SIXTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

The Heart, Not the Letter, of the Law

In his Sermon on the Mount, Jesus teaches his disciples the “new commandment.” He does not do away with the Decalogue of Moses, but he gives God’s commandments a new spirit, a new understanding, a new style of obeying them in life.

In a series of antitheses, Jesus roots the commandments in the heart. It is in and from the heart that the commandment blossoms and bears fruit. It is not enough to avoid murder; to be angry and to insult a fellow human being is already killing. It is not enough to avoid adultery; to look at a woman with lust is already breaking the sixth commandment. There is no need for one to swear; one must always be true to one’s word and stand by it.
