In the Bulletin of August, 1985 (Vol. X, No. 8), the article "Catholic Sacramental Registers in Franklin County before 1900" described the development of some of the boundaries of Franklin County parishes. Boundaries were defined, beginning in 1875, only on the north side of Columbus, as new parishes were erected. In the rest of the city and county, families would usually attend the church closest to their residence, except in cases of prior membership in an older parish or membership in a parish defined by language (German or Italian). Parish boundaries in large cities were called for as early as the Council of Trent in the Sixteenth century and as recently as the Second Plenary Council of Baltimore in 1866, but it was not until the arrival of Bishop Henry Moeller and the Diocesan Synod of 1902 that actions were taken to define the boundaries and erect definite territorial parishes in Columbus.

The Synod set forth that the pastors of neighboring parishes should decide upon their mutual boundaries and present them to the bishop for approval. Once these were established, all Catholics within the boundaries of a parish were expected to attend that parish. The only exceptions allowed are described in the body of document (below) for individual parishes and in the "Important Directions" at the end.

One ragged copy of the original document laying out the parish boundaries as issued by Bishop Moeller survives in the Diocesan Archives. Because of the value of the information it contains for researchers, in directing them to the correct parish records, it will be published here in full.

* County maps of the era show no such road. Also, Green Lawn Ave. did not intersect Harrisburg Pike. A line north along Borror's Corner Free Pike and then Jackson Pike (not Harrison) was probably intended and would match the description of Holy Family's boundary. This is shown on the map.

SOME IMPORTANT DIRECTIONS.

1st. Diocesan Statute No. 199 provides that strict observance of the boundary lines be enforced from the date of the Synod. Owing to the variety of circumstances we were not able to fix the boundary lines before the holding of the Synod as we had intended to do, and consequently this Statute must be changed. We hereby modify it, making the boundary lines of the parishes in Franklin County binding on Clergy and Laity after February 9th, 1903.

2nd. Persons who have sittings rented in two Churches must make known to the proper Pastor the parish to which they intend to belong. If they fail to do so before February 10th, they will be considered members of the Church of the district in which such persons live.

3rd. A person residing in one parish district, but affiliated with another parish Church, has the right to become affiliated with the parish in which he has his residence at any time. If he ceases for six months to rent a sitting in his Church he has no right except in the parish in which he resides.

4th. A person who changes his residence from one parish to a place in the district comprised in the limits of another parish and desires to retain his affiliation with his original parish, or wishes to be affiliated with some parish other than the one in which he takes up his residence, may do so with the consent of the Pastor of the parish in which the person takes up his residence. We reserve the right of final decision in all such cases.

5th. When it becomes necessary to make out limits for a new parish in Franklin County, all Catholics living in the district comprised in these limits are affiliated to the new parish and obliged to go to that Church.

6th. Cases not provided for in the foregoing regulations are subject directly to our decision.

7th. We hereby direct the Pastors to read to their congregation on Sunday, February 9th, the preamble, the boundary lines of their own parish, the Important Regulations of this decree, together with Statutes No. 196-199, of the Fourth Synod of Columbus.

Given at Columbus, Ohio, this twenty-ninth day of January, 1903.

Henry Madler
Bishop of Columbus.

Chancellor.
