

Good Morning
By Malcolm W. Bingay

OUT IN LAFFER
Out in the lower rolling hills of the country of Laffery, one of the most fertile of Michigan, the people of Laffery, Michigan, are not only farmers but also are engaged in the business of raising the white horse. In the vicinity of the village of Laffery, Michigan, a newspaperman who spent with the great of the north and knew well the captain of all nations.

Though he walked with limps and a cane, the captain of all nations was not only a great leader but also a great fighter. He was the only man who had ever been elected to the office of President of the United States. He was the only man who had ever been elected to the office of President of the United States. He was the only man who had ever been elected to the office of President of the United States.

And so it is that he is there today when, in the morning, the sun is up and the birds are singing. He is there when the sun is up and the birds are singing. He is there when the sun is up and the birds are singing.

And in the morning of one of the most fertile hills of Michigan, the people of Laffery, Michigan, are not only farmers but also are engaged in the business of raising the white horse. In the vicinity of the village of Laffery, Michigan, a newspaperman who spent with the great of the north and knew well the captain of all nations.
