32 SUNDAY ORDINARY TIME - COME JESUS NOW

"The Lord Himself will come down from heaven." —1 Thessalonians 4:16

For centuries, Christians throughout the world have professed the Nicene Creed, in which we proclaim that Jesus "will come again in glory to judge the living and the dead." Also, after the Consecration at Mass, we say: "Christ has died; Christ is risen; Christ will come again." Finally, at Mass, before Communion, we pray: "We wait in joyful hope for the coming of our Savior, Jesus Christ." We believe, proclaim, and pray that Jesus is coming back. We cry out with the early Church and Christians throughout the centuries: "Maranatha!" ("Come, Lord Jesus!") (Rv 22:20)

The Church has told us in the Scriptures: "The Lord Himself will come down from heaven at the word of command, at the sound of the archangel's voice and God's trumpet; and those who have died in Christ will rise first. Then we, the living, the survivors, will be caught up with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air" (1 Thes 4:16-17). "Note this first of all: in the last days, mocking, sneering men who are ruled by their passions will arrive on the scene. They will ask: 'Where is that promised coming of His?' " (2 Pt 3:3-4) Those denying Christ's final coming "do not take into account" (2 Pt 3:5) that God's promises have repeatedly been fulfilled throughout history (see Jos 23:14) and man's denials of God's promises have been wrong.

Consequently, let us give our lives to Jesus and love Him with all our hearts. Then we will await His coming not with dread but with "joyful hope." "Console one another with this message" (1 Thes 4:18).

*Myths about Indulgences

Myth 1: A person can buy his way out of hell with indulgences.

This charge is without foundation. Since indulgences remit only temporal penalties, they cannot remit the eternal penalty of hell. Once a person is in hell, no amount of indulgences will ever change that fact. The only way to avoid hell is by appealing to God's eternal mercy while still alive. After death, one's eternal fate is set (Heb. 9:27).

Myth 2: A person can buy indulgences for sins not yet committed.

The Church has always taught that indulgences do not apply to sins not yet committed. The Catholic Encyclopedia notes, "[An indulgence] is not a permission to commit sin, nor a pardon of future sin; neither could be granted by any power."

Myth 3: A person can "buy forgiveness" with indulgences.

The definition of indulgences presupposes that forgiveness has already taken place: "An indulgence is a remission before God of the temporal punishment due to sins whose guilt has already been forgiven" (Indulgentarium Doctrina 1, emphasis added). Indulgences in no way forgive sins. They deal only with punishments left after sins have been forgiven.

Myth 4: Indulgences were invented as a means for the Church to raise money. Indulgences developed from reflection on the sacrament of reconciliation. They are a way of shortening the penance of sacramental discipline and were in use centuries before money-related problems appeared.

Myth 5: An indulgence will shorten your time in purgatory by a fixed number of days. The number of days which used to be attached to indulgences were references to the period of penance one might undergo during life on earth. The Catholic Church does not claim to know anything about how long or short purgatory is in general, much less in a specific person's case.

Myth 6: A person can buy indulgences.

The Council of Trent instituted severe reforms in the practice of granting indulgences, and, because of prior abuses, "in 1567 Pope Pius V canceled all grants of indulgences involving any fees or other financial transactions" (Catholic Encyclopedia). This act proved the Church's seriousness about removing abuses from indulgences.

Myth 7: A person used to be able to buy indulgences.

One never could "buy" indulgences. The financial scandal surrounding indulgences, the scandal that gave Martin Luther an excuse for his heterodoxy, involved alms—indulgences in which the giving of alms to some charitable fund or foundation was used as the occasion to grant the indulgence. There was no outright selling of indulgences. The Catholic Encyclopedia states: "[I]t is easy to see how abuses crept in. Among the good works which might be encouraged by being made the condition of an indulgence, almsgiving would naturally hold a conspicuous place. . . . It is well to observe that in these purposes there is nothing essentially evil. To give money to God or to the poor is a praiseworthy act, and, when it is done from right motives, it will surely not go unrewarded." Being able to explain these seven myths will be a large step in helping others to understand indulgences. But, there are still questions to be asked.
