TWENTY-NINTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Persistent Prayer

Jesus tells his disciples to pray without becoming weary. They should not be discouraged if God seems not to be listening. Praying constantly is not an exercise in futility but of living faith. God is infinitely better than the wicked judge of the parable who gives in to a persistent widow for his own comfort. God does not consider our fervent prayer as nuisance. God is not bothered when we always ask for favors. In praying, we cannot go wrong. Our persistence springs from faith and confidence in God who always listens to our prayers.

In the First Reading, the Israelites battle a tribe of enemies. Moses raises his staff in prayer to God. When his hands grow weary, Aaron and Hur help keep his hands upraised till victory against the Amalekites is complete.

Christians should pray nonstop. We need other people to support us in our prayers. We pray unceasingly and painstakingly to obtain our petitions and to sanctify the things granted to us. God can make us win over our enemies who hinder our journey toward heaven.

Nowadays many people do not see the need to pray. They do not know what to pray for. They find no time to pray. Simply they have become too secularized.
