4th Sunday in Ordinary Time

January 28, 2018
To Be Astonished

In the gospel today, Mark tells us how the people were astonished at Jesus’ teaching. They saw someone who didn’t have to rely on other people’s thoughts or ideas about God, but relied on his own authority to talk about God directly.

Of course, we know why all these years later. But at that time, people were just getting to know him, and it was an exciting time. They discovered someone who connected them to God.

In our own faith journey, at times we’re blessed with the same kind of insight. We hear something Jesus says in the gospels, and it hits us as if it were meant exactly for what we’re going through or needed to hear. Jesus’ authority is suddenly felt.

The past couple of weeks or so, I’ve heard some stories from parishioners of what we call “God-incidences”—those moments in life that seem not to just be coincidences, but instances of God’s involvement. It really is astonishing to hear.

We’re comforted when we need it. Or we’re given the insight to solve a difficult problem or to resolve a situation. Or through God’s creative means, we’re assured in some way that through Jesus Christ, God is absolutely with us.

The Good News is that Jesus will continue to astonish us—especially when we take his advice and keep our ears and eyes open.

2020 Vision

It won’t be as astonishing as the gospel, but this weekend at the Masses I’ll speak briefly about the proposed campaign for St. Hubert Parish. Together with the Parish Pastoral Council, Finance Council, Parish Staff (especially Teresa McCutchan, our Business Manager), and the help of a professional consultant, we’ve developed a working plan for some important and necessary projects that can take us well into the 2020’s.

Today I’ll give you some background information. Next week we’ll outline the proposal in the bulletin and go over the main components. Then the week after, you’ll have an opportunity to give us your input about the plan.

The plan is something very practical that is meant to help us maintain and preserve all that we’ve built, renovated, and invested in over the years. It will also help us meet some expectations we have as being part of the larger Church and an important part of the Village of Hoffman Estates.

Come See St. Hubert Catholic School!

Our principal, Kelly Bourrell, and a team of teachers and staff have created a week of activities to celebrate Catholic Schools Week, beginning with an Open House on Sunday from 10 AM—Noon. We’re proud of our school and our students, who aren’t just learning about the incredible world God created and all there is to study, but also about what it means to be a disciple of Christ and how to be community—something that’s such an important part of the St. Hubert culture. You can learn more about our school at sthubertschool.org.

As we journey this road together, may God bless you in the week ahead,

—Fr. Mike

Luke's Gospel is the only one to mention the Presentation of the Lord in the Temple. What is Luke trying to communicate here and what connection does it have with Mary?

February 2 is exactly forty days after December 25, the nativity of Jesus. Jewish law (Ex 13:2, 12) dictated that Jesus, as the firstborn, be consecrated to God. This was done by the parents as they presented their Son in the Temple.

Jewish law further specified (Lv 12:2-8) that a mother was ritually impure after giving birth, and that she had to wait a set period of time (forty days for a boy) before she was to offer a sacrifice to the Lord for purification.

The convergence of these two Jewish regulations occasions Luke's account of both the Presentation of the Lord and the Purification of Mary. These days the liturgical emphasis is more on the Presentation of Jesus. Luke highlights the role of Simeon and Anna, two righteous Jews who recognized Jesus as the long-awaited Messiah and praised God for being able to see and experience such a marvel in their lifetimes.

Simeon's prayer concerning the special role of Jesus states that Jesus is "a light for revelation to the Gentiles." This phrase eventually originated the custom of blessing candles on this day which were to be used in the ceremonies, rituals, and processions throughout the church year. Thus February 2 is also known as Candlemas Day. This day is indeed a rich feast to be savored.

This Sunday’s Gospel reading illustrates the authority of Jesus. If we truly accept and understand his authority over our lives, we can rejoice in the Lord even when life hands us hardships.

Why? Because we know that Christ's authority is supreme, which means that everything we've placed under his authority will produce good fruits. Even bad situations will be transformed into blessings. Tragedies will be changed into triumphs. Sorrows will be transfigured into joy. Frustrations will lay the groundwork for new growth, new knowledge, and a greater ability to minister to others.

However, if we reject Christ's authority by acting as if we're the ones in charge, deciding for ourselves how to end a problem or how and when to escape from a hardship, our problems will only get worse. This is called "moral relativism." Pope Francis wrote in his Apostolic Exhortation on the Gospel of Joy (Evangelii Gaudium, paragraph 64) that this leads to a feeling of disorientation instead of joy.

The path to joy has been forged by the footsteps of Jesus. To benefit from his authority over evil and over human sufferings, we have to follow his example and obey his teachings. This means choosing to trust him, realizing that his ways are the best ways even when they're unpleasant ways. It means that we're willing to reach resurrection glory by going through the cross with Jesus.

There are no successful shortcuts to the triumphant victory that awaits us. There is no easy way to overcome evil. If this were not true, Jesus wouldn't have needed to die on a cross.

The good news – the reason why we can rejoice – is that the most loving, most powerful, most wise One in the universe is using his supreme authority on our behalf. The question is: Will we submit to it?

Reflect & Discuss:

1. In what ways are you still rejecting Christ’s authority by trying to do things your own way? Which Church teachings have you been rejecting because you’ve decided to live by your own rules?

2. Are you willing to ask the Holy Spirit to change your mind on these matters and teach you the value of Christ’s ways?

3. In what ways do Christians often reject Christ’s authority in favor of defining their own rules? Why?

4. What are the apparent risks to living completely under Christ’s strict authority?

5. How can we replace these risks with a sense of safety?

DOMESTIC ABUSE COMES IN MANY FORMS – DO YOU KNOW SOMEONE WHO FALLS INTO ANY OF THESE CATEGORIES???

Part One of a Two Part Series

- Physical abuse can include hitting, biting, slapping, battering, shoving, punching, pulling hair, burning, cutting, pinching, etc. (any type of violent behavior inflicted on the victim). Physical abuse also includes denying someone medical treatment and forcing drug/alcohol use on someone.

- Emotional abuse involves invalidating or deflating the victim’s sense of self-worth and/or self-esteem. Emotional abuse often takes the form of constant criticism, name-calling, injuring the victim’s relationship with his/her children, or interfering with the victim’s abilities.

- Economic abuse takes place when the abuser makes or tries to make the victim financially reliant. Economic abusers often seek to maintain total control over financial resources, withhold the victim’s access to funds, or prohibit the victim from going to school or work.

- Psychological abuse involves the abuser invoking fear through intimidation; threatening to physically hurt himself/herself, the victim, children, the victim’s family or friends, or the pets; destruction of property; injuring the pets; isolating the victim from loved ones; and prohibiting the victim from going to school or work.

The definition of domestic violence recognizes that victims can be spouses, family members, children, cohabitants, or sexual/dating/intimate partners.

If you or someone you know is being abused, seek help. In an emergency, please dial 911. For all other help, please call: Illinois Statewide Domestic Violence Helpline 877 TO END DV (877-863-6338), 877-863-6339 TTY or call WINGS 24-hour hotline 847-221-5680.

Few books have garnered as much respect during the past five years as has Charles Taylor’s, A Secular Age. That respect is well-deserved. Given secularity’s convoluted history, there isn’t any one, normative study that traces out its evolution; but, if there was, Taylor’s analysis might apply for the distinction. Deeply versed in history, philosophy, literature, theology, and spirituality, Taylor has a deep well within which to dip to make his analysis. Few scholars, to my mind, bring so wide and deep a scholarship to the area of history and faith. Taylor confesses that he is, personally, a man of faith, but strives insofar as this is possible for anyone, believer or agnostic, to not let his own beliefs color his research. Few commentators, even those critical of the book, accuse him of that. He is generally as objective as the evening news, reporting what happened without either trumpeting or bemoaning it.

And what he traces out is the big story of how we moved historically from a culture and a consciousness within which it was virtually impossible not to be believe in God to the situation within which we find ourselves today, namely, where belief in God is merely one option among others and indeed often not the dominant one. Until the full-flowering of modernity (and, for many of us personally that has really just happened in the past two generations) we lived with what Taylor calls a “porous” rather than a “buffered” consciousness. A porous consciousness is more naturally mystical. A buffered consciousness is what Karl Rahner had in mind when he said we would soon reach a time when someone would either be a mystic or a non-believer.

A porous consciousness is porous precisely in its incapacity to protect itself against spirits and angels, demons and superstition, against good religion and bad religion. We don’t have to go far back to remember when we used to sign ourselves with the cross and holy water during a lightning storm. The other world, however it was understood, could bring us to our knees. We didn’t always like how the supernatural could leak through our defenses but we were pretty helpless in preventing it.

A buffered consciousness is precisely one that is buffered against angels and demons, against good religion and bad religion, leaking through. Today rather than being frightened by a lightning storm, we enjoy the free fireworks, feeling quite safe and secure behind our modern glass windows. We are much more buffered against the other world and how it can break through in our consciousness. This makes secular consciousness (an awareness that, for the most part, doesn’t feel any conscious need to connect its existence, sustenance, meaning, and striving for happiness to anything beyond itself and the world) a genuine option for us and makes faith more a choice than a given.

But, as Leonard Cohen famously writes: There is a crack in everything. That’s how the light gets in. There is too a crack in our buffered, secular consciousness. Taylor calls this “the unquiet frontiers of modernity”. There are certain things against which we cannot buffer ourselves, and not just loss, depression, and fear of death. These can, and do, sometimes shake the secure foundations of our lives and drive us to our knees in helplessness. But we can be driven to our knees too for the opposite reasons: Love, beauty, hope, and joy can also break through our buffered shell and break us open to a meaning beyond what this world has to offer. There is disquiet and fragility on both frontiers, on those which threaten and frighten us and on those which beckon us towards deeper hopes.

Here’s how Taylor puts it: The sense that there is something more presses in. Great numbers of people feel it: in moments of reflection about their life; in moments of relaxation in nature; in moments of bereavement and loss; and quite wildly and unpredictably. Our age is very far from settling in to a comfortable unbelief. Although many individuals do so, and more still seem to on the outside, the unrest continues to surface. Could it ever be otherwise?

The secular age is schizophrenic, or better, deeply cross-pressured. People seem at a safe distance from religion; and yet they are very moved to know that there are dedicated believers, like Mother Teresa. The unbelieving world, well used to disliking Pius XII, was bowled over by John XXIII. A Pope just had to sound like Christian, and many immemorial resistances melted. It’s as though many people who don’t want to follow want nevertheless to hear the message of Christ, want it to be proclaimed out there. The paradox was evident in the response to the late Pope. Many people were inspired by John Paul’s public peripatetic preaching, about love, about world peace, about international economic justice. They are thrilled that these things are being said.

God may not always seem evident in our world, but in our deepest fears and hopes we still have his calling card.

Help Wanted: Ministers of Care

Have you been sick at home or in the hospital and had Communion brought to you by a parish minister? Have you heard a relative in a nursing home tell you how much she appreciates the Communion Service conducted by visitors from the local parish? Visits such as these are wonderful boosts to the spirits of the sick and homebound. Through the Ministry of Care Communion is available to them whether they are homebound, hospitalized, or in nursing homes. Given the growing number of residents in local nursing homes, an increase in requests we receive for visits to the homebound, and changes in the lives of our Ministers of Care, we need to expand our Ministry of Care group. If you can join us in this ministry, we guarantee you will find it extremely rewarding.

THE GRACE AND GIFT OF BLESSING

Unless we all become as children and allow ourselves to bless and be blessing...we cannot enter the Kingdom. In the Gospels of Matthew, Mark, and Luke we see children being blessed by Jesus. The disciples were all about shooing the children away. Once again, we see a teachable moment for the Lord. In this presentation we will explore the idea of grace, gift, and blessing in regards to our very real lives. Grace, gift, and blessing are not ephemeral wisps that float around us, but integral aspects of our lives as Christians. Each of us is called to bless and be blessed. Each of us is directed to be blessing to the world. Through prayer, discussion, and guided reflection, we will enter the “grace and gift of blessing”. To quote from Sr. Joan Chittister, “Blessing is not magic, and it is not superstition. It is recognition of the fact that God’s wonders are worked for us every day.”

We are pleased to welcome back “our own” Kathy Drennan. Kathy has been involved in church ministry for over 40 years. Twenty of those years she spent as the Director of Religious Education at Church of the Holy Spirit. As a member of the Chicago Association of Religious Educators, she sat on the Spiritual and Professional Growth Committee for 20 years, and was Vice-President of the organization for two. Kathy is a five time Certified Director of Religious Education for the Archdiocese of Chicago, and has been a certified facilitator for VIRTUS training. She earned a certificate from the Companions in Prayer program sponsored by Loyola Press, Chicago, and is a published writer for numerous Catholic publications. Kathy continues to make presentations on a variety of topics at the local, diocesan and national level.

Call the Parish Office 847-885-7700 for further questions or to make arrangements.

BAPTISMS

To register for Baptism, stop in or call the Parish Office. Parents must attend a Baptismal Preparation Meeting, which is held on the last Tuesday of each month at 7:30 PM. You may attend this parent meeting either before or after the baby is born.

Baptisms take place on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of the month at 1:30 PM or at Mass by arrangement. You will confirm the date for Baptism by attending the Baptism Preparation Meeting.

MARRIAGES

Please do not reserve your banquet hall before confirming the date with the church. Set your date by calling the Parish Office as early as possible as you plan your wedding—at least 6 months before the wedding. Weddings take place on Saturdays at 2:00 PM. Weekdays and Sundays must be arranged individually.

RECONCILIATION

Saturday after 4:30 PM Mass, or by appointment.

EUCHARIST FOR THE SICK AND HOMEBOUND

If there is anyone who would like to receive Eucharist at home, or if you know a friend, neighbor or family member who is homebound and would like a home visit to receive Eucharist, please call the Parish Ministry Center. One of our dedicated ministers will be glad to fulfill these requests.

SACRAMENT OF THE SICK

Please call the Parish Ministry Center Office to make arrangements for a priest to visit.
