams, the one unable to dance. This kind of image doesn’t just color the way teenagers think of Jesus, it is present as well, too much so, within our mainstream conception of Christ. Small wonder we often struggle to have a personal relationship with Jesus, to pray to him, and to have him as our confidant. Loners intrigue us, but what they radiate is the antithesis of the kingdom. No Hamlet inspires or invites prayer. We need an image of Jesus that does.

Philip Cunningham recently wrote a book on Jesus that he accurately entitled: A Believer’s Search for the Jesus of History (Paulist Press, N.J., 1999). What Cunningham does, and does very well, is to summarize the research of the major academic books on Christ that have been written in the last ten years as these pertain to what can be said about the actual person of Jesus. What can be said? What kind of person was the Jesus of history (as the person who undergirds the Christ of faith)?

Cunningham suggests that if we take the words of Luke (2:52) that describe Jesus’ hidden years (“He increased in wisdom and in years, and in divine and human favor.”) and read them in the light of Jesus’ public life a certain picture emerges. Far from being a loner and a Hamlet, everything about Jesus radiates the opposite. It seems that he grew up happily, quite comfortable in the rhythms of family, community, and rural life. When he began his ministry, he already knew how to celebrate at table with family, how to banter, argue, tell stories, share food, drink wine, and be part of the ordinary follies, tragedies, and joys of everyday living. All his preaching (whose very health and robustness set it apart) suggests that he, Jesus, was no stranger to intimacy, community, and enjoyment. The Jesus who stepped onto the world stage at age thirty, unlike Hamlet or any other tragic anti-hero, radiated a vigorous health, a capacity to fully share in community, an extraordinary resiliency, a rare capacity to forgive and let go, and an ability to enjoy life that could scandalize others.

As Cunningham puts it, by every indication, “he grew up in the midst of family, friends and fellow villagers. Like his father before him, he pursued the trade of a woodworker, but there were also animals to care for, most likely fields to cultivate, bartering to do, all the daily tasks that make up peasant life. … He was part of his world, not set apart from it. Later we will see him constantly surrounded by people. This did not mark a change in his lifestyle; he had lived that way for thirty years or more. Frequent scenes will show Jesus at table with disciples, even enemies, engaged in the banter that characterizes such gatherings. These were continuations of the “family” meals he had been part of during his hidden years.” (pp. 28-29)

Jesus has been depicted in many ways, more recently even as a laughing Christ whose laughter mocks death and tragedy. There is truth in that image, though we must be careful too to not make Jesus, who knew only too well the depth of loneliness and suffering, into someone who is distant from depression, exclusion, tragic circumstance, and death. On the other hand, we must be equally as careful not to confuse Jesus with Hamlet or any other tragic anti-hero who lives without the resiliency, hope, faith, forgiveness, capacity for enjoyment, sense of humor, and abandonment to the dance that come from believing in God and the resurrection.

Catholic Charities New Hope
Apartments: A Transitional Housing Program for Homeless Families

December, 2015 Update

Family #26
Our mom is still looking for a better paying job in her area. She likes her job, but she is not making enough money to make ends meet without the program. She is very hopeful and reports that she may have another job possibility in her field of medical billing. Her children are very stable and doing well.

While in the program the client will work on the following goals:
• find a higher paying job in her field
• apply for child support
• maximize savings
• pay off credit card

This family sends its gratitude for thinking of their family during the Holidays! Thank you so much!

Family #27
We have a New Family consisting of a single mom with a young son. They became homeless due to a low income status.

Our family is off to a great start. Upon coming into the program the client was unemployed. She recently got a job making $15 per hour as a purchasing assistant, which she really enjoys. Unfortunately, her car was repossessed last month and she has been using Uber for transportation back and forth to work. She has decided to buy another car to be paid in full as soon as she can save up the funding. Until that time comes, she will continue to use Uber and public transportation. Her son is in 3rd grade and he is adjusting well to the relocation. He was recently diagnosed with ADHD and is receiving services. Mom reports that he is responding well to therapy and medication. Mom was diagnosed with depression and is also receiving services. She reports the depression stems from her recent homeless situation and low income. Now that she is housed and working she is feeling better.

While in the program the client will work on the following goals:
• maximize savings
• buy a car
• continue to treat her depression
• continue to treat her son’s ADHD

This family was very grateful to be a part of your parish community’s extended family! Thanks so much for assisting this family over the Holidays!

New Hope sends a gracious Thank You to you all for your continued support!

A huge thank you to everyone who contributed their time and donations to our Community Life stocking stuffer project. Together, we were able to fill over 400 stockings for children.

The stockings were donated to the Community Advocacy Center, PHD, St. Al’s and St. Hubert Gift Program.

THANK YOU, THANK YOU!

SACRAMENTAL LIFE

Call the Parish Office 847-885-7700 for further questions or to make arrangements.

BAPTISMS

To register for Baptism, stop in or call the Parish Office. Parents must attend a Baptismal Preparation Meeting, which is held on the last Tuesday of each month at 7:30 PM. You may attend this parent meeting either before or after the baby is born. Baptisms take place on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of the month at 1:30 PM or at Mass by arrangement. You will confirm the date for Baptism by attending the Baptism Preparation Meeting.

MARRIAGES

Please do not reserve your banquet hall before confirming the date with the church. Set your date by calling the Parish Office as early as possible as you plan your wedding—at least 6 months before the wedding. Weddings take place on Saturdays at 2:00 PM. Weekdays and Sundays must be arranged individually.

RECONCILIATION

Saturday after 4:30 PM Mass, or by appointment.

EUCHARIST FOR THE SICK AND HOMEBOUND

If there is anyone who would like to receive Eucharist at home, or if you know a friend, neighbor or family member who is homebound and would like a home visit to receive Eucharist, please call the Parish Ministry Center. One of our dedicated ministers will be glad to fulfill these requests.

SACRAMENT OF THE SICK

Please call the Parish Ministry Center Office to make arrangements for a priest to visit.
