Divine Worship

Continuing from Archdiocesan Liturgical Handbook (ALH) Chapter 1G and 1H states:

Section 1.32.3: According to tradition, these liturgical colors are applied to the stole, chasuble and cope worn by bishops and priests; and to the stole, dalmatic and cope worn by deacons. They may also be applied to the chalice veil and the tabernacle veil (though these may always be white), and according to the design of the sanctuary, to a limited number of other items such as an altar frontal or a cloth draped over the ambo.

H. OTHER REQUIREMENTS FOR THE CELEBRATION OF THE EUCHARIST

General

Section 1.33.1: Our Lord Jesus Christ, in his Person and in all his works, "reflects the glory of God", (Heb 1:3) his splendor and magnificence. The beauty of the Church's liturgy which celebrates Christ's mysteries is naturally a sublime expression of God's glory and, in a certain sense, a glimpse of heaven on earth, a radiant expression of the Paschal Mystery, which ever since the dawn of God's work of creation has had the power to touch human persons, to attract, delight and engage them, and to draw them to recognize and adore the Most Blessed Trinity in love. Care is needed, therefore, if the liturgical action is to reflect its innate splendor.<sup>135</sup>

Section 1.33.2: In the choice of materials for sacred furnishings, besides those which are traditional, others are acceptable if by contemporary standards they are considered to be noble, are durable, and are well suited for sacred use. In the dioceses of the United States of America these materials may include wood, stone, or metal which are solid and appropriate to the purpose for which they are employed.<sup>136</sup> Good sense should be used in excluding the use of plastics and disposable materials for liturgical furnishings, cloths and sacred objects. It is clear that the latter are absolutely forbidden for anything that would come even proximately into contact with the sacred species.

Section 1.33.3: Every effort should be made to ensure that even with regard to objects of lesser importance, the canons of art should be appropriately taken into account and that noble simplicity come together with elegance.<sup>137</sup> Moreover it should never be forgotten that simple cleanliness has a beauty of its own.

Mark 12:41-44

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Every Family should try to sacrifice something no matter how small it is. Remember the story of the poor widow who was praised by Jesus because “She gave from her want, all that she had to live on.”

We are invited to prayerfully discern our own situation and the meaning of giving to support the ministries of our beloved St. Fredric Catholic Church. May God bless all of us.
