Twenty-Seventh Sunday in Ordinary Time

The readings for the Twenty-Seventh Sunday in Ordinary Time are dire warnings against taking for granted the good gifts from God. The readings call for an examination of conscience. The first reading from the Book of Isaiah, commonly called "Isaiah's vineyard song," was written during the reign of King Jotham, 742–735 BC. Under the King's leadership the people and religious leaders of the southern kingdom of Judah had fallen far from their covenantal obligations. Isaiah's vineyard song offered the Israelites an opportunity to see and judge their own immoral behavior ("wild grapes") from God's perspective.

In his letter to the Christian congregation in Philippi Paul urges believers to embrace God's "peace." He invited the Philippians to "think about these things:" live a life defined by truth, honor, justice, and love, and form the conscience needed to see the world and each other—God's good gifts—from a divine perspective.

We hear in the Gospel reading the religious leaders of Jerusalem question Jesus' authority in an attempt to discredit him and his actions. But Jesus answered their attacks with parables. Drawing upon Israel's prophetic imagery, Jesus offers up the metaphor of a vineyard, but this time with the focus on the "tenants," those whom the landowner (God) put in charge of his vineyard. Jesus paints a bleak picture of the tenants, trapping the chief priests and elders with the question: "What will the owner of the vineyard do to those tenants when he comes?" The religious leaders unknowingly condemn themselves with their response to Jesus.
