Easter Sunday of the Resurrection of the Lord

Easter calls us to bear witness to what God has accomplished in the resurrection of his Son, Jesus. In the first reading from Acts of the Apostles, Luke reports on a speech that Peter delivered in the household of Cornelius, a Gentile centurion, to communicate that the God of Israel extends his salvation to all people—Jew and Gentile alike.

The second reading from Paul's Letter to the Colossians indicates that Paul and the Colossians shared a common belief in the resurrection of Jesus.

The Gospel reading is John's account of the empty tomb. All four Gospel writers record this event with numerous details in common—for example, Mary Magdalene as the one who initially discovers the empty tomb. But each Evangelist also includes some unique features. In John's Gospel, he emphasized the empty tomb as a cause for faith, not the appearance of Jesus. John emphasized the empty tomb, because, the audience of John had been ejected from the synagogues throughout the empire and had endured prejudice by the Jewish population. According to Jewish tradition the completion of the burial rites was an act of charity, a cultural privilege and a duty that elevated one's reputation. In the Jewish/Christian community the report of finding an empty tomb, while completing the rite, would have supported their claims and shamed those who publicly criticized Christians.

CAREGIVERCARE (CGC)

CGC organizes online programs for people over 60. According to scientific studies, these programs, based on brain-healthy (neuro-protective) activities, effectively slow physiological and pathological memory-cognitive decline. Participants will amplify their brains' benefit if they adopt an integrated approach to all of these activities.

1. Learning New Things
2. Sleeping Well
3. Following a Healthy Diet
4. Doing Physical Activity
5. Socializing, also online
6. Reducing stress

In March 2020 CGC converted its on-site programs, offered within St. Thomas More Church, to on-line programming to help seniors continue their activities and to help them manage the difficulties of the Covid-19 lockdown. CGC uses the Zoom online platform to provide daily classes. For details, please visit <https://caregivercare.org/onlineprograms/>.
