Twenty-Eighth Sunday in Ordinary Time

The Gospel reading for the Twenty-Eighth Sunday in Ordinary Time warns against the false sense of security often derived from wealth and an abundance of possessions, and the first reading, a reflection on the virtues of prudence and wisdom as the source of true wealth, articulates well the disposition that Jesus encouraged his disciples and the Gospel's rich man to adopt.

In today's Gospel reading, the rich man fully anticipates an affirmation from Jesus that by living his life as a law-abiding Jew he would "inherit eternal life." The man "went away sad" when Jesus pushed him to take one further step: "Go, sell what you have... then come, follow me." The disciples, too, were "amazed" and "exceedingly astonished" at Jesus' words, "How hard it is for those who have wealth to enter the kingdom of God." In antiquity, people commonly associated wealth and possessions as a sign and symbol of God's blessings. Befuddled, the disciples ask Jesus, "Then who can be saved?" Jesus' answer puts inheritance of eternal life outside the realm of possibility for humans alone; eternal life is a gift that only God grants: "For human beings it is impossible, but not for God."

Fantastic Mr. Fox (2009 PG 1 hr 27 minutes)

This is the story of Mr. Fox and his wild ways of hen heckling, turkey taking, and nocturnal, instinctive adventures. He has to put his wild days behind him and do what fathers do best: be responsible. He is going to try "just one more raid" on the three nastiest, meanest farmers. It is a tale of crossing the line of family responsibilities and midnight adventure and the friendships and awakenings of this country life that is inhabited by Fantastic Mr. Fox and his friends.
