Liturgical Roles

March 22 was the first Sunday we did not have mass in the church due to restrictions put in place because of the COVID-19 virus. Thus I am starting the schedule with that date and moving forward with the old schedule. If you wish to correct your schedule do the following:

Make: March 22 becomes	May 31
March 29	June 7
April 5	June 14
April 19	June 21
April 26	June 28
May 3	July 5
May 10	July 12
May 17	July 19
May 24	July 26
May 31	Aug. 2

June 28, 2020
There will be no servers or Eucharistic ministers at this time.

Lectors:	Pam Nickels Jon McGinnis
Usher/Greeter	Terry Breeding Kathy Breeding
Finance Ministers:	Meg Wynkoop Steve Harvey

No one who is uncomfortable attending mass is obligated to do so. If you are uncomfortable being a minister there is no obligation to do so. Many parishes are still broadcasting Mass. You can find them on their web sites.

In your charity, please remember those who are suffering in body, mind or spirit:

Reflecting on God's Word

"Fear no one," this week's Gospel blithely reminds us (Matthew 10:26). Understood, but also easier said than done.

"Do not be afraid of those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul" (10:28). Okay, but we tend to grow attached to our bodies and hope to keep them a while longer.

"[D]o not be afraid; you are worth more than many sparrows" (10:31). But also one sparrow in the hand is worth two in the bush. We tend to go with what we have.

The fact is that most of us are not Jeremiah, who said what he believed even to the point of alienating just about everyone around him. To be Jeremiah can sometimes be just too intimidating. In short, we like our bodies as well as our souls, and so we let our fears get in the way of being the Christians we wish to be.

Nevertheless, every once in a while the Jeremiah strain in each of us does show itself. We speak up for what is right, realizing that if we do not, perhaps no one else will either. And so we say what must be said, maybe not shouting it from the housetops but at least from the porch of the spirit in which our soul dwells. And after we've done so, miracle of miracles, we realize we are no longer afraid.

To All Fathers and Those Who Take on the Role of Father

We thank you, God, for our fathers. We ask you to bless them and keep them safe from harm so that they may be present and ready to care for their children. Give them the gifts of patience, wisdom, and understanding. Help them to be positive role models while guiding their children to adulthood.

In their later years, may their children willingly and joyfully care for them, and may the bonds of love and friendship between father and child grow with each day of their lives.

Enthusiasm and Grammar

There is a good reason that the writings of St. Paul don't show up as examples in grammar textbooks. Today's reading is a case in point. It begins with one of those long Pauline run on sentences that leave lectors gasping for breath. So what? Take a closer look at how Paul's fervor for his subject matter derails the grammar. There is something admirable about being so caught up in his convictions that the words cannot come fast enough to express them, much less in an orderly fashion. Scripture scholars usually take this grammatical ineptness as a sign of a passage's early importance in the Christian community, something they were so ardent about that their language never got refined.

What leaves us in this condition? Re-telling the plot line of an action movie or the play-by-play of a sporting event? When was the last time any of us was so excited by our faith in Christ that we were left grasping for words, stumbling over our own errors in speech? It may be bad grammar, but it is an excellent way to inspire others with the message of Christ!
