“Do not rejoice because the spirits are subject to you, but rejoice because your names are written in heaven.” - Lk 10:20
The Parish Pastoral Council is continually reviewing the Long Range Pastoral Plan. They suggested that we have articles about liturgy and music in the bulletin to help educate all of us about these two important subjects. Here is the fourth one.

Pastor's Letter:

Liturgy Corner: Why do we do that?

Part 4: Dismissing candidates of RCIA

RCIA stands for Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults. It is a process of forming Christians or, for the uncatechized baptized person, deepening a relationship with Christ. It is a process to convert a non-believer into a believer and disciple of Jesus. The rites are arranged toward bringing the unbaptized through one period of conversion after another leading to their Baptism, Confirmation, and Eucharist. While it is true that presently the Church has combined rites for marking the journey of both the unbaptized and those from another faith tradition, most rites are intended for the unbaptized.

Should baptized Christians seeking communion with the Catholic Church be dismissed from Mass while preparing for the sacraments of confirmation and Eucharist? At St. Hubert, why are you not seeing those who went through the Rite of Acceptance and Welcome this spring being dismissed from Mass after the homily?

The Rite makes it clear that the baptized have status as full members of the worshipping assembly. Our creed confesses “one baptism for the forgiveness of sins,” and all we do in the RCIA must honor this belief. We acknowledge that a person who was baptized in another Christian faith tradition already has a relationship with Jesus, and may be a hymn-singing, church-going, catechized individual. In these situations, a suitable catechesis on Catholic teachings and beliefs is all that is required and sufficient to those who wish to become a Catholic.

So, how does all this weigh on our decision regarding the dismissal of candidates at Mass? Those already baptized have a rightful place at Mass and are not in need of lengthy catechesis or profound conversion. At dismissal the unbaptized catechumens gather to break open the Word of God to learn how God has acted throughout history, to meet the person of Jesus, to be altered by the gospel, and figure out what it means for them to be a disciple.

Our candidates this year (those already baptized) though they may benefit from this experience, are simply not in the same place spiritually or lacking in catechesis. The purpose of the dismissal rite is not appropriate to their place on the journey toward full communion.

Others Those who protect us at home or overseas

Deceased Richard Shimon, Josephine Fitzgibbon
"The harvest is abundant but the laborers are few; so ask the master of the harvest to send out laborers for his harvest." Can we be counted among the laborers? Are we ready and willing to work for the sake of our faith, or are we looking for the easy way out?

Our faith is more than a personal experience. It's more than a routine that fits into our weekly schedule. Our faith is meant to be shared with others, even when that requires a bit of work on our part. In today's Gospel, Jesus calls his followers to "Go on your way," to prepare people for the Lord. And we are called to do the same. We are meant to go on our way-out of our homes, and even out of our churches-to share the good news of the Gospel and to serve those in need.

It can be tempting to think, "I believe, I go to church, isn't that enough?" But Jesus tells us that there is an abundant harvest out there-countless people who may just need to know that Jesus loves them or that someone is willing to help. If we don't step up to the task then those people will miss out on that word of encouragement, that personal invitation to Mass, that act of kindness that might have made all the difference in their life. God may be calling some of us to an even deeper commitment-to be a lay minister in a parish or to discern a religious vocation, for example-but there is no doubt that God is calling all of us to labor for his kingdom in some way.

This mission isn't for someone else. It's for us to carry out the work of the disciples because we are today's disciples. When we accept this mission, we will not only enjoy seeing the benefits that others receive, we will also rejoice with those whose "names are written in heaven."

St. Hubert Boy Scout Leader Recognized With Lifesaving Award

Steve Hoover, one of the Assistant Scoutmasters for our Troop 399 was recently presented with the Lifesaving Award by the Boy Scouts of America.

At the end of last year Steve was sitting in his desk at work when he heard a crash and a commotion. He heard someone say, “Call 911” and ask if anyone knew CPR. Steve said he did and took over the situation at that point. He quickly determined that the gentleman did not have a pulse and was not breathing. Steve then began CPR. After a few minutes the victim’s eyes opened wide and he took a huge gasp of air. Within a few more minutes, the gentleman regained consciousness and began talking.

Steve was submitted for the award and approved. He was presented with the award at an award ceremony a few weeks ago. Troop 399 is proud to have Steve Hoover as one of our leaders.

In this Sunday’s Gospel reading, Jesus tells his disciples to ask the “Master” (God the Father) of the “harvest” (conversion to Christ) to send out more “laborers” (evangelizers). And in the next breath, he tells them that they are the laborers and that they must get busy: “Go on your way,” he says.

When you think of evangelizers in the Catholic Church, who comes to mind first? Most of us think of priests, and we all know that we need more priests. Now vocations in Western societies are still way too few to compensate for the elderly ones who are retiring and dying.

Do you pray for an increase of vocations? Good, but that’s only part of what Jesus is asking us to do. “Go on your way,” he says to all of us, “and use your gifts, your talents, and your skills to assist in the harvest.

Jesus has always been collaborative. The number of laborers for the mission of the Church will only be sufficient when we all join the effort – clergy, religious, and laity – working together with our separate and unique talents and skills, humbly assisting each other as members of the same team.

To reach this sufficiency, many of us have to overcome the "someone else will take care of it" attitude. And some have to overcome the desire for perfection, the "I can take care of it better myself" attitude, which robs others of the opportunity to serve.

Many of us need to overcome the fear of losing control, the "I must tell others how to do their job" attitude, which chases away some very talented laborers. Jesus said we should carry no supplies into ministry, in other words: We should accept whatever is offered to us.

Our prayers for an increase of consecrated vocations are answered from within collaborative ministry. Clergy and religious who are good role models will attract new vocations, but the laity are called to serve God with the same zeal and holiness that we expect from priests, because out of families who serve come the holy priests and religious who serve.

Reflect & Discuss:

1. Which ministries in your parish are lacking sufficient laborers?
2. If doing the work of God’s kingdom, how can you use your talents to help? If you’re already serving enthusiastically, how can you encourage others to get involved?
3. Name some of the attitudes and obstacles that block the spirit of collaboration. How can these be overcome?
4. What will you do to improve the conditions of the mission field so that more people will get involved?
Recently I was part of a panel which was interviewing people who were hoping to enter full-time ministry in the church. One of the questions we asked everyone we interviewed was: “What, in your mind, is the greatest task facing the church today? What, in your dream of ministry, do you most want to accomplish?”

One man, when asked this, answered without hesitation: “The major task of ministry today is to bring people to accept Vatican II. Too many people are blocked in terms of renewal.”

That is a laudable answer, though, in my opinion, an unfortunate one. Too many of us, people who can still remember the pre-Vatican II church, are people who are dealing more with the past, our own and our church’s, than with the present and its real needs. Because of this we tend to confuse our own religious issues and wounds with the real religious needs of the world and most often end up missing the forest for the trees. Let me try to explain:

What is the greatest task facing the church today? What should ministry strive to bring about?

Long before Vatican II (or, indeed, the Vatican) is ever mentioned our task is to try to awaken within people the sense that God exists, that God is alive, and that, because of this, there is a challenge and a consolation that is deeper than they have ever imagined. Our first task in ministry is to tell people that they are being held, unconditionally and inescapably, in the hands of a living and loving God and that this God is delighting in them. Before anything else, we need to remind people that God is real and that, because of that, there is a deep goodness and sense to everything, including their own desires, temptations, and tortured sensitivities.

The rest of ministry flows from that. Somewhere, down the line, there will need to be talk, important talk, of church, of dogma, of denominational boundaries, of moral codes, of liturgy and worship, of authority structures and about who should be ordained, and perhaps even of Vatican II. But these latter things, all of them, are parasitical by nature, they take their blood out of some other life, in this case, from the life which appears when people realize that they are unconditionally loved and held by the source and origin of all life. As that realization sinks in, it will bring with it, slowly, the awareness that it is, after all, a demanding thing to fall into the hands of a living God and many of the things that Vatican II talked about will then become important issues. But that comes later.

Thus, the task of religion is to evangelize desire, to make the whole world and everyone in it understand existentially the truth and the implications of Augustine’s famous prayer: “You have made us for yourself, Lord, and our hearts are restless until they rest in you.”

As we look at our world today (and at our own children!) we need to be clear that this is our most important religious task. We need to evangelize our world’s desires by revealing the consolation and the challenge of God; otherwise the irresistible physicality, lure, and wildness of pagan beauty will continue to take away both the world’s breath and most of its capacity for virtue and worship.

The last quarter century has produced libraries full of valuable scriptural exegesis, good historical correctives to bad theology and corrupt ecclesiology, sensitive moral insights, and every kind of useful suggestion regarding theology and programs for sacraments and liturgy. What it hasn’t produced are an effective missiology and effective missionaries for a first-world context.

Yet that is what is perhaps most needed today, missionaries who can evangelize first-world desire. The harvest is ripe, but the Christian laborers (who are on the right track) are few … as is evident from the fact that more and more people are turning to New Age spiritualities, pagan philosophies, and various ideologies in an attempt to make sense out of their eroticism, their restlessness, their innate moral promptings, and their innate grandiosity and religiosity.

The human heart today, as much as in any other age, sincerely yearns for to feel both the consolation and the challenge of God. Offering that is religion’s birthright …and it is our first task as a church.

Definition of a Refugee

The international community agreed to a common definition of "refugee" in 1951 with the signing of the United Nations Convention on the Status of Refugees. The United States Congress legally adopted this definition when it passed the Refugee Act of 1980. This definition states:

A refugee is a person who has been forced to leave his/her homeland and is unable to return because she or he has experienced persecution or has a well-founded fear of persecution. Persecution can be related to race, nationality, religion, political opinions, or membership in a particular social group.

How do refugees differ from others who enter the United States?

A variety of different words are used when discussing newcomers to our country. Although the words are often used interchangeably, each term has a distinct meaning.

Refugees are people who have been forced to leave their own country because of persecution or a well-founded fear of persecution. Refugees are outside the borders of the United States when they request an opportunity to begin a new life in our country. Unless the situation in their country changes, refugees are unable to safely return to their homeland.

Asylees also flee their own country because of persecution. Asylees are also unable to safely return to their homeland. Unlike refugees, however, asylees are already within the borders of the United States when they request permission to stay. Asylees usually enter the U.S. with a temporary visa (visitor, tourist, etc.) and then request permission to remain permanently.

Immigrants are people who come to the United States for family or economic reasons. Immigrants choose to leave their own country, and can usually return safely at any time. Immigrants are allowed to permanently live and work in the United States if they have close family members already living here who are willing to sponsor them or if they have job skills that are in demand in the United States. The term immigrant is also used broadly to refer to anyone who has come to reside in the United States from another country.

Undocumented Immigrants (sometimes referred to as illegal aliens) are people who come to the United States for a variety of reasons, including fear of persecution, economic necessity, or to be close to family members. The difference between undocumented immigrants and other immigrants, refugees, or asylees is that undocumented immigrants enter the United States illegally, without official authorization to live and work here.

These terms refer to newcomers who intend to reside permanently in the United States. Another category of newcomers are those who enter the United States with a temporary visa to visit friends and relatives, travel or study. Most temporary visitors cannot legally work in the U.S. and must return to their homeland when their visa expires.

MONTH 7
Developing Baby

“I can look around!”
You are in the home stretch with your spiritually adopted baby. Beginning this month the baby uses all four senses. He can see, hear, taste, touch, cough, yawn and hiccup. He now recognizes his mother’s voice, and ultrasound reveals that he likes to open his eyes and look around. During this time he will also receive antibodies from his mother protecting him from a wide variety of diseases.

St. Hubert School students are collecting BoxTops to help raise funds for the school. These labels are found on many food products you have in your kitchen! Clip the labels and bring them to the School Kiosk in the Narthex of St. Hubert Church. Look for the drop area marked “BoxTops.”

THANK YOU!

Host a student!

Every year, St. Francis High School welcomes International Students from all over the world. We are always looking for loving and caring families to host these students. Families who host a student may be eligible to receive a stipend to cover the cost of extra living expenses. If you are interested or have any questions, please contact Beth Wiborg, Director of the International Student Program, at 630-668-5800, ext.1140.

“Journey to the Cross” is a fictional tale that takes readers on a journey from our Lord’s birth to his crucifixion. It is creatively told from the perspective of the donkey who carried Mary to Bethlehem and was with Jesus until the end. Though written and illustrated for young readers, this book is perfect for people of all ages who want a fresh, youthful perspective on the life of Jesus. The book’s message is imbued in the strength and simplicity of hearts that are linked to other hearts by Jesus.

This book is written by an amazing young man, 14 year old Shane Cloonan, a sophomore-to-be at St. Viator High School. Shane and his family have generously agreed to donate 40 percent of the proceeds from the sale of the book to Catholic Charities. Family #26
Recap: This family consists of an African American female with two daughters, ages 14 and 7 years old.

Our family is stable. The mom’s part time job that she works during the school year became full time for the summer. She will advocate for herself this summer to potentially work there year round. She is doing well and has applied for low income housing in Elgin. She is on the waiting list. Her children are enrolled in summer camp and they are enjoying the summer.

Family #27
Recap: This family consists of a Latino mom with a son.

Our mom is doing well, in spite of having a difficult time saving money due to continued car problems. Even though she recently purchased a car, it continues to bring her trouble. She has not been able to save because she seems to be continually paying for repairs. She reported that she plans on getting a second job as a bartender. She has experience and feels she will get the job so she can get back on track saving money. Her son is stable. He remains in therapy and is responding quite well to the therapist. He is enrolled at summer camp after qualifying for a discounted rate and is very happy!

New Hope sends their sincere gratitude to all the Parishioners of the Peace and Justice Cluster!

These families are very grateful for your unselfish giving.

Talking Up Your Flexibility
July 11, 7:00 - 9:15 PM
St. Hubert Ministry Center
729 Grand Canyon
Hoffman Estates, IL
One of the key traits employers are seeking is employees with flexibility. Changes in business and work requirements have placed a heavier burden on the workforce to be more resilient in day to day work. Kyra Cavanaugh, Career Coach will help us determine how we can show this trait in an interview and in our resume.

Resume Review
July 16, 9:00—11:00 AM
Church of the Holy Spirit
1451 Bode Road in Schaumburg, IL
Bring your resume for a one-on-one personal evaluation by one of six HR, Search, or Career Counselors who will be on hand to give you their thoughts and suggestions. Bring a friend.

Total Networking Night
July 25, 7:00—9:15 PM
Saint Hubert Ministry Center
729 Grand Canyon in Hoffman Estates, IL
This will be the third of four total networking evenings we’ll feature this year. This meeting will be entirely focused on networking. We will have three rounds of facilitated networking, with no featured career presentation. Bring plenty of Handbills, JIST cards and/or resumes to circulate, as you network with your elevator speech introduction.

For questions regarding the St. Hubert Job Ministry events, contact Bob Podgorski at 847-843-0020 or careerguy1@gmail.com.

FOR THE NEWCOMER: Join us at St. Hubert at 6:00 PM prior to our regular meetings. We’ll offer a one hour program on how to use a networking meeting effectively, the tools you’ll need such as; The Elevator Speech; How to do a Handbill; and how to generate the contacts you need.
