27th Sunday in Ordinary Time

“What will the owner of the vineyard do to those tenants when he comes?” - Mt 21:40

The Deep Need to Pray

On Monday morning we woke up to the reality of the terrible event that happened in Las Vegas. Like so many people have been telling me, almost immediately and instinctively—when we don’t know what else to do—we turn to God. We pray. It’s the best thing we can do.

We turn to the source of love and goodness.

As the week unfolds, we are beginning to hear the stories of courage and heroism. We are hearing how in the midst of chaos, pain and fear, there were people who risked their life to help lead people to safety and take care of the wounded. There is the incredible story of a man who used his own body—and gave his life—to save the life of his wife. The story of a father who instinctively laid down on top of his adult children to protect them as people around them fled—even running over the back of the father.

God is never in acts of violence and hate. That is pure sin. God is in the acts of love and goodness that protect life and come to the aid of those who need help. Just as fast as hate explodes, the human spirit responds with love. That’s where God is.

In St. Paul’s letter today, he says goodbye to the people of Philippi who he lived with, prayed with, and stayed with; he encourages them to keep doing the things that build up the human spirit, the acts of love and goodness that turn our hearts and minds to God through Jesus.

He encourages them to keep on doing the things that are true, noble, just, lovely and gracious. Those are the things of God and the ways we work to help one another in the midst of sin, chaos and doubt. As Paul says, it can lead to peace within us.

When we don’t know what else to do, we pray, which is an act of love and goodness. We give our prayers for compassion, concern and justice to God who hears the cry of the poor. It’s one of the best things we can do: to live in solidarity and concern for those who are in need.

The Need to Be Together and to Help the Hungry

The last two months have been some anxious times and it strengthens our desire to be together. We’re so grateful to our the Stewards Ministry for giving us the opportunity to celebrate the diversity and unity of our parish with “The Taste of St. Hubert.” We will enjoy this opportunity to get to know each other better and to spend time with one another.

I’m also blessed to report that, working together as a parish community, we have collected over 3,500 non-perishable food items to help stock the Catholic Charities food pantries through the Soup-er Stadium Challenge. In terms of the challenge, St. Hubert alone has filled almost 10 sections of the seats in Soldier Field! It is an expression of generosity, love and goodness of our parishioners, school families, Religious Ed. families and parish staff. We’re grateful to our St. Hubert School students who have taken on the responsibility of coordinating the drive and to Tom Binder and Ron Staffa—our maintenance crew—who helped with logistics. Together, we are actively helping to feed the hungry—the desire Jesus places within our hearts.

As we head into a new week, let’s continue to pray for each other, for unity and for peace,

Fr. Mike

27th Sunday in Ordinary Time

"Therefore, I say to you, the kingdom of God will be taken away from you and given to a people that will produce its fruit."

The chief priests and elders listening to Jesus must have been furious. After telling the parable about the tenants who abused the owner's property and killed his son, Jesus had a tough lesson to teach. He compared the Jewish leaders to these terrible tenants. They, like the selfish workers in the vineyard, were guilty of not respecting proper authority and of trying to seize control—not of grapes, in this case, but of religious matters. In short, they were not bearing fruit for God's kingdom, but only for their own prestige and privilege.

Before we spend too much time criticizing them, however, we would do well to examine ourselves. If Jesus were standing in our midst right now, would he have a similar warning for us? We may not be religious leaders, but we are like those tenants in many ways because we have been made stewards of the gifts of God. We receive his help and grace through the sacraments, for example. Are we good stewards of this grace, or do we take it for granted and fail to nourish it to produce good fruit?

And what about the personal gifts that God has entrusted to each of us? We all have certain skills, talents, experiences, and opportunities thanks to God's work in our lives. Do we make the most of these things or do we settle for the easy road? Do we thank God for them or consider them to be our own?

God has trusted us with a place in the world, HIS world. He is the ultimate authority here and all things we enjoy come from his hands. May we have the humility and gratitude to use his gifts for his glory and not just our own.

It takes a big heart to help shape little minds.

ONE CATECHIST IS NEEDED FOR CHILDREN’S MINISTRY OF INITIATION (CMI)
Sunday Mornings
8:45—10:15 AM
Small Class
Please contact Marie Staffa in the Parish Ministry Center
847-885-7700, ext. 124 or mstaffa@sainthubert.org.

It’s your responsibility!

It is said that St. Francis of Assisi once commented to his friars, "Go and preach, using words if you must." That same challenge is given to each one of us by virtue of our baptism. We are called to be witnesses of our faith and to share who God is in our lives with others. Whether we are aware of it or not, the way we live our lives, the way we give ourselves to others, speaks volumes to those who come into contact with us.

Perhaps someone you know has shared with you how you have touched their life or how they can tell that God is important to you. Perhaps some of these people have experienced an interest in learning more about your faith. Perhaps you would be interested in sharing more with others as a sponsor in the RCIA process.

The RCIA offers participants the opportunity to reflect on the scriptures and discover how those scriptures apply to their lives; to look at the teachings of the Church; and to grow in faith through prayer and community. If you know someone who might be interested in this process, please have them call Marie Staffa for an initial conversation.

Call Marie Staffa at 847-885-7700, ext. 124 or email her at mstaffa@sainthubert.org.

Being a Knight is more than camaraderie: it is being involved with your community and it’s supporting St. Hubert Parish, while enhancing your own faith. It’s about protecting and enhancing your family life. On Saturday, October 14th and Sunday, October 15th, the Knights of Columbus will be here at St. Hubert Church to answer any questions you may have. Good teachers provide good answers, but exceptional teachers ask great questions

Did you ever think that Jesus seemed to be more interested in questions than giving answers? When people asked Jesus a question, often he gave them a question back. In fact, he hardly ever gave a direct answer to anything. In the Gospels, Jesus asks over 100 questions. Jesus used questions throughout his ministry, not to find out something he didn’t know, but to probe into people’s deepest, most unsettled spaces.

Come join us for three evenings as we listen to the questions first-century listeners were asked.

We will look at how Jesus asks us the same questions for us in our own spiritual growth. In our spiritual lives, each question draws us into a greater understanding of God. At the same time, each question probes deeper into the unsettled spaces within our life.

Jesus loved questions. We should, too.

To those of you who haven’t yet volunteered their time for the parish, it is strongly recommended that you give it a try. Just drop in and chat with Marie Staffa and learn about the various ministries available.

Most groups are run very informally. It is very easy to just assume that things will happen without stopping to consider who does these "things" - such as, welcoming new parishioners, bringing communion to a homebound person, or being a catechist.

If you want to become a volunteer minister please contact Marie Staffa at 847-885-7700, ext. 124 or email her at mstaffa@sainthubert.org.

“The kingdom of God is given to those who produce its fruit.” That's the moral of the story that Jesus gives us in this Sunday's Gospel reading.

And what is this kingdom of God, given to us while we're still on earth? What are its fruits, which we produce during our earthly lives?

Anything we do in imitation of Christ is a fruit that has grown while we're following Christ on our journey toward Heaven. If we love as he loves, forgive as he forgives, minister to others, teach the truth, and heal the hurting, we are living in the kingdom of God now.

When I ask Catholics if they believe they're going to Heaven, most feel very uncertain, either because they're afraid they might lose their salvation through some future grave sin, or because they're afraid it's not humble enough to answer with a firm "yes."

Granted, we do not imitate Christ perfectly. Most of us will need to spend time in Purgatory being purged of whatever is unheavenly about us, but when the purging is finished, we’ll be fully alive in the wonderfullyness of God.

If we make it to Purgatory, of course we'll reach the glories of Heaven. And if our desire to be Christ-like is genuine, Jesus will help make sure that our sins will never be so "grave" that we turn completely away from Heaven. We'll gladly embrace him when he comes for us at the moment of our death.

Whatever you do because of Christ and out of love for Christ, this is evidence that you are living in and will eternally live in God's kingdom.

Reflect & Discuss:

1. What good fruits are you producing in your life now? List them; get out a pen and start writing them down. During the week, as you think of more good fruits, add those to the list.

2. Look at the list you produced for the above question. How do these fruits give evidence of God's goodness within you?

3. How do they provide the kingdom of God for the benefit of others?

4. How do they assure you that you are truly a Heaven-bound follower of Christ?
Several years ago, late on a Sunday night, I received an email from one of my nephews. Three of his close friends had just been killed in a senseless automobile accident. He was beside himself with grief, and with questions: “Why?” “What does one say in a situation like this?” “What do you say to their families?”

I’m old enough to know that there are no simple answers to those questions at a time like this. Those questions are hard enough to answer when the person who has just died has lived a long, full life and has died with loved ones holding his or her hand and giving permission to let go and move on. They are paralyzing in the face of this kind of tragedy, a senseless accident where someone’s carelessness takes three young people out of this world in a totally unnecessary fashion.

So what does one say in the face of this?

Initially, for the first days after a tragedy of this kind, there is almost nothing we can say that is helpful. We have the words we need, drawn from our faith: “They are with God!” “We believe in the resurrection!” “They are in gentler hands than ours!” “They are still alive in another place!” “We will meet them again some day!” Those words eventually will bring the consolation they contain, but in the first hours and days after a tragedy they don’t carry their full power or sometimes much power at all; not because they aren’t true, but because, like a seed, they need time to take root and grow.

But, because our words are inadequate, doesn’t mean that there is nothing we can do. What’s needed more than our words is our presence, our sharing in the helplessness, and our sharing in the waiting. In the first hours and days that follow a tragedy we don’t need to speak a lot, we need to touch a lot. We simply need to be there.

Moreover the words that we do speak need to honor how deep and resistant to consolation the wound is. They should not be an untimely balm, good medicine but bad timing. They must speak honestly to the senselessness of the situation and how disconsolate it leaves us. I like the words that Rainer Marie Rilke sent to a friend who was beside himself with grief: “Give that heaviness back to the earth; the seas are heavy, the mountains are heavy, the earth is heavy.”

When we are in the middle of a storm we shouldn’t pretend that the sun is shining or, indeed, that there is anything we can do to stop the storm. The task is to wait it out, together, hand in hand, offering each the assurance that we aren’t alone.

Waiting it out is precisely what is required. The Book of Lamentations tells us that there are times and seasons when all you can do is “put your mouth to the dust and wait.” That’s bitter, stoic advice, but it imparts real hope rather than false optimism. What it tells us and draws us to is the fact that, right now, for this immediate time, this pain must be borne, however crushing. There is nothing to be done. Consolation will come eventually, but it must be waited for and, in the meantime, we need to keep “vigil”. And that is why we call the service before funeral a “vigil”. We gather not just to celebrate the deceased life, but to, together, “put our mouths to the dust and wait.”

And that waiting can be very painful, a time when we see everything through the dark prism of our loss and where for awhile we sincerely believe that we will never find joy again. This kind of waiting brings to the surface a frightening kind of loneliness that reveals to us how fragile and vulnerable it all is.

But that is exactly what we need to accept and process. And so we shouldn’t be afraid to feel afraid, nor despair about feeling despair. Neither negates courage or faith. As Kierkegaard put it, “courage isn’t the absence of despair and fear but the capacity to move ahead in spite of them.”

We believe in life after death, in the resurrection, in the communion of saints, and in God’s infinite tenderness and mercy. Faith can be trusted. What it tells us is true. In the end there is consolation. However our God, it would seem, doesn’t always save us from tragedy, but instead eventually redeems tragedy. Jesus didn’t save his friend Lazarus from death, he raised him up from death after he had died. In the end, no doubt, “all will be well, and all will be well, and every manner of being will be well”, but in the meantime, especially in those moments right after tragedy, senseless accidents, senseless deaths, and senseless loss of all kinds, the consolation and peace of God have to be waited for and we are meant to do that, hand in hand.

The world has changed. The modern presentation of personhood has challenges that didn’t exist in the past. Today teens are given conflicting messages on a daily basis, and an approach based simply on rules to be followed is not enough. They need to know that not only is each teenager a unique, unrepeatable gift of God, but so also is their sexuality, and all aspects of their lives.

Call the Parish Office 847-885-7700 for further questions or to make arrangements.

BAPTISMS

To register for Baptism, stop in or call the Parish Office. Parents must attend a Baptismal Preparation Meeting, which is held on the last Tuesday of each month at 7:30 PM. You may attend this parent meeting either before or after the baby is born.

Baptisms take place on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of the month at 1:30 PM or at Mass by arrangement. You will confirm the date for Baptism by attending the Baptism Preparation Meeting.

MARRIAGES

Please do not reserve your banquet hall before confirming the date with the church. Set your date by calling the Parish Office as early as possible as you plan your wedding—at least 6 months before the wedding. Weddings take place on Saturdays at 2:00 PM. Weekdays and Sundays must be arranged individually.

RECONCILIATION

Saturday after 4:30 PM Mass, or by appointment.

EUCHARIST FOR THE SICK AND HOMEBOUND

If there is anyone who would like to receive Eucharist at home, or if you know a friend, neighbor or family member who is homebound and would like a home visit to receive Eucharist, please call the Parish Ministry Center. One of our dedicated ministers will be glad to fulfill these requests.

SACRAMENT OF THE SICK

Please call the Parish Ministry Center Office to make arrangements for a priest to visit.
