Today’s readings are again directed to believers, communities of faith. As in last week’s reading, Amos confronts us with a condemnation of those whose lives are focused on pleasure and self-absorption. The psalm contrasts that focus with the Lord’s—justice for the oppressed; food the hungry; freedom for captives; sight to the blind; raising of those who are bowed down; loving the just; protecting strangers, orphans, and the widow; and by doing so, thwarting the way of the wicked. Timothy urges the pursuit of righteousness, devotion, faith, love, patience, and gentleness. Luke tells the familiar tale of the wealthy man and the poor beggar at his doorstep, who experience life very differently in this world and in the next. We are once again being given clear indications about how God intends for us to live our lives.

To prepare for the Readings of Oct. 5/6

First Reading — The just ones, because of their faith, shall live (Habakkuk 1:2-3; 2:2-4).
Psalm — If today you hear his voice, harden not your hearts (Psalm 95).
Second Reading — Bear hardship with the strength that comes from God (2 Timothy 1:6-8, 13-14).
Gospel — The apostles said to Jesus, “Increase our faith” (Luke 17:5-10).
How Substantial is Consubstantial?

So far, we have discussed how the Creed has explained who Jesus is to us – the Lord Jesus Christ, and we have discussed who Jesus is to the Father – His Only Begotten Son. In this week’s and next week’s columns, we will explore how Jesus came to us. This week, we will explore how the Son came from the Father, and next week, we will examine how He came to earth.

In our last column, we came to understand how the Church believes that Jesus is the “Only Begotten Son of God, born of the Father before all ages.” Both “Only Begotten Son” and “born…before all ages” are important distinctions regarding the Son. In the early years of the Church before the 5th Century, there was some discussion, and even debate, about what this meant. Some believed that the Son was born of the Father within time, while others argued that the Son was born of the Father “before all ages” and always existed. As you’ll recall from our last column, Scripture supports the Church’s belief that the Son existed for all time. [cf. Looking Through Stained Glass, “…the Son of God”, Sept. 22, 2019] “In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.” [JN 1:1]

Another part of this debate was whether the Son was God or a creation of God. However, the same quote from John’s Gospel also tells us that the Father and Son are both God: “and the Word was God.” From this Scripture verse, the Council of Nicaea explained that we believe that the Son is “consubstantial” with the Father. Actually, the declarations of the Council were written in Greek, and the Greek word used was homousios, which is translated into Latin as consubstantialis and means “of the same being” in English. Before the 2011 changes to the English translation of the Mass, we would say that Jesus was “one in being with the Father.” After those changes, the Church realized that the Latin word consubstantialis would be better translated as “consubstantial,” which means of the same substance, or being. At the Council of Constantinople, the Church expanded on the Son as consubstantial with the Father by declaring that He is “God from God, Light from Light, [and] true God from true God.”

The next line of the Creed, “through Him all things were made,” can also be supported from John’s Gospel, in the two verses that follow the one quoted above. John’s Gospel says, “He was in the beginning with God. All things came to be through him, and without him nothing came to be.” [JN 1:3, emphases added] The phrase “in the beginning” reminds us of the first words of Genesis, in which the work of creation is described. So the Son, who is God from all ages, was part of the work of creation – in the beginning! We can see evidence of this belief, even from the earliest days of the Church, in St. Paul’s Letter to the Colossians: “[The Son] is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn of all creation. For in him were created all things in heaven and on earth, the visible and the invisible, […] all things were created through him and for him.” [Col 1:15-16]

Next week, we will discuss our belief in the Incarnation of the Son as Jesus.

Challenge Question: Over the last several weeks, this CST Corner has focused on the plight of Migrants and Refugees and on Church Teachings on how we should view their plight, and actions we can take to ease their burden. Reflecting on today's Gospel about the rich man and Lazarus, how can I further challenge myself to better understand the plight of Migrants and Refugees, so as to ease their burden and better advocate on their behalf? "Every human being has the right to freedom of movement and of residence within the confines of his own state. When there are just reasons in favor for it, he must be permitted to migrate to other countries and to take up residence there. The fact that he is a citizen of a particular state does not deprive him of membership to the human family, nor of citizenship in the universal society, the common, world-wide fellowship of men." John Paul II, Address to the New World Congress on the Pastoral Care of Immigrants (October 17, 1985)

Merciful Father, You desire the welfare of all your children. Stretch out Your protecting arm over our men and women in the service. Shield them from every danger to body, mind and soul. Comfort them in loneliness, sustain them in hardship, give them the courage they need to fulfill their duty and so do Your will in all things. Bestow on our leaders and the leaders of the world the wisdom and prudence which will bring peace and justice to all. This we ask through Jesus Christ, Your Son, Our Lord. Amen. Mary, help of Christians, pray for us.
