Simon said in reply, “Master, we have worked hard all night and have caught nothing, but at your command I will lower the nets.” - Lk 5:5
Who Me?

The readings today give us some insight into three people who God chose to help bring his words into the world. What’s interesting about these three people, and what’s important to us, is that these three admit they’d be the last person they thought God would ever choose!

In the first reading, we hear how God approached Isaiah—through an incredible vision of God’s glory in heaven. God chose Isaiah to be his prophet, the spokesperson of God’s word, but we discover today he was a hesitant one.

Isaiah told God he’s not a great choice because he had to admit, he had “unclean lips.” No one is quite certain what that is, but knowing that, as humans, we’re very capable of saying mean-spirited things, or spreading gossip, or swearing, or even spreading rumors that could tarnish someone’s reputation, we could probably understand Isaiah’s objection.

The thing is, God took care of Isaiah’s uncertainty. In the vision, he purified Isaiah’s lips so that Isaiah would be able to speak without guilt. In other words, God forgave him. What God saw in Isaiah was a person he knew could do his work in the world. God saw his potential, and it moved Isaiah from hesitation to confidently say, “Here I am, send me!” (Isaiah 6:8)

In the second reading, it’s Paul who’s surprised that God chose him to bring the word to the gentiles. Paul readily admits, “I’m the least of the apostles, not fit to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God.” But then we hear Paul’s incredible statement that gives all of us hope, “But by the grace of God, I am what I am, and his grace to me has not been ineffective.” (See 1 Cor 15:1-11) Jesus forgave Paul and freed him to do his work in the world, and Paul absolutely did. God gives us what we need to succeed, especially when we’re doing what he hopes we’ll do.

In the gospel, it’s Peter who’s dumbfounded that Jesus would be so generous to him. In the wake of Jesus’ gift of filling up two boats of fish after a “fishless” night, Peter could only tell Jesus not to bother with him. He felt he didn’t deserve Jesus’ kindness. But Jesus doesn’t listen to that kind of thinking. Instead, Jesus told Peter not to be afraid. Through him he would transform him so that he would discover his potential. God knew Peter had what it took, “warts and all,” to be effective.

And that’s what we all need to know about God. Jesus told us that he chose us, we didn’t choose him. (see John 15:16) It’s God who sees our soul. He sees what human beings can’t often see—the potential within us. So, in those times when we don’t feel worthy of God’s grace, God is telling us we are worthy.

Maybe we think we’d be the last one God would choose. But God says, “Yes, it’s you I want and need!” God gives us a future full of hope and life. And when we surrender to it, the response that comes from within is simply to say, “Here I am, God. Send me.” May God bless you, precisely because you are who you are.

WORLD MARRIAGE DAY

LOVE NEVER ARE PROTECTS LOVEneverareprotects.COM
5th Sunday of Ordinary Time

Very often, the Lord gives us help even when we don't ask for it. We see this in what he did for Simon Peter, James and John in the Gospel reading, when he provided a great catch of fish for them.

What's his motive? Was he rewarding these fishermen for lending him one of their boats? Do you think he does good things for you as a reward?

Well, it's not a reward. There's a bigger picture.

Note the pattern of Christ's interaction with us as illustrated by this Gospel story.

1. First, the fishermen already know Jesus; they call him "Master" because he's a master teacher and they are his students.
2. Second, Jesus helps them in an unexpected way.
3. Third, Jesus turns the gift into a calling.
4. Fourth, the disciples give up everything that could interfere with answering the call.

Whenever God intervenes in our lives, he does it to benefit us and others. We belong to a community, God's family; we are not in relationship with God as isolated individuals. By connecting ourselves to God in prayer, in the Eucharist, and in worship, we are connecting ourselves to everyone else and to his concerns for them.

Our prayers for help are never answered only for our sake. God always sees a bigger picture. And he always cares about everyone who is affected.

If it seems like God isn't responding to your pleas, it's because he's working on a bigger plan. He's coordinating how the answer to your prayers will help others – many others.

God cares very much about your personal needs and desires, but he cares about everyone else, too, whether they ask for his help or not. And he is turning your needs into a calling, a ministry designed specifically for you. This means that the moment you begin asking for help, you are called by God to share his help with others.

By thinking beyond ourselves while waiting for our troubles to end, we find peace and hope and value in the hardships we endure. This is the vocation of daily life.

Reflect & Discuss:

1. What prayer requests are you still waiting for God to answer?
2. What might God do during this delay that could benefit others?
3. Recall a time when God answered one of your prayers. Identify the four stages of divine intervention that are mentioned in this reflection.

My youth had both its strengths and its weaknesses. I grew up on a farm in heart of the Canadian prairies, a second-generation immigrant. Our family was a large one and the small farm we lived on gave us enough to live on, though just enough. There were never any extras. We were never hungry or genuinely poor, but we lived in a conscriptive frugality. You were given what you needed, but rarely anything extra. You got just one portion of the main course at a meal and one dessert because these had to be measured out in a way that left enough for everyone. And I lived happily inside that, taking for granted that this was the way life was meant to be, assuming that all resources are limited and you shouldn’t ever be asking for or taking more than what’s necessary.

And such a background has its strengths: You grow into adulthood with the sense that there’s no free lunch, you need to earn what you eat. You know too that you shouldn’t be taking more than your share because the goods of this world are limited and meant to be shared with everyone. If you take more than your share, than there won’t be enough for everyone. Resources are limited, so if anyone gets too much, someone gets too little.

But such an upbringing also has its downside: When everything has to be measured-out to ensure that there’s enough for everyone and you live with the underlying fear that there might not be enough, you can easily end-up with a sense of scarcity rather than of abundance and an inclination towards stinginess rather than generosity.

A mindset of scarcity rather than of abundance debilitates us in several ways: First, it tends to leave us standing before life’s abundance too timid to celebrate life with any exuberance. Life is too equated with frugality and you are forever haunted by guilt in the face of life’s goodness and especially before any experience of luxury, not unlike the discomfort felt by Jesus’ disciples when they are face to face with a prodigal woman lavishly anointing Jesus’ feet with expensive perfume. Inside a mindset of scarcity there’s the perennial temptation to falsely idealize suffering and poverty and have them replace grace and abundance as God’s real gift to us. More crippling still is the fact that a sense of scarcity too often gives us a concept of a God who is limited and who is frugal rather than prodigal. But that isn’t the God of Jesus.

Allow me just one, rather pointed, illustration: A seminary professor whom I know shares this story. He’s been teaching seminarians for many years and in recent years, when teaching about the sacrament of penance, is frequently asked this question, often as the first question in the class: “When can I refuse absolution? When do I not grant forgiveness?” The anxiety expressed here is not, I believe, triggered by a need for power but by a very sincere fear that we have to be rather scrupulous in handing out God’s mercy, that we shouldn’t be handing out cheap grace. And, undergirding that fear, I believe, is the unconscious notion that God too works out of a sense of scarcity rather than of abundance, and that God’s mercies, like our own resources, are limited and need to be measured out very sparingly.

But that’s not the God whom Jesus incarnated and revealed. The Gospels rather reveal a God who is prodigal beyond all our standards and beyond our imagination. The God of the Gospels is the Sower who, because he has unlimited seeds, scatters those seeds everywhere without discrimination: on the road, in the ditches, in the thorn bushes, in bad soil, and in good soil. Moreover that prodigal Sower is also the God of creation, that is, the God who has created and continues to create hundreds of billions of galaxies and billions and billions of human beings. And this prodigal God gives us this perennial invitation: Come to the waters, come without money, come without merit because God’s gift is as plentiful, available, and as free as the air we breathe.

The Gospel of Luke recounts an incident where Peter, just after he had spent an entire night fishing and had caught nothing, is told to cast out his net one more time and, this time, Peter’s net catches so many fish that the weight of the catch threatens to sink two boats. Peter reacts by falling on his knees and confessing his sinfulness. But, as the text makes clear, that’s not the proper reaction in the face of over-abundance. Peter is wrongly fearful, in effect, wanting that over-abundance to go away; when what Jesus wants from him in the face of that over-abundance is to go out to the world and share with others that unimaginable grace.

What God’s over-abundance is meant to teach us is that, in the face of limitless grace, we may never refuse anyone absolution.
Welcome Fr. Peter Fernandes!

I am a member of the Society of the Missionaries of St. Francis Xavier, which was founded in Goa, India, in 1887. I was educated in India and was ordained a priest in my own village by Archbishop Patriarch Raul Gonsalves on April 27, 1999.

After ordination, I served two years in the mission of Bhopal as director of the minor seminary for students coming from the hinterland. My second assignment was in the Archdiocese of Portland, OR, where I had an enriching experience.

Cardinal Francis George asked the Society to take charge of a parish in the Archdiocese of Chicago, and the Society asked me to take up this challenge. And so I landed at St. Timothy Parish, on Chicago’s far north side, where I served for 14 years. Today, three priests from my Society serve at two parishes in the archdiocese.

Last July, the order’s Fr. Superior General asked me to return to India to take up a new challenge, that is, to administrate an institution which has over 8 thousand students ranging from KG to college degree in Mumbai.

I am back in the United States for a short time, so that I can finish my master’s degree in theology while I am serving at St. Hubert. I will return to India sometime in August. Thank you for accepting me at your parish. In my short time here, I hope to share my faith with you and I am sure you will enrich my own faith as we journey together with the Lord.

Things Teens Can Do to Avoid Getting Into Unhealthy Relationships.

- Build a healthy self-image. Teens with high self-esteem and a positive self-image are less likely to become involved in unhealthy or abusive relationships. Work on being confident, satisfied, and secure within yourself.

- Don’t let a relationship become a burden. Again, trust your gut feeling. If you feel that a relationship is too intense or burdensome, or that the other person needs too much from you, step back from the relationship or break it off altogether.

- Trust your family. Have a close relationship with your family so you have a built-in support system that will help you in all of your relationships.

- Be informed. Learn as much as you can about abuse, dating violence, and healthy relationships, so you can help yourself -- and others, such as friends and younger siblings.

Relationships are an important part of life, and they should be special and fun. Know the warning signs of an unhealthy or abusive relationship. Avoid any relationship that doesn’t feel right. Most important, learn to feel good about yourself to increase the chances of positive and healthy relationships.

It is with deepest regret that we must cancel the Café series on Sacraments and Social Justice.

The mission of this series was created for people to see how the sacraments are connected to our daily living and to see how the sacraments are gateways into a deeper relationship to God.

In connecting the sacraments to the social mission of the Church, we had hoped to engage parishioners in actions related to social justice with our parish community and beyond. Due to very low attendance, the CAFÉ team felt that the need to cancel the series. In fairness to our speaker, she has been compensated.

The Café team will be meeting May 22 at 6:30 PM to discuss the future offerings and programs of the CAFÉ ministry.

St. Hubert Girl Scouts will be selling cookies after Masses the weekends of February 16-17 and 23-24. Cookies are $5 a box, and every Cookie has a Mission: To Help Girls Do Great Things! RETURN TO GOD WITH ALL YOUR HEART; A REFLECTION TO PREPARE FOR LENT
Presented by Dr Mary Deeley, MDiv/PhD.

Quoting the prophet, Zechariah 3:1: "Thus says the LORD of Hosts, "Return to Me,"..."that I may return to you."
In story, song, prayer, and scripture, Mary Deeley invites us to prepare for Lent by beginning a spiritual pilgrimage of returning to the Lord. And we will find that as we let go of the things that have kept us from God, we become more aware that God has been looking for us this whole time and welcomes us home.

She has taught, worked and ministered in academic settings since 1978; and is a college and seminary professor of Scripture. She is also a frequent speaker on such diverse topics as Evangelization, Discernment, Preaching, Liturgical and Celtic Spirituality, Prayer, and Ministry and Leadership. ### Sacramental Life

Call the Parish Office 847-885-7700 for further questions or to make arrangements.

Baptisms

To register for Baptism, stop in or call the Parish Office. Parents must attend a Baptismal Preparation Meeting, which is held on the last Tuesday of each month at 7:30 PM. You may attend this parent meeting either before or after the baby is born. Baptisms take place on the 2rd and 4th Sundays of the month at 1:30 PM or at Mass by arrangement. You will confirm the date for Baptism by attending the Baptism Preparation Meeting.

Marriages

Please do not reserve your banquet hall before confirming the date with the church. Set your date by calling the Parish Office as early as possible as you plan your wedding—at least 6 months before the wedding. Weddings take place on Saturdays at 2:00 PM. Weekdays and Sundays must be arranged individually.

Reconciliation

Saturday after 4:30 PM Mass, or by appointment.

Eucharist for the Sick and Homebound

If there is anyone who would like to receive Eucharist at home, or if you know a friend, neighbor or family member who is homebound and would like a home visit to receive Eucharist, please call the Parish Ministry Center. One of our dedicated ministers will be glad to fulfill these requests.

Sacrament of the Sick

Please call the Parish Ministry Center Office to make arrangements for a priest to visit.
