[Jesus] said to the crowd, “Take care to guard against all greed, for though one may be rich, one’s life does not consist of possessions.” - Lk 12:15
The Important Things
This weekend, the scripture readings we hear really make us think about what’s important.

In the reading from Ecclesiastes, we hear from a philosopher/theologian (his name is Qoheleth) who comes to a conclusion that even though God’s wisdom is true wisdom, we’re not apt to understand the complexities of life. In fact, he struggles with the purpose of life: “Vanity of vanities! All things are vanity!” (Eccl 1:2)

It’s a rather gloomy, negative outlook. He concludes whether we work hard or not, it doesn’t seem to matter. Even those who don’t do their fair share still inherit property or things from the people who worked hard to accumulate it. He struggles with the “whys” of life: is there anything more to existence than what we see and experience on earth?

Of course, he was working from a premise that, maybe, this life is all we have. He was looking for a better answer, a more noble purpose; he was looking for something more meaningful, more eternal. Maybe he was simply looking for Jesus Christ, even though he wrote his work about 300 years before Christ was born.

If there’s a glimmer of hope for him—and it’s tough to find it—he simply comes to the conclusion near the end of his book to enjoy life while we have it. And how do we enjoy it? We enjoy it with the people we love. “Go, eat your bread with joy and drink your wine with a merry heart because it is now that God favors your works...Enjoy life with your wife whom you love, all the days of the fleeting life that is granted you under the sun.” (Eccl 9:7; 9)

Qoheleth was able to zone in one very important thing: the things we can and should appreciate most aren’t things, but the relationships we have. In the end, even someone as dark and dim as Qoheleth sees an intangible thing, like love, can be the most valuable thing we keep and hold.

The parable Jesus teaches us today, the parable about the man who builds barns to store his treasures, completes the picture. Rather than putting our happiness into storing up things that we could own and enjoy later on in life, accumulating as much as we can, become rich in the “things of God.” So, Jesus is really telling us the secret to becoming rich: love. Love God with all our heart, mind and soul—our entire being—and love our neighbor as ourselves.

Love is the most valuable thing we have, even though it’s intangible. It becomes tangible in the good ways we value one another, and the things we do for the greater glory of God. Our parish is a vibrant community of faith, because (even though we continue to develop and grow) we’re focused on service, worshipping God together, helping one another, and doing good day by day. Loving is not something we do in vain. It’s life giving. And because God is love itself (see 1 John), it’s not fleeting. It’s eternal.

Enjoy your week with God and those you love,

--Fr. Mike

We are responsible for preventing the poverty of giving it away to others.

When we protect our lives by storing up our goods, others suffer. In the Gospel reading this Sunday, Jesus addresses both greed and self-reliance, because they are completely contrary to the personality of God.

Generosity grows when we understand that God is the provider of everything good and that he will continue to provide for us even when we give away what he gives to us—especially when we give away what he gives to us. Think about what you have in abundance (be it money, or joy, or wisdom, or lessons learned from experience, or ______). Now look around. How might you be the answer to someone else’s prayers?

Whatever we hope to have already belongs to God and is meant to be shared with others. This is the primary economic principle of the kingdom of God. The Body of Christ thrives only when there’s a continual exchange of goods. We call this the communion of saints.

Reflect & Discuss:

1. What is most difficult for you to share or give away?

2. Why do you cling to it? What are you afraid will happen if you let go of it?

3. Why do we feel safer relying on ourselves than on God?
The Church’s Economic-Social Teachings

Most of us have been raised to believe that we have right to possess whatever comes to us honestly, either through our own work or through legitimate inheritance. No matter how large that wealth might be, it’s ours as long as we didn’t cheat anyone along the way. By and large, this belief has been enshrined in the laws of democratic countries and we generally believe that it is morally sanctioned by the Christianity.

Partly this is all true, but it needs a lot of qualification. From scripture, through Jesus, through the social teachings of the churches, through papal encyclicals from Leo XIII through John Paul II, the right to private ownership and private wealth is mitigated by a number of moral principles. Let me list a number of those principles (which are taught with the weight of Ordinary Magisterium within Roman Catholicism and the ecclesial equivalent of that in most Protestant churches). For Roman Catholics, I will list the major references to church documents:

- God intended the earth and everything in it for the sake of all human beings. Thus, in justice, created goods should flow fairly to all. All other rights are subordinated to this principle. (Gaudium et Spes 69, Popularum Progressio 22) We do have a right to private ownership and no one may ever deny us of this right (Rerum Novarum 3-5, 14, Quadragesima Anno 44-56, Mater et Magistra 109) but that right is subordinated to the common good, to the fact that goods are intended for everyone. (Laborem Exercens 14) Wealth and possessions must be understood as ours to steward rather than to possess absolutely. (Rerum Novarum 18-19)

- No person (or nation) may have a surplus if others do not have the basic necessities. (Rerum Novarum 19, Quadragesimo Anno 50-51, Mater et Magistra 119-121 & 157-165, Popularum Progressio 230) Thus, no one may appropriate surplus goods solely for his own private use when others lack the bare necessities for life. (Popularum Progressio 23) People are obliged to come to the relief of the poor and if a person is in extreme necessity he has the right to take from the riches of others what he needs. (Gaudium et Spes 69)

- The present economic situation in the world must be redressed. (Popularum Progressio 6,26,32, Gaudium et Spes 66, Octogesimus Adveniens 43, Sollicitudo Rei Socialis 43) Thus the law of supply and demand, free enterprise, competition, the profit motive, and the private ownership of the means of production may not be given complete free reign. They are not absolute rights and are only good within certain limits. (Popularum Progressio 26, Quadragesimo Anno 88, 110)

- In regards to the private ownership of industry and the means of production, two extremes are to be avoided: Unbridled capitalism on the one hand, and complete socialism on the other. (Quadragesimo Anno 46, 55, 111-126)

- Governments must respect the principle of subsidiarity and intervene only when necessary. (Rerum Novarum 28-29, Quadragesimo Anno 79-80, Mater et Magistra 117-152) However when the common good demands it they not only may step in, they are obliged to do so. (Popularum Progressio 24, 33, Mater et Magistra 53, Gaudium et Spes 71) As well certain forms of property should be reserved for the state since they carry with them an opportunity of domination too great to be left to private individuals. (Quadragesimo Anno 114, Mater et Magistra 116)

- Governments may never sacrifice the individual to the collectivity because the individual is prior to civil society and society must be directed towards him or her. (Mater et Magistra 109, Quadragesimo Anno 26)

- Employers must pay wages which allow the worker to live in a “reasonable and frugal comfort” (Rerum Novarum 34) and wages may not simply be a question of what contract a worker will accept. Conversely, workers may not claim that the produce and profits which are not required to repair and replace invested capital belong by right to them (Quadragesimo Anno 55, 114) and they must negotiate their wages with the common good in mind. (Quadragesimo Anno 119, Mater et Magistra 112) As is the case with the employer, it is not just a question of what kind of contract can be extracted.

- Both the workers and the employers have an equal duty to be concerned for the common good. (Laborem Exercens 20)

- And, the condemnation of injustice is part of the ministry of evangelization and is an integral aspect of the Church’s prophetic role. (Sollicitudo Rei Socialis 42)

The church has history on its side in teaching these principles. The failure of Marxism in Eastern Europe highlights precisely that an attempt to create justice for everyone without sufficiently factoring in the place of private profit and private wealth (not to mention God or love) doesn’t lead to prosperity and justice, just as our present economic crisis highlights that an unregulated profit motive doesn’t lead to prosperity and justice either. There is a middle road, and the Church’s social teachings are that road-map.

Sponsor Ministry for RCIA
Parishioners are needed to sponsor adults inquiring into the Faith and preparing to come into full communion with the Church. A sponsor is not required to have a degree in theology, but rather a listening, active and open heart. Time and again, past sponsors have experienced the privilege of being part of someone’s spiritual journey into the Church. They have found that one of the hidden treasures in this ministry is the spiritual riches they receive along the way. If you are interested in more information or in becoming a sponsor companion, please call Marie Staffa at 847-885-7700, ext. 124 or email her at mstaffa@sainthubert.org

Are you looking for ongoing spiritual guidance in your life? Have you considered meeting with a spiritual director?

“Sometimes you simply need to talk to someone who is also on a spiritual path and can help you discern your path. That’s what a spiritual director/companion does—gently and carefully accompanies you along the journey. Primarily, we listen and reflect back to you the wisdom of God that we notice in you. Most importantly, we do this without judgment. Through questions and deep listening we want you to discover for yourself where you are being led.” Teresa Blythe

My name is Marie Staffa and I am in a 2-year Spiritual Guidance Program to become a Spiritual Director/Companion. I am at a point in the program where I am seeking two individuals to work with on a monthly basis for one year. There would be no cost for you. Also, I can’t personally, already know the individuals with whom I will work. All of this work would be done in confidentiality. Please note that spiritual direction is not counseling, psychotherapy, or any kind of therapy. The joy and privilege of the spiritual director/companion is to accompany you as you deepen your relationship with the divine Mystery/God and yourself.

To explore the possibility of working together in spiritual direction, please contact Marie Staffa at mustardsseed1331@yahoo.com or 847-885-7700, ext. 124. We would begin meeting in the fall of 2019.
Joyful Again! Retreat at St. Hubert

- Are you recently widowed and struggling with the loss?
- Have you been widowed for some time and need just a nudge to move forward?
- Do you know someone who has experienced the loss of a spouse?

Regaining the ability to “Live Forward” while treasuring the past and its precious memories is the purpose of the Joyful Again! Retreat. Whether you are a man or a woman who has been widowed, you deserve to have hope, happiness and joy in your life. This is true, regardless of age.

This unique two-day retreat will be held at:

SACRAMENTAL LIFE

Call the Parish Office 847-885-7700 for further questions or to make arrangements.

BAPTISMS

To register for Baptism, stop in or call the Parish Office. Parents must attend a Baptismal Preparation Meeting, which is held on the last Tuesday of each month at 7:30 PM. You may attend this parent meeting either before or after the baby is born.

Baptisms take place on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of the month at 1:30 PM or at Mass by arrangement. You will confirm the date for Baptism by attending the Baptism Preparation Meeting.

MARRIAGES

Please do not reserve your banquet hall before confirming the date with the church. Set your date by calling the Parish Office as early as possible as you plan your wedding—at least 6 months before the wedding. Weddings take place on Saturdays at 2:00 PM. Weekdays and Sundays must be arranged individually.

RECONCILIATION

Saturday after 4:30 PM Mass, or by appointment.

EUCHARIST FOR THE SICK AND HOMEBOUND

If there is anyone who would like to receive Eucharist at home, or if you know a friend, neighbor or family member who is homebound and would like a home visit to receive Eucharist, please call the Parish Ministry Center. One of our dedicated ministers will be glad to fulfill these requests.

SACRAMENT OF THE SICK

Please call the Parish Ministry Center Office to make arrangements for a priest to visit.
