Farewell and Godspeed!

12TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME
JUNE 25, 2017
Pastor’s Letter

Dear Friends,

June is our last month of the fiscal year. We are having another second collection to balance the budget at the end of the month. Please use this opportunity to make up any collections you missed throughout the year due to travel or sickness. You may also send a donation to the Ministry Center and mark it “Balance the Budget.” Thank you.

As you can see on the bulletin cover we are saying farewell to 3 illustrious staff persons.

Yvonne Cassa has been Liturgy Coordinator here for 20 years. She is an accomplished author, speaker, and has given liturgical workshops in many dioceses. Most importantly, she worked for us at St. Hubert. Check out her letter on page 5.

Many people do not realize all the details involved with liturgy. In many parishes, you will see the Pastor very preoccupied before Mass to make sure everything is in order. We were very fortunate here because of Yvonne’s planning and delegation to Mass coordinators. Priest celebrants here have been able to take the time before Mass to pray and prepare spiritually for the celebration. This benefits all of us because the priest is more focused and prayerful.

Here are some examples of her involvement: RCIA, Liturgy Board, Liturgy Planning, Mass Coordinators, and all the liturgical ministries from ushers to servers. Each of these areas involves multiple emails, phone messages, pastoral care and many more tasks addressing things that occur throughout the year. I am especially grateful to Yvonne for her help with our church renovation. Our church would not look as good as it does without her input. Her liturgical expertise was and is invaluable. Thank you for sharing your skills, expertise and faith with us.

Vito DeFrisco, in my opinion, had the hardest job at St. Hubert. His hard work and determination with our faculty and staff brought our school to a Blue Ribbon status in 2014. During his 11 years here he had to deal with students, parents, teachers/staff, Pastor, the Archdiocese and State of Illinois regarding curriculum and school affairs. Most days were not his own, and his schedule frequently got disrupted because of some “crucial” issue at school. His professionalism was unsurpassed as he navigated through many turbulent waters, always bringing calm to the situation, and moving our school forward to the next level. We were very fortunate to have him as a principal and staff person. Thank you.

Marcia Larson served as Assistant Principal for the last 7 years. She worked so well with Vito that it was sometimes described as a Ying and Yang duo. Her talents complimented the principal. Her organizational skills helped communicate with parents and staff. She constantly worked with faculty on curriculum and was a big supporter of the importance of classroom time. Marcia has had more than 30 years of experience in education in both Catholic and public schools, where she shared her wisdom and knowledge. Her expertise in the area of education is a result of 2 Master’s degrees and her various roles in the field of education, especially all she learned at St. Theresa Parish and enhanced and shared here at St. Hubert.

On a personal note, I will truly miss these 3 dedicated staff persons. I have come to know them professionally and socially, and forever will be grateful for their commitment to St. Hubert Parish. They certainly made my pastoring much easier and fruitful. They taught me a lot about their area of expertise, and witnessed to our Catholic faith. Farewell, good and faithful servants. I know that God will continue to be with you as you witness to others on your journey of faith.

Others Those who protect us at home or overseas
Deceased Michael J. Schoop
"Even all the hairs of your head are counted. So do not be afraid." Can it really be true? Is our heavenly Father actually so aware of us? Does the Creator of the universe pay that much attention to ME? Jesus says yes. God knows us far more intimately than we even know ourselves. And so, we have nothing to fear.

Being Christian isn't guaranteed to be easy. More and more even in our own culture, following the faith is being criticized and discouraged in the public square. Privately, we may struggle with the demands of the commandments or the ability to believe when we face the inevitable trials that come our way. But passages like this one in today's Gospel are a source of tremendous hope and consolation. We are LOVED beyond measure. We enjoy the care and concern of God in every situation, big and small. Truly we have no need to worry or be anxious because God is in control.

For our part, of course, Jesus asks us to trust him and stay faithful. He asks us not to apologize for our faith, especially publicly. "Everyone who acknowledges me before others I will acknowledge before my heavenly Father." When we live our faith with confidence, it's a way of accepting the power and providence of God. But when we try to hide our faith away because we're afraid of causing problems, we only damage our relationship with the One who can actually solve them.

At the end of the day, the only really serious problem we need to worry about is losing our soul--and that, to be sure, is up to us. As the great French novelist Léon Bloy wrote, "There is only one tragedy in the end: not to have been a saint."
Good bye and Thank you

For some of us of a certain generation, we watched and remember the Carol Burnett show. At the end of her show she sang “I’m so glad we had this time together, just to have a laugh and sing a song.” That’s what I feel as I say good bye to you, my community of 20 years. Our time together was filled with too many moments, celebrations, and seasons to recount them all—though they fill my thoughts at the most unsuspected times and will visit me from my memories often. In that time together, you let me into your lives in so many ways, all of them privileged times—Sunday worship, laughs and sorrows, your homes, and your hearts. Thank you for entrusting me with your liturgy, a gift from the Church that I hope sustains you, and that you find peace with God and unexplainable joy in receiving Jesus.

We sang a song for sure—many in praise and thanksgiving. With this same gratitude, I thank you for all you have done for me, often times without being aware of what your prayers and presence meant at the time. I have experienced joys and trials in ministry and in my family with you to share and lift me up. My dear friend in faith reminded me that God tells us in scripture to rejoice in all things. I responded, of course I do, for God has given me many blessings of joy. She looked at me lovingly and said, “no, not just your joys, but your trials, too.”

Again, that’s how I leave you, the people of St. Hubert, with joy and sadness—those I know well, those I know without even knowing your name. Every one of you has mattered in my ministry and shaped me in serving God in this part of the vineyard. I hold precious my departed coworkers, yet who have left a lasting mark on my life and ministry: Deacon Tom Hayden, Lila Hayden, Linda Wittich, Mary Scheiber, Pat Jaeger. I pray you are enjoying the heavenly banquet.

A lesser known verse of Carol’s song is a lyric of the second verse “a time you put aside for dreamin’ and a time for things you have to do.” It is time for new beginnings, for me and for you. I am retiring with my husband, Kelly, to our home in Florida. Though a very different way of living, I look forward to whatever God has in store for us, ready to give thanks for both joys and trials together. We have wonderful neighbors and a good parish, St. John XXIII...how’s that parish name for a liturgist! I have been assured by another friend of faith that “God and good people are everywhere.”

You, too, my dear friends, are facing changes—a new pastor, principal and assistant, and eventually a new liturgy coordinator. All will be well for I have witnessed you navigate the curved path God has given you in the past 20 years. Be assured of my prayers for you and pray for me.

If you find yourself recalling a moment in time we had together or want me to pray for your need, I welcome your notes and email messages. Here is my address and email:

12\textsuperscript{th} Sunday of Ordinary Time

Think of a time when you were in darkness: a sin, for example, or when you felt abandoned by God or your prayers seemed dry and your spiritual gifts seemed covered over. What did Jesus say to you at that time (perhaps through scripture or friends or a homily at Mass)? What did his whisperings tell you? His words and his guidance were good news for you.

In today's Gospel reading, Jesus says: "What I say to you in the darkness, speak in the light."

He's calling you and commissioning you and empowering you, through his Holy Spirit, to share your good news with others, so that they can hear him in their darkness. Proclaim it boldly and visably so that those who want to hear it will stop and listen. Do not be afraid to openly share how Jesus has been working in your life and how he's helped you grow or heal or turn away from sin.

Yes, when we're this bold, some people ridicule us and reject us, like how Jeremiah was treated in the first reading. But the Lord is with you, too, as "a mighty champion," and your persecutors will eventually stumble and fall. Jesus tells us to "fear no one." God takes good care of us.

Jesus acknowledges those who acknowledge him. In other words, when we're insulted or persecuted for our faith, God holds us and comforts us. It's his opinion of us that matters anyway, and no one else's. Listen to him. In the whispers of the sanctuary of your heart, he's telling you all the good that he sees in you. He's telling you that he appreciates the good you have done. He's giving you good news worth sharing.

Reflect & Discuss:

1. What is your testimony? What did Jesus teach you when you were in sin or handling a recent difficulty? Write it down; this exercise will help you feel more confident when you try to share your story with others.

2. Practice sharing the testimony you realized during the above personal reflection: Proclaim it first to your community of friends who understand.

3. As you listen to the testimonies of others, encourage them. Tell them how their story helps you.

4. Make a commitment to go forth and spread the good news. What does this commitment look like? What will you do first to fulfill your commitment?
The opposite of belief is not non-belief, but anxiety. To not believe, to not have faith, is to be anxious in a particular way. What way?

We get a hint at an answer in Jesus’ rather-famous comment about the lilies of the field. He tells us to consider how the flowers of the field neither toil nor spin and yet nobody, no Queen or King in all of his or her royal glory, was ever arrayed like a simple flower in the field. Jesus ends this admonition with the words: “Don’t be anxious. No sparrow falls from the sky or a hair from your head, except that God notices.” What he’s saying here is this: “Your life will not go unnoticed, you will not be forgotten. Don’t be anxious about having to leave a mark for yourself. You don’t need to make an assertion with your life!”

Yet perhaps our deepest worry is precisely that we will be forgotten, that we will go through life unnoticed, unmarked by anything that is really special.

Chicago-based theologian, John Shea, uses a very simple example to help us understand this: Have you ever, he asks, gone to your closet to look for something and, while browsing through your closet, find an item of clothing (a pair of slacks, a shirt, a sweater, a blouse) that you’d completely forgotten that you still had. You’re genuinely surprised that this particular piece of clothing still exists because you’d completely forgotten about it.

In essence, that describes one of our deepest, inchoate fears: Somewhere below our conscious awareness, somewhere in the recesses of our being, we worry that one day God will look down on this earth and, with genuine surprise, see that you or I still exist and will exclaim in surprise: “My God, she’s still alive! I’d completely forgotten about her!”

That might sound fanciful, but it’s not. Where we experience this anxiety is not so much in some conscious worry that we’ve fallen off of God’s radar screen, but in the constant, restless, insatiable worry that our lives are insignificant, that we’re not leaving behind anything of permanence, that what we are doing isn’t important enough, that we aren’t special, and that we’re destined to remain small-town and small-time, unknown and forgotten, anonymous nobodies swimming in a sea of anonymity.

That’s why we are so driven to make an assertion with our lives. We live, as Thoreau puts it, “lives of quiet desperation”, striving constantly in a thousand ways to leave some mark behind by doing something that’s special enough so that, in some way, we create some immortality, however small, for ourselves. (“Plant a tree; write a book; have a child!”) Our fear is always: If I don’t guarantee a place for myself, who will?”

That anxiety, the Gospels tell us, is the opposite of faith, the opposite of believing in God. Why? Because when we’re anxious in this way it’s precisely because we do not trust that the God, who gave us birth, desire, and talent, will also give us significance, permanence, and immortality. Faith invites us to believe that our real significance is not to have our name put up on billboards among the Hollywood stars, but to have our name written in heaven, among the eternal stars. A place in God’s heart gives us a significance and a permanence that the hall of fame does not.

“Do not be afraid,” Jesus says, “everything that is hidden will one day be revealed.” A curious statement, given that all of us have done things we prefer others not to know. Shouldn’t we be afraid if all we have ever done will one day come to light?

But what Jesus is saying will be brought to light is not our hidden sin (“files on the road”, as Leonard Cohen says), but our hidden story, our hidden significance, our hidden specialness, our hidden dignity. We need not make an assertion of our lives and our talents so as to try to prove anything because God will prove it for us. We need only to trust, trust that God will give us the significance and immortality we cannot guarantee of ourselves.

Former baseball star, Reggie Jackson, once made this comment about himself (tongue-in-cheek, as was his colourful, humorous style): “I have to deal with the insubstantiality of me!” The problem is exactly the opposite (as I’m sure Reggie would admit): We have to deal always with the “insubstantiality of me”, the anxious fear that we’re insignificant, that we’re small, and that we’re destined to die and disappear. That fear is what gnaws away at our faith and can, on any particular lonely day when we feel awash in a sea of anonymity, have us believe that God is dead.

Because this anxiety, the fear of being forgotten, so drives us to assert ourselves, we pray each time we go to Eucharist: “Protect us from all anxiety as we wait in joyful hope for the coming of our Saviour, Jesus Christ.”

July?? Are you kidding me...it was just January with the snow piling up while we were slipping and sliding in our Eskimo coats! Now we're seeing temps. In the 90's and we're not too happy with that...I'd say "we're living the dream!"

I'm pretty excited that this article comes out right before the holiday begins. This means you will be shopping today or tomorrow for your picnic goodies. This article will be so fresh in your mind that all you will be hear is your inner voice saying, "Help the others...Help the others."

Happy and happier are good, but happiest is the best, that's when we see lots of food in the church hallway! Bag after bag on top of each other... We may even hear fireworks! OK, so it's not fireworks, it's just the bottom plastic bag popping from all the weight on it!!

Thank you,

Pegi Meegan

P.S.

Now that I mentioned it, I'm hearing all kinds of voices in my head... one is saying: you've got your point across, now say good bye... Collection dates are July 1st and 2nd......good bye

Catholic Charities New Hope Apartments:
A Transitional Housing Program for Homeless Families
May 2017 Update

Family #28
Our family is a single African American female with three sons ages 14, 10, 8, two daughters ages 9 and 16, and a newborn granddaughter. This mom was fleeing a domestic violence situation. She currently works as a part-time CNA and is looking for more clients.

Things are improving a little for this family. When our mom entered the program she applied for low income housing in various parts of the State. She has received feedback for potential housing options in Waukegan and in the South Suburbs. She will have a meeting with both options and decide which one will best meet her family’s needs.

She is still guardian and care taker for her granddaughter. The baby’s mother (client’s daughter) is back in the home and feels her mom caring for the baby is in the best interest of her daughter. Her other children are stable and they all made the honor roll!

Current Goals:
• Save at least 3 to 6 months worth of rent.
• Stay compliant with low-income housing program for a smooth transition.
• Continue to save for move (new apartment).

Family #29
Our mom is a single white female with a three year old son who became homeless due to low income status. While staying with her child’s father, they were not getting along, and they lived with his parents. Then, they stayed with friends for about two months before she went to the shelter in November of 2016.

Our mom is still doing great. She has not been technically promoted, but she is performing the general manager’s job. She reports that she has been supervising different locations for the last month and has a meeting with her supervisor soon. She thinks that is when she will officially be promoted. Things are getting better with her child’s father. He has been stepping up with caring for their son, and he recently got a job. He can now help with child support. She has not been able to save as planned because she has been focusing on paying off her debt. She has completely paid off her electricity bill, is back on a budget plan and it appears less stressful for her financially.

Current Goals:
• Save at least 3 to 6 months worth of rent.
• Continue to keep mental health stabilized—back in therapy.
• Find affordable childcare—secured baby sitter.

New Hope joins with these two families in saying THANK YOU for supporting our program!

LIVE THE LITURGY - INSPIRATION FOR THE WEEK
Jesus tells us today, "Fear no one." All of us have fears. Some of us may fear the future, change, rejection, being out of control, ridiculed, losing a cherished relationship, failure, and even sickness and death. We have no control over much that we fear. Anxiety and worry become a futile waste of time and serve only to impact the quality of life. Faith, which brings a trust in God's promise that he is with us, allows us to face whatever comes with courage and acceptance. While very difficult to do, this is exactly what we are asked to do.

SACRAMENTAL LIFE

Call the Parish Office 847-885-7700 for further questions or to make arrangements.

BAPTISMS

To register for Baptism, stop in or call the Parish Office. Parents must attend a Baptismal Preparation Meeting, which is held on the last Tuesday of each month at 7:30 PM. You may attend this parent meeting either before or after the baby is born. Baptisms take place on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of the month at 1:30 PM or at Mass by arrangement. You will confirm the date for Baptism by attending the Baptism Preparation Meeting.

MARRIAGES

Please do not reserve your banquet hall before confirming the date with the church. Set your date by calling the Parish Office as early as possible as you plan your wedding—at least 6 months before the wedding. Weddings take place on Saturdays at 2:00 PM. Weekdays and Sundays must be arranged individually.

RECONCILIATION

Saturday after 4:30 PM Mass, or by appointment.

EUCHARIST FOR THE SICK AND HOMEBOUND

If there is anyone who would like to receive Eucharist at home, or if you know a friend, neighbor or family member who is homebound and would like a home visit to receive Eucharist, please call the Parish Ministry Center. One of our dedicated ministers will be glad to fulfill these requests.

SACRAMENT OF THE SICK

Please call the Parish Ministry Center Office to make arrangements for a priest to visit.
