33rd Sunday in Ordinary Time

“The one who had received five talents came forward bringing the additional five. He said, ‘Master, you gave me five talents. See, I have made five more.’” - Mt 25:20

Everyone is Good at Something!

Today’s gospel includes the “Parable of the Talents.” A “talent” is equal to a sum of money. The commentators argue exactly how much it is—such as 15 years of wages, a million dollars, etc.—but they do agree on one thing: it was a huge amount. So the rich man’s investment in the three people he trusted was significant. He gave them talents based on their abilities.

In our modern world, the use of the word “talent” has come to mean the things that we’re naturally good at. We don’t equate it with money anymore, although many people who are talented in sports, acting, business, you name it, can get paid quite well.

Instead, “talent” has come to mean a natural ability to do something well. And it’s valuable because when talents are used best, their value doubles: it not only benefits the talented person, but also those who are enriched by them.

One of the morals of the parable is to invest in the talents we’ve been given. It’s so important to God—the One who gives them to us in the first place—that he will hold us accountable if we bury them instead of use them. That makes sense because the Christian life is always outward directed. When we share what we’re good at, God’s investment in us blossoms.

What are My Talents?

That of course can lead to the question of knowing what our talents may be. It’s obvious for some, but can be hidden for others. One thing’s for sure: we’re all good at something.

During the last few months, the parish and school staff have been engaged in an assessment tool that’s effective at discovering our individual talents. The tool is called StrengthsFinder, which was developed by the Gallop Organization. It was initially designed for the business world, but has also been adapted, interestingly, for use in Christian churches. There is a Catholic version called Living Our Strengths which helps identify what talents we have that can be used to build up parish life.

The basic premise is that all of us are naturally talented in certain areas. Once we discover what they are, we can build upon the talents and strengths of each other—not to compete, but to build up the Body of Christ in our world and within our own church and school. The assessment tool is helping us work stronger and more effectively with one another. It’s helped us know and appreciate each other better, value and understand one another’s strengths, and most importantly, will help us as we build upon the strengths of St. Hubert.

The parish and school staffs are a talented group, no doubt. But a little bit of self-knowledge—and awareness of how we compliment the gifts of each other—go a long way to knowing we’re working on the mission of our parish: being God’s people, becoming God’s people, and building up God’s people.

May God bless you in the ways you share your talents with others,

Fr. Mike

33rd Sunday in Ordinary Time
33rd Sunday in Ordinary Time

"But the man who received one went off and dug a hole in the ground and buried his master's money." This servant was scared. He didn't want to take any risks and just wanted to play everything safe. As he confesses to his master, "Out of fear I went off and buried your talent in the ground." And the master was not pleased. The other servants who invested the money he gave them were richly rewarded for their efforts to produce more. But this servant was punished for letting his fear rule the day.

What factors are keeping us from making a return on God's investment in us? He has given us all life, and each of us also has a special collection of "talents" to make use of. We have certain gifts, skills, experiences, resources, and abilities that (though we may not often think about it) come from God. He calls us to make the most of these things, not just to take them for granted or bury them in the ground, so to speak. Our gifts are meant not just for our own enjoyment, but to help others, to spread truth and goodness and beauty to the world around us.

Sometimes, however, we fail to really capitalize on our potential. Laziness, distraction, or self-pity can get in the way if we are unwilling to put in the hard work to improve our natural gifts, if we allow ourselves to zone out with entertainment or frivolous pastimes instead of making good use of the time entrusted to us, or if we wallow in negativity by focusing on what we don't have instead of embracing what we do.

On Sunday November 19th we celebrate Rite of Welcome and Acceptance at the 9:00 Mass.

A little history…. This is the first of the public rituals celebrated in the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (RCIA) process. The Rite of Acceptance into the order of Catechumens (for unbaptized Catechumens) and the Rite of Welcome (for baptized adult candidates preparing to celebrate Confirmation and Eucharist in the Catholic Church). An important moment in the Rite is when each candidate is asked if they are ready to accept the Gospel Way of Life. Their affirmation is a public expression of their intention to follow the way of Jesus Christ. The candidates are marked by the sign of the cross by Fr. Mike and their sponsors. With this ancient mark, they are claimed for Christ.

As the assembled Church, we celebrate this ritual by blessing our Inquirers, listening to them, praying for them, giving evidence of the spirit of our Christian community, inviting them into our hearts, and passing on to them our beliefs, traditions, and all that we hold sacred and cherish. Please keep our Catechumens and Candidates in CMI and RCIA your thoughts and prayers in the coming months.

This year in RCIA we do not have anyone who is unbaptized; however, we do have two children in CMI that will be baptized at the Easter Vigil. We will soon post photos and bios of our new candidates and catechumens in CMI and RCIA on the kiosk of the Narthex.
Food Drive
NOVEMBER 18 & 19

This is not just about providing a nice Thanksgiving meal. Food is needed by families to go beyond a one-day celebration.

We urge you to bring as much healthy staple food as you can to help feed families in need.

BOY SCOUT CHRISTMAS WREATHS
It’s time to start planning your Christmas decorating.
Boy Scout Troop 399 will be selling Christmas wreaths after all Masses this weekend, November 18 & 19.

Let’s Go Christmas Caroling!
Please join us for an old fashioned caroling experience. We will gather on Monday, December 4 at 6:30 PM in the Narthex of the church. As we walk the close-by neighborhood and offer our songs to willing listeners, we will gift them with candy canes. After warming the hearts of our neighbors, we will return to the narthex and warm our noses and toes while enjoying hot chocolate and cookies. We can promise easy to read music sheets and a truly enjoyable time, so please plan to join us and sing along. All are welcome – adults and children too. We look forward to seeing you there!

O God of all things in heaven and on earth, you give all your people in the world the gift of life, the gift of family, the gift of work, and the gift of rest.

On this, our national day of Thanksgiving, we turn all our thoughts to you, from whom all blessings flow.

Bless all our work, our friends, and our families both near and far. We humbly ask for the ability to continue our work for your kingdom and the ability to gather freely to worship you without fear.

We ask you to give our years ahead your blessing and protection.

We ask all this through Christ the Lord, your Son and our brother.

Amen.

Some Facts Regarding Domestic Violence
No one deserves to be in an abusive relationship!!!

- Domestic/dating violence is a pattern of controlling behaviors that one partner uses to get power over the other. This includes physical violence or threat of physical violence, emotional or mental abuse and sexual abuse.
- Emotional abuse is far too prevalent in our communities, and can inflict deep scars on those caught in an up-and-down cycle of belittling and aggressive behavior.
- Domestic violence is still the leading cause of injury to women aged 15 to 44.
- Thousands of women and children find refuge in domestic violence emergency shelters and transition housing each day.
- The costs of domestic violence amount to more than $37 billion a year in law enforcement involvement, legal work, medical and mental health treatment, and lost productivity at companies.

We, the general public, have a moral obligation to recognize and help stamp out domestic violence. We must speak up when we see signs of physical or emotional abuse. We need to encourage and empower the ones affected to report offenses.

Anyone affected by domestic violence should seek help. Start by calling the Domestic Violence Helpline at 877-863-6338.

33rd Sunday of Ordinary Time

Proverbs 31:10-13, 19-20, 30-31
Ps 128:1-5
1 Thessalonians 5:1-6
Matthew 25:14-30

This Sunday's Gospel reading reminds us not to bury the gifts that God has given us. To do so is to be a "wicked, lazy servant!"

Ouch.

We all have at least one buried talent. There's more we could be doing for the kingdom of God, but we think: "Not me. I'm not gifted enough" or "Someone else can do it better" or "God can't be telling me to do that" or "I don't have the time, the financial resources, the know-how, or good enough health".

There's no holy excuse for wasting anything good that God has given us, but sadly it happens quite often, because we don't realize how necessary our talents are for the Church and our joint mission of spreading Christ's influence upon the world.

What's pushing your gifts and talents aside? What's interfering with your usefulness to the kingdom of God? Now is the time to open wide your potential and release your talents into God's plans!

We are all gifted "enough" to make a difference for God's kingdom, because our abilities come from him.

We're his servants, and it's up to him, not us, to decide what we're capable of doing. Even the homebound and the bedridden have a divine purpose that can be accomplished in their circumstances and sufferings. Often, these precious people are very powerful prayer warriors and have some of the soundest wisdom on earth.

Have you wondered: "If God is so good, why does he allow evil?" The answer is: It's we who allow it! We are the Body of Christ on earth. We are his hands and feet and vocal chords. Jesus wants to make our world more heavenly; he does it through us.

Reflect & Discuss:

1. What good have you done? Hear God assuring you: "Well done, my good and faithful servant! Since you were faithful in small matters, I will give you greater responsibilities. Come, share your Master's joy!"

2. What "greater responsibilities" can you say yes to using the gifts that he's provided? What's stopping you from saying yes?

3. How would you recommend, based on your experiences, that Christians invest the gifts of God?

4. How do you identify (a) your giftedness and (b) God's purpose for it?
We are drowning in a sea of voices.

Superficially, we see this in advertising. Everywhere around us, billboards, radio, television, newspapers, magazines, the internet, and the fashion industry, hold out the promise of something better for us – a new soap, a new lover, a new philosophy of life.

More deeply, however, we experience this sea of voices as a great tension. The different voices we hear pull us in many directions and, after a while, we’re no longer sure who we are, what we believe in, or what will bring us life. Different voices tell us different things and each voice seems to carry its own truth.

On the one hand, there’s a powerful voice beckoning us towards self-sacrifice, self-renunciation, altruism, heroism, telling us that happiness lies in giving life away, that selfishness will make us unhappy, and that we will only be ourselves when we are big-hearted, generous, and put the needs of others before our own. Deep down, we all know the truth of that, it’s Jesus’ voice telling us that there is no greater love, nor meaning, than to lay down one’s life for others. Francis of Assisi was right, we only receive by giving. And so we admire people who radiate that and we feed our souls and those of our children with stories of heroism, selflessness, and bigness-of-heart.

But that’s not the only voice we hear. We hear as well a powerful, persistent voice seemingly calling us in the opposite direction. Superficially, this is the voice calling us towards pleasure, comfort, and security, the voice that tells us to take care of ourselves, to drink in life’s pleasures to the full, to seize the day while it’s still ours to seize.

More deeply, this is the voice that challenges us not to be too timid or fearful to be a full human being. This voice invites us to participate in, contribute to, and enjoy the wonderful energy, colour, wit, intelligence, and creativity that makes the world go round and makes life worth living. This is the voice beckoning us towards romance, creativity, art, sex, achievement, physical health, the voice telling us Jesus’ parable of the talents and holding before us a truth too often neglected in religious circles, namely, that God is also the author of eros, colour, physical health, wit, and intelligence. Life, it insists, needs to be tasted, in God’s name.

So which is the real voice? Is one of these voices to be heeded and the other resisted?

This is a complex question and there’s more to it than meets the eye. Historically, the temptation, at least in religious circles, has been to over-simply identify the voice of Jesus with the voice that calls us toward self-sacrifice and asceticism: “Everything is about self-renunciation!” Indeed, it is. Jesus did say that, as did every great saint.

But Jesus and those others also said more and our failure to take heed of the rest of what they said has sometimes made for a spirituality that is a half-truth with some nasty consequences, namely, in the name of religion, we have sometimes become unhealthily fearful, timid, and guilt-ridden. Whenever this happens, the other voice, the one inviting us to enter more fully into life’s dance of energy, is not blotted out but driven underground and there, because we have neglected part of what God has called us to, instead of becoming martyrs, we become people with “martyr-complexes”, frustrated persons whose energies become negative and manipulative in the name of love and service. Moreover, in the name of this half truth, we often end up having God fighting God, truth fighting truth, wisdom fighting energy, and spiritual health fighting physical health, because we’ve put self-renunciation in false opposition to the challenge to also enter into the wonderful God-given energy of this planet where beauty, romance, creativity, physical health, wit, wine-drinking, and good humour also extend part of God’s authentic invitation.

How to find a balance in all of this? If both voices invite us to truth and yet they seem in opposition to each other, where do we go with this?

There is no simple truth, here or anywhere else. Truth is painfully complex (as are we) and truth is always bigger than our capacity to absorb and integrate it. To be open to truth is to be perpetually stretched and perpetually in tension, at least this side of eternity. And that’s true in terms of the seeming opposition between these voices. At times they are in real opposition and we can’t have it both ways, but have to choose one to the detriment of the other. Truth has real boundaries and there’s a danger in letting it mean everything. But there’s an equal danger in letting it mean too little, of reducing a full truth to a half-truth – and nowhere, at least in the spiritual life, is this danger greater than in our tendency to let either of these voices completely blot out the other.

Thomas Merton’s Practice for Contemplative Prayer

“When living contemplatively begins with one’s self, it invites us to be active participants in the world around us. We are led to embrace not only our true self but to deepen our relationships with God, humanity, and all of creation.”

Thomas Merton taught his novices a way of praying that allowed them to enter the school of wisdom provided by their most personal experiences. We will explore the spiritual teachings of Thomas Merton. An emphasis will be given to Merton’s insights into the contemplative path along which we learn to live in habitual awareness of God’s presence. We will examine key texts from Merton’s writings featuring the monk’s understanding of the value of his relationships with others as guidance for creating his own destiny to love and seek God. Our hope is that this evening will lead us in a new way of meditation as a practice for ourselves.

Sacramental Life

Call the Parish Office 847-885-7700 for further questions or to make arrangements.

Baptisms
To register for Baptism, stop in or call the Parish Office. Parents must attend a Baptismal Preparation Meeting, which is held on the last Tuesday of each month at 7:30 PM. You may attend this parent meeting either before or after the baby is born.

Baptisms take place on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of the month at 1:30 PM or at Mass by arrangement. You will confirm the date for Baptism by attending the Baptism Preparation Meeting.

Marriages
Please do not reserve your banquet hall before confirming the date with the church. Set your date by calling the Parish Office as early as possible as you plan your wedding—at least 6 months before the wedding. Weddings take place on Saturdays at 2:00 PM. Weekdays and Sundays must be arranged individually.

Reconciliation
Saturday after 4:30 PM Mass, or by appointment.

Eucharist for the Sick and Homebound
If there is anyone who would like to receive Eucharist at home, or if you know a friend, neighbor or family member who is homebound and would like a home visit to receive Eucharist, please call the Parish Ministry Center. One of our dedicated ministers will be glad to fulfill these requests.

Sacrament of the Sick
Please call the Parish Ministry Center Office to make arrangements for a priest to visit.
If you have provided for St. Hubert in your will, please let us know by contacting Father Rizzo.
