THE PRESENTATION OF THE LORD
FEBRUARY 2, 2020

BEHOLD

“Behold, this child is destined for the fall and rise of many in Israel.”

LUKE 2:34A
BEHOLD: SOMETHING NEW

To behold is to hold onto something we see that we want others to see. It comes to our attention or into our awareness, and we want to share it. It’s to look, to notice, to realize something. As we celebrate the Presentation of Our Lord (the Church always celebrates this event every February 2), we find ourselves back in the context of the time of Jesus’ birth. Jesus has been born, and his parents are following Jewish custom by bringing him into the Jerusalem Temple to present him to God.

When Simeon, the priest, sees the baby, he simply says, “Behold,” which is the same exact word we heard John the Baptist say a couple of Sundays ago when he pointed out Christ to Andrew and John. It’s their ways of saying Jesus is the Messiah, the Christ, the one God said he would send into the world. They’ve noticed him, and want us to notice who they see as well.

Awareness is one of the great attributes of a healthy spiritual life. When we’re aware that God is present to us in simple ways (like through the kindness of another, or through the Sacraments, or through His word, which brings insight), we behold His goodness and want to share what we notice with others.

Speaking of beholding, behold: a new design for our bulletin!

On the cover, our new masthead, designed by our creative bulletin editor, Karyn Weiland, captures two symbols of our St. Hubert community: our crucifix and the waves that are captured in the stained glass windows of the church.

We all follow Christ, which means we follow the cross. Here at St. Hubert, our crucifix duplicates as a processional cross as well as the main crucifix of the sanctuary—an important decision that was made when the church was renovated over 10 years ago. The beautiful rendering is the work of Andrew Thomas, a parishioner and graduate of St. Hubert Catholic School. He has artistically captured every detail of the intricate wood carving, which in turn shows the immense sacrifice of love Christ has given us. We are very grateful to him for his beautiful work.

The subtle serenity of waves of water are captured graphically as well (see the header of each page). The ceiling of the church reminds us of St. Peter’s fishing boat, which in turn reminds us of the Church—one of the metaphors of the Church Fathers. The waves on the stained glass have a two-fold symbolism. They symbolize the waters of our baptism, but also the waters of the seas of life upon which the boat we’re all in travels. Both are God-centered. And both remind us that Jesus is in the boat with us.

Together, the crucifix and the waves remind us of Christ who is the One who keeps our community together. And that’s something to behold and hold onto as we journey on this road of faith together. It’s good to be traveling companions on this journey of faith.

Have a blessed week, everyone!

Did you know?

Eucharist is available for the sick and homebound.

Ministers of Care provide a vital link between parish community and homebound, hospital, and nursing homes. For those that are unable to celebrate Mass with our community because of illness or physical limitations, the sense of loneliness and isolation may be more debilitating than their physical condition. One of our dedicated ministers will be glad to fulfill these requests. We want to help people to stay connected to our family of faith—especially the Eucharist, the source and summit of our Catholic faith. Please contact the Parish Office at 847-885-7700, ext.102 to arrange a visit for you or a loved one.
Next Steps

_Seminarrian David Jameson is Heading Home to Grand Rapids for His Pastoral Internship_

It’s hard to believe that it is time for me to experience my pastoral internship. When I began the year, my fourth year in seminary and my third year here at St. Hubert, I had a number of expectations. I hoped to continue learning and growing, being formed into a holy parish priest through serving Christ by serving you in new areas of parish ministry.

I looked forward to developing new relationships with you while deepening existing relationships that have formed over the past few years. I desired to give of myself as fully as I possibly could — to be as devoted and available to you as the seminary schedule would allow me to be, serving you in any way I could, and praying for you and with you as often as possible.

What I did not anticipate when beginning the year was that I would break bones in both feet during the course of the semester. (A side note: never buy and wear daily a cheap pair of shoes. An additional side note: exercise bikes make better friends than treadmills.)

I was also not prepared for the outpouring of prayers and well wishes I received during the time I spent recovering. Sincerely, thank you for your kindness, love and encouragement over the past couple of months. In my time with you this year, I had hoped to demonstrate something of Christ’s love to you, but instead I have powerfully experienced his love through you. Thank you all!

Beginning this week, until the end of July, I will be serving full-time as a seminarrian intern at Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church in Grand Rapids, Michigan. Please pray that I continue to learn as much as I can about what it means to be a holy and joyful parish priest, one who continually offers himself as a gift to others in imitation of Christ; loving and serving God by being truly devoted and available to serving the people of God.

It has been a joy to serve you and to pray with you over the past few years. Even though I will be away until August, please do not hesitate getting in touch and letting me know how I can continue praying for you. I can be reached by email at d jameson@grpriests.org

I look forward to seeing you again when I return to St. Hubert in August, and I’m thankful for the continued opportunities we will have to grow closer to Christ together over the next couple of years.

_David Jameson_

Simeon blessed them and said to Mary his mother, “Behold, this child is destined for the fall and rise of many in Israel, and to be a sign that will be contradicted—and you yourself a sword will pierce—so that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed.”
—Luke 2:34-35

“Now, Master, you may let your servant go in peace, according to your word, for my eyes have seen your salvation, which you prepared in the sight of all the peoples: a light for revelation to the Gentiles, and glory for your people Israel.” Very often, having more light is not something we desire as it forces us to confront something we really do not want to see. There can be comfort found in darkness. It has an eerie sense of security to it. We do not have to challenge ourselves or be challenged and can simply exist in some fabricated state of self-fabricated blissfulness. Jesus came to bring light, and it is a light that is resisted by many and hated by some. It is a light that causes us to see things as they really are and not as we would want or need them to be.

It is no wonder then that Simeon boldly and honestly proclaims to Mary, “Behold, this child is destined for the fall and rise of many in Israel, and to be a sign that will be contradicted and you yourself a sword will pierce so that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed.” We have to take the Gospel message as it is and not just use those parts that are useful to us or more palatable. Taking Jesus at face value can and will lead to turmoil and dissension. Hearts will be pierced. Whether we like it, Jesus’ proclamation of what the world God created really ought to look like has real and absolute social implications.

It has a lot to say about how we treat our brothers and sisters: spiritually, personally, economically, and globally. It has everything to do with the poor, the immigrant, the scared, the unborn, the vulnerable, the sick, and the broken. The light opens us to a challenging, table-turning experience that may not be something we want to see but shows us where we need to be.
In this life there is no such a thing as a clear cut, pure joy. Everything comes mixed. As Henri Nouwen once put it: Every bit of life is touched by a bit of death. In every satisfaction there is limitation; in every embrace, there is distance; in every success, there is the fear of jealousy; behind every smile, there is a tear; and in all forms of light there is knowledge of the surrounding darkness. When you touch the hand of a returning friend, you already know that he or she will have to leave again, and when you are overwhelmed by the beauty of a sunset, you miss the friend who can not be there with you. Joy and pain are born at the same place within us and we can never find proper words to capture our own feelings.

It is because of this strange paradox, the fact that joy is always mixed with pain, that all the joyful mysteries and events within Christ's life and within our own lives are experienced in such a mixed way.

For example, when the Virgin Mary, a young mother, comes before Simeon in the temple, he looks at her and her child and says: "This child is destined for the fall and rise of many, a sign that will be contradicted ... and a sword too will pierce your own heart." An interesting thing to say to a young mother, deep joy and deep pain will come to you because of your child! We have our own experiences of this. Many is the mother who cries at her daughter's wedding, even though it is a joyful occasion. A sword too is piercing her heart. Sensitive people often cry in the face of joy, not just because joy is often too gracious and raw to take, but because its light sends beams into many other places. Simeon understood this; revelation reveals pain even as it brings joy.

Why is this so? Why is it that every time joy reveals itself something painful also pierces the heart?

Revelation means precisely to unveil, to pull off masks, to lay secrets bare, to reveal things hidden, as scripture says, since the foundation of the world. Deep joy is a revelation. It uncovers things and lets us feel things hidden since the beginning of time. Joy is a light and, as a light, it shines into everything, showing us both our glory and our limits. In joy, just as much as in sorrow, we experience what Rahner describes when he says: "In the torment of the insufficiency of everything attainable, we realize that here, in this life, all symphonies remain unfinished." Like Nouwen, Rahner too understands that, this side of eternity, there is no such a thing as a joy that comes pure and complete.

But again a series of questions arise: Why? Why does revelation, the truth, which is supposed to set us free, bring pain? Why does the gospel of Christ not bring us what we really want, joy without pain?

These are important questions because how we understand the relationship between joy and pain helps determine how we understand ourselves, happiness, and the gospel. Too often we have the false idea, very prevalent in our culture, that joy and pain are incompatible and that Christ came to rescue us from pain. Our culture tends to believe that if you are in pain you cannot be happy and to be happy you must avoid pain.

Nothing could be further from the truth. Joy and pain are not incompatible and Christ does not, as poor preaching sometimes wants us believe, promise us less pain. The reverse is closer to the truth, though any formula linking joy and pain must be very carefully worded since masochism is always a danger.

Careful wording aside, in this life, joy always comes with pain. Joy and pain both lie at the heart of what it means to be human. In terms of a biblical definition, the human being might well be defined as a being of joy, living in pain. And in the end that is what separates us from the rest of creation. The paradoxical connection between joy and pain, ultimately, points us towards eternity. By revealing to us our limits, it points us towards something greater, God's kingdom, a higher synthesis of love and communion, within which, as the vision of Isaiah has it, there will be satisfaction without limit, embrace without distance, success without jealousy, smiles without tears, reunions without separation, joys without missing your loved ones, and life without death.

What Christ promises us is not a life on this earth without pain, but an eventual joy that will be clear-cut, pure, and which none one or no thing can ever take from us.

Consider a Small Church Community: A Great Way to Pray

By Joanmarie Wermes

Six members of one of the parish's Small Church Communities gave tribute to their friend Pat Gerlach recently by attending her wake and funeral services, meeting and offering condolences to her family and praying for her eternal rest.

Pat opened her home to members who meet on a regular basis to study the scriptures, share their faith, and pray, glorifying and thanking God for His ever-lasting love, mercy, compassion and forgiveness while striving to become missionary disciples.

In search of a way for parishioners to continue their prayer lives following Sunday liturgies, then pastor Fr. Gene Nowak, gathered the Parish Pastoral Council and charged them to seek possibilities that would encourage and energize the congregation. The consensus was to form communities under the auspices of Vatican II guidelines. Groups were fashioned in 2000 to meet monthly or bi-monthly each day of the week from Monday to Friday.

The Friday evening group, to which Pat belonged, has been meeting for 20 years since its inception. Current members meet socially first, then study scriptures for the upcoming weekend and close with a gathering at table for sweet and savory treats and conversation. Through the years more than 50 people have been a part of the Friday evening community.

Citing the spiritual life as a journey important to travel, an idea held by and preached often by Fr. Michael Scherschel, the Friday small church community is willing to lead, teach or model the concept for new groups. It is also open to those who might want to visit the group.

New Altar Server Training

Do you wish you could be part of a ministry at Sunday Mass, but are told you are too young? Well, here's an opportunity for you! If you have already entered the 5th grade, you can be an altar server at Mass. This is a great way to become even more familiar with the Mass, be involved and begin giving back to God and the Church.

Training sessions for new servers will be held on Tuesday, February 11 in the church from 6:30—8:00 PM. We request that one parent/guardian attend training with the new server. It is not necessary to register, but if you have questions, please contact Carol Blotteaux at cblotteaux@comcast.net.

Last Saturday, we celebrated Santo Niño—a Filipino tradition honoring a devotion to the Child Jesus. St. Hubert parishioners hold images of the Christ Child before the procession into Mass.
