Mite is Mighty
In Gratitude for the Generous and Giving St. Hubert Community

In today’s gospel, Jesus admires the poor widow who puts in a couple of small coins into the treasury at the Temple. We call it the “widow’s mite” because “mite” means small amount. But not to Jesus, he recognizes things we don’t always see. For Jesus, knowing this widow was poor without any real means of support, the two coins would have been almost all she had. In proportion to those who had wealth but gave little, she gave extravagantly.

What seems like a little for some can be a lot for others. Jesus sees the things of the heart, and so he knows all about extravagant giving. He was a poor man without means, but...he had his life. He surrendered his life so we could be with God forever. It’s not how much we have, but what we want to do with the life we’ve been given. In a broken world, we need a renewed hope in human life, and a renewed hope in each other. We need you.

Giving It Our All

Here at St. Hubert, I become more and more amazed at the many generous ways our community gives of themselves to make this little parish in the middle of a neighborhood a mighty force of goodness.

Whenever we ask the community to pitch in and bring in food for the hungry, it comes in generously. Our Stocking Stuffer project for the community of St. Aloysius is underway, and we’re also getting set to prepare our annual Thanksgiving Food Baskets for those in Hoffman Estates and our friends at St. Aloysius who are having trouble affording a holiday meal.

What’s amazing is that when a call goes out like this, some of us bring in a little of what we can, but it grows into an incredible bounty. We’re able to help hundreds and hundreds of families. It’s not just one person taking it on by themselves, but just like what’s happening in our 2020 Vision Campaign, when all of us pitch in together, mite becomes mighty.

Even our sixth graders in Religious Ed are pitching in to prepare a Thanksgiving Basket! It’s not one student doing it…it’s all of them helping together. They collect funds, go shopping together, and together they create the basket...and all the way through it, they’re praying for those who will receive it.

Another act of kindness is happening at St. Hubert School. On their own initiative, our students decided to collect funds this month to help missionaries feed the poor in different parts of the world. A couple of weeks ago when we were praying for the missions at our Masses, our 8th graders learned about the work being done, which led to the student council’s goodwill effort.

For me, in the end, goodness that comes from the heart is simply inspiring. It’s amazing to see mite become mighty, especially when the effort is for the good of others. Thanks for all you do to build up this community of faith and help those in need.

Small advent booklets will be available soon in the narthex. Due to budgetary constraints, this year we are asking for a $1 donation per booklet. Please contact the front office at 847-885-7700, ext. 101 to reserve your booklet, since we will have a limited supply of books for sale. Books will be available in the narthex on November 17-18, and if we have books remaining, they will be available on November 24-25.

If you would like to make a donation to provide booklets for those in nursing homes, you may do so at that time. It would be greatly appreciated.
32nd Sunday of Ordinary Time

Following Jesus requires a tremendous amount of trust, because he often takes us to unexpected places that require new growth, sacrifices, and moving beyond the boundaries of what’s familiar and comfortable.

Consider the two widows in this Sunday’s first reading and the Gospel reading. How could they give what common sense says they could not afford? Did they know with total certainty that God would take care of their needs? No. So they gave all they had because they were so in love with God that they trusted his love for them.

Trust is a sign of genuine love -- especially when the one we trust is God. We can love others more freely and generously if we trust God to help us through the difficulties that occur when people prove themselves untrustworthy. Our freedom to love others unconditionally is not based upon how safe we are with them; it’s based on how safe we are with God.

Each widow gave what she could not afford to lose. We cannot afford to love those who will cause us grief and disappointment and feelings of rejection, and yet Jesus tells us to forgive them and do good to them and go the extra mile for them.

Sometimes doing good to those who are difficult to love must include “tough love”, which asserts boundaries that they are not allowed to cross. Remember what Jesus did: Until Good Friday, Jesus always walked away from his persecutors. Did he stop loving them? Not at all. And sometimes it means enabling them to reap what they sow so that they begin to understand their need to repent. Instead of cleaning up their messes, we have to let them suffer from it. Think about it: Does God clean up our messes before we repent? Usually he won’t even do that after we repent. What would we learn if someone else does the damage control?

Loving others always includes sacrificing ourselves and relying on God to comfort us, heal us, restore us, and bless us. We can trust God for this. Our jar of whatever we pour out to others for the sake of love will never go empty.

Reflect & Discuss:
1. What needs healing or correction in your thinking so you can feel secure and fully loved by God?
2. Describe a time when you gave more than you thought you could give: more money, more love, more time, more patience — more of anything. What motivated you to be so generous?
3. What were the end results? What did you learn?
When the famous historian Christopher Dawson decided to become a Roman Catholic, his aristocratic mother was distressed, not because she had any aversion to Catholic dogma, but because now her son would, in her words, have to “worship with the help”. She was painfully aware that, in church at least, his aristocratic background would no longer set him apart from others or above anyone. At church he would be just an equal among equals because the Eucharist would strip him of his higher social status.

She intuited correctly. The Eucharist, among other things, calls us to justice, to disregard the distinction between rich and poor, noble and peasant, aristocrat and servant, both around the Eucharist table itself and afterwards outside of the church. The Eucharist fulfills what Mary prophesized when she was pregnant with Jesus, namely, that, in Jesus, the mighty would be brought down and that lowly would be raised up. It was this very thing that first drew Dorothy Day to Christianity. She noticed that, at the Eucharist, the rich and the poor knelt side by side, all equal at that moment.

Sadly, we often don’t take this dimension of the Eucharist seriously. There is a common tendency to think that the practice of justice, especially social justice, is an optional part of being a Christian, something mandated by political correctness rather than by the gospels. Generally we don’t see the call to actively reach out to the poor as something from which we cannot exempt ourselves.

But we are wrong in this. In the gospels and in the Christian scriptures in general, the call to reach out to the poor and to help create justice in the world is as non-negotiable as keeping the commandments and going to church. Indeed striving for justice must be part of all authentic worship.

In the New Testament, every tenth line is a direct challenge to reach out to the poor. In Luke’s gospel, we find this in every sixth line. In the Epistle of James, this occurs in every fifth line. The challenge to reach out to the poor and to level the distinction between rich and poor is an integral and non-negotiable part of being a Christian, commanded as strongly as any of the commandments.

And this challenge is contained in the Eucharist itself: The Eucharistic table calls us to justice, to reach out to the poor. How?

First, by definition, the Eucharistic table is a table of social non-distinction, a place where the rich and the poor are called to be together beyond all class and status. At the Eucharist there are to be no rich and no poor, only one equal family praying together in a common humanity. In baptism we are all made equal and for that reason there are no separate worship services for the rich and the poor. Moreover, St. Paul warns us strongly that when we gather for the Eucharist the rich should not receive preferential treatment.

Indeed, the gospels invite us in the opposite direction. When you hold any banquet, they tell us, we should give preferential treatment to the poor. This is especially true for the Eucharist. The poor should be welcomed in a special way. Why?

Because, among other things, the Eucharist commemorates Jesus’ brokenness, his poverty, his body being broken and his blood being poured out. Pierre Teilhard de Chardin expresses this aptly when he suggests that the wine offered at the Eucharist symbolizes precisely the brokenness of the poor: In a sense the true substance to be consecrated each day is the world’s development during that day – the bread symbolizing appropriately what creation succeeds in producing, the wine (blood) what creation causes to be lost in exhaustion and suffering in the course of that effort. The Eucharist offers up the tears and blood of the poor and invites us to help alleviate the conditions that produce tears and blood.

And we do that, as a famous church hymn says, by moving “from worship into service”. We don’t go to the Eucharist only to worship God by expressing our faith and devotion. The Eucharist is not a private devotional prayer, but is rather a communal act of worship which, among other things, calls us to go forth and live out in the world what we celebrate inside of a church, namely, the non-importance of social distinction, the special place that God gives to the tears and blood of the poor, and non-negotiable challenge from God to each of us to work at changing the conditions that cause tears and blood. The Eucharist calls us to love tenderly, but, just as strongly, it calls us to act in justice.

To say that Eucharist calls us to justice and to social justice is not a statement that takes its origin in political correctness. It takes its origin in Jesus who, drawing upon the great prophets of old, assures us that the validity of all worship will ultimately be judged by how it affects “widows, orphans, and strangers.”

This training meets the Archdiocesan requirements for mandation and remandation.

Proclaiming the Word: Lector Training Workshop

Lectors have a critical role in the celebration of the Mass. Since lectors proclaim not just any word, but the Word of God, it is essential that they develop the skills required to communicate God’s message competently.

Through the use of voice, eye contact and personal presence, lectors help God’s Word come alive for the assembly.

This training will provide the skills and self-confidence needed for those who wish to become lectors in their own parish or for any lector who would like a “refresher” course.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE TAKES ON MANY FORMS

Domestic violence is the establishment of power and control through a pattern of coercive behaviors perpetrated by one intimate partner against another. One of those damaging types of behavior is categorized under “Emotional Abuse”. Examples are:

- Criticizing and Ridiculing
- Name Calling and Blaming
- Withholding love and affection to punish
- Treating you as a servant
- Monitoring phone activity/ opening your mail
- Sulking and refusing to talk or Screaming
- Humiliating you in public

This type of abuse leaves no outward scars, but the inner scars are very devastating. These acts hurt and destroy self-esteem and self-worth. They can also cause severe health issues such as gastro-intestinal disorders, anxiety disorders, eating disorders, alcohol and substance misuse.

BAPTISMS
To register for Baptism, stop in or call the Parish Office. Parents must attend a Baptismal Preparation Meeting, which is held on the last Tuesday of each month at 7:30 PM. You may attend this parent meeting either before or after the baby is born.

Baptisms take place on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of the month at 1:30 PM or at Mass by arrangement. You will confirm the date for Baptism by attending the Baptism Preparation Meeting.

MARRIAGES
Please do not reserve your banquet hall before confirming the date with the church. Set your date by calling the Parish Office as early as possible as you plan your wedding—at least 6 months before the wedding. Weddings take place on Saturdays at 2:00 PM. Weekdays and Sundays must be arranged individually.

RECONCILIATION
Saturday after 4:30 PM Mass, or by appointment.
