16th Sunday in Ordinary Time

He said to them, “Come away by yourselves to a deserted place and rest a while.” So they went off in the boat by themselves to a deserted place.

JULY 22, 2018
GOSPEL MEDITATION - ENCOURAGE DEEPER UNDERSTANDING OF SCRIPTURE

"Now what?" It's a difficult thing to hear, isn't it? The train comes late, a child unexpectedly cries, and the latest public policy debate flares up in the news. Life throws us curveballs, and we have no choice but to adapt. Jesus and the Apostles find themselves in that exact situation in today's Gospel.

The Apostles have returned from their two-by-two missionary journey. As Jesus hears all of their stories, he knows they need time to recover and refresh. "Come away by yourselves to a deserted place and rest a while." Their wilderness retreat is short-lived, however, as eager crowds discover their location. Jesus is well aware of the needs of his disciples. Still, as he looks out at the crowd, "His heart was moved with pity for them, for they were like sheep without a shepherd." The rest break is over. "He began to teach them many things."

For those of us who have experienced a taste of much-needed relaxation only to have it taken away abruptly, perhaps we surmise what the Apostles might have been feeling in that moment. But Jesus isn't being inconsiderate of the Apostles needs. He offers them - and us - a lived lesson. St. John Paul II wrote, "The whole of Christ's life was a continual teaching: his silences, his miracles, his gestures, his prayer, his love for people, his special affection for the little and the poor, his acceptance of the total sacrifice on the Cross for the redemption of the world" (On Catechesis in Our Time, 9). In Jesus' choice to teach, we see all of these things: sacrificial love, concern for the marginalized, and priority of people's needs over personal preference. These aren't abstract ideals. They're lived realities as we strive to live and love like Jesus. When a new obstacle confronts you in your life, how do you respond?

LIVE THE LITURGY - INSPIRATION FOR THE WEEK

The many images we have of God help frame our relationship with Him. Have we ever imagined Jesus so deeply moved with emotion and engulfed with pity for us? We often are sheep without a shepherd who are lured by the emptiness of worldly attractions and superficial desires. We become lost. God, in the depth of His being, is deeply moved by our pain, loneliness, and heartache. God does not judge or condemn. He loves and is mercy itself. He knows firsthand the pain that comes with being lost and alone and desires to teach us about His merciful love. Do we want to be taught? Listen to God's word and be open to God's presence in the Eucharist.

EVERYDAY STEWARDSHIP - RECOGNIZE GOD IN YOUR ORDINARY MOMENTS

My daughter can easily become overwhelmed by having so much to do. She recently graduated from high school, and many times during those four years, she found herself going crazy from being involved in so many things. Sports, drama, youth group, homework, friends, and more all demanded a slice of her attention. Sometimes the slice of time that remained wasn't much and one does have to sleep!

A good everyday steward can get caught up in doing so much and giving so much that he or she loses sight of the fact that you cannot give what you do not have. If you have no time left, you cannot give that. If you have no energy left, you cannot give that. Finally, if you find yourself agitated and overwhelmed, you cannot give that which others benefit from the most: YOU!

Even when we plant seeds in a garden after tilling and watering the soil, we must rest and wait for there to be growth. If we do not take time to rest and recharge, we are not allowing time for God's grace to bring forth new life in us. We fear that things will suffer without us, but the truth is that no one is benefitting from our fatigue. We can think we are giving but really we are empty. Take some time and rest in your God. Retreat and recharge. Then you will be able to share once again.

|   | Everyone in ministry feels overwhelmed by their calling from time to time. Whether it’s the ministry of raising children, or caring for an elderly spouse or parent, or working a job in a way that reveals Christ, or volunteering at a church or pastoring a parish, it’s necessary to take time out for ourselves – a vacation, a holiday – for nourishment and rest and recuperation. Jesus says so in today’s Gospel reading.

<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>If we don’t obey this commandment, we become cranky. We make selfish or poor decisions. We become like the evil shepherds of the first reading, who misled and scattered those whom they were called to serve. Why? Because we become vulnerable to temptations when we try to give what we do not have.</th>
</tr>
</thead>

It takes energy to reveal God’s love. It takes energy to remain enthusiastic in serving others. But how can we get recharged with new energy if we don’t take time to sit still, rest, and pray? How can we care about others when we don’t take good care of ourselves? Jesus lives within us, but before we can give him to others, we must first let him give himself to us.

Daily we encounter people who are like sheep without a shepherd; they are seeking Jesus whether they realize it or not. They want the unconditional love that he has to give. They want the healing and peace that he offers. He wants to help them, but if we who are his hands and feet and voice are too weak and worn out from our hardships, what then?

We need to go to a deserted place with Jesus and rest awhile in his nourishing love. If we go away on a retreat or vacation and come back to work and ministries still cranky (i.e., if the people we shepherd wish we’d go take a longer trip), we haven’t rested enough. We’ve cut short the restoration process. Never mind the pile-up of workload. Jesus is inviting us to “Come away by yourself and rest awhile longer with Me until you become more like Me.”

Reflect & Discuss:

1. What work of the Lord has become unhappy for you? What stole your joy? How can you get it back? (You might need a spiritual director to help you figure this out.)

2. What needs of yours must be met before you can feel enthusiastic about ministry? What will you do this week to let Jesus meet these needs?

3. Why do people neglect to give themselves enough time for rest and restoration?

4. What do you do to recharge your energy and restore Christian enthusiasm?

Some years ago, I clipped a letter out of a magazine. A lady was explaining why she had trouble accepting the Christian faith.

She wrote: “Do not talk to me of God or come to my door with tracts or stop me in the street to ask if I am saved. Hell holds no threat more agonizing than the harsh reality of my life. I swear to you the fires of hell seem more inviting than this bone-deep cold of my existence.

Neither speak to me of church. What does the church know of my despair, the church barricaded behind its stained-glass windows against the likes of me? Once I heard your pleas for my repentance and sought a fellowship of faith within your walls.

There I saw your God reflected in your faces as you turned away….Forgiveness never came….The healing love I sought was carefully hoarded, reserved only for your kind.

Be gone from me and speak no more of God. I’ve seen your God made manifest in you: a God with no compassion. So long as your God withholds the warmth of human touch from me I shall remain an unbeliever.” (Marie Livingston Roy)

Wisdom lies in simplicity. This letter is powerful because it is simple. When we do not experience the warmth of human touch, we will, in the end, not believe the Gospel. This is so true that, ultimately, we cannot even honestly preach the Gospel when we cannot offer community to those to whom we are preaching.

I say we cannot preach it honestly, not because people might look at lack of community in our own lives and say, “You aren’t practicing what you are preaching,” but because, when we cannot offer community to people, we put them into a position where, by hearing the Gospel, they find themselves in an intolerable but hopeless situation. The Gospel challenges them to leave one life behind, but does not offer a concrete road to a new life.

When we preach and teach like that, and we are all prone to, we end up like the scribes and Pharisees of Scripture, laying all kinds of burdens upon people, with the word of God, and not being of any value in setting them free for new life.

Let me illustrate this with two examples:

When the rich young man asks Jesus, “What must I do to gain eternal life?” Jesus answers, “Sell all you have, give the money to the poor, and come and follow me.” However, when Jesus says, “Come and follow me,” this expression, literally, means: “Come and move in with us…be part of our community.” Jesus challenged the young man to give up everything, but he offered him, immediately, an alternative, life within his community. Today, for most of us, when we preach, we cannot offer this kind of alternative. Hence our preaching can be dishonest.

For example, suppose that after a homily on social justice, a man approached me and said: “I am convinced, I will go, today, and sell everything, give the money to the poor, and follow Christ in a more radical way…. But, then, afterwards, what should I do? How should I then support my family?”

I would have no answer. I could not tell him, as Jesus did, “Come move in with us!” I could not, concretely, offer him a community that would absorb and support him and his family. Hence, my original homily on social justice contains an element of dishonesty. I am challenging but not offering a real alternative. I am making him feel guilty, but not offering a way out.

This holds true for a lot of our preaching: e.g., sexual ethics.

Recently I was talking with a lady in her late 30s. She is, in her own way, a sincere and committed Catholic. However because she is unmarried, lonely, and unable to find deep faith, emotional, and affective support, she is prone to sexual affairs. She, in no way, justifies these morally, but she does justify them emotionally. Simply put, she knows they are a compensation, something second best. But, as she puts it: “Right now, where I am at – lonely, single, frustrated sexually, envious of those who are happily married and have children – these kind of affairs are a compensation for all I don’t have. They are better than nothing!”

It is hard to challenge her on this….without being able to offer her, concretely, a community of persons who could provide for her something of the emotional, affective, and faith support that she needs to be strong enough not to fall into that kind of relationship. She, like the rich young man in Scripture, often walks away sad, both from her affairs and from a Christ she knows at a deeper and truer level inside of herself. However, her guilt is less than the rich young man’s. Nobody and no community which is truly representative of Christ has ever yet said to her: “Leave it all behind…and come, move in with us!”

Christianity will have power when we have vital communities which can, concretely, offer an alternative to the second best compensations that our world offers. When the touch of human warmth, genuine community, is withheld, we will always have a lot of unbelievers and a lot of struggling believers.

RCIA can be a wonderful mix of people.
The RCIA is for anyone who is thinking about joining the Catholic Church. This includes people who were never baptized and those who have been baptized in other Christian churches. It includes people who have grown up with some or much religious instruction as well as people who have had no religious upbringing. Those who take part in RCIA might be single people, spouses of Catholics, and sometimes entire families. RCIA is also for those who have been baptized as Catholics, but did not complete their initiation with First Communion and/or Confirmation.

Call Marie Staffa at 847-885-7700, ext. 124 or email her at mstaffa@sainthubert.org.

Please note, if you are an adult whose only need of completing your initiation is through the Sacrament of Confirmation or if you are fully initiated but have been away from the Church and interested in returning, know that we have separate ministries to welcome you into or back to the fullness of our Church.

Sacramental Life

Call the Parish Office 847-885-7700 for further questions or to make arrangements.

Baptisms

To register for Baptism, stop in or call the Parish Office. Parents must attend a Baptismal Preparation Meeting, which is held on the last Tuesday of each month at 7:30 PM. You may attend this parent meeting either before or after the baby is born.

Baptisms take place on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of the month at 1:30 PM or at Mass by arrangement. You will confirm the date for Baptism by attending the Baptism Preparation Meeting.

Marriages

Please do not reserve your banquet hall before confirming the date with the church. Set your date by calling the Parish Office as early as possible as you plan your wedding—at least 6 months before the wedding. Weddings take place on Saturdays at 2:00 PM. Weekdays and Sundays must be arranged individually.

Reconciliation

Saturday after 4:30 PM Mass, or by appointment.

Eucharist for the Sick and Homebound

If there is anyone who would like to receive Eucharist at home, or if you know a friend, neighbor or family member who is homebound and would like a home visit to receive Eucharist, please call the Parish Ministry Center. One of our dedicated ministers will be glad to fulfill these requests.

Sacrament of the Sick

Please call the Parish Ministry Center Office to make arrangements for a priest to visit.
