Bridgettine sisters plan to open hospitality house in Franklinton

By Tim Puet

Catholic Times Reporter

The Bridgettine Sisters, known worldwide for welcoming travelers, have come to Columbus in hopes of establishing the order’s second American house of prayer and hospitality.

Three members of the congregation, formally known as the Order of the Most Holy Savior of St. Bridget, have established a convent at 40 N. Grubb St., near Columbus Holy Family Church in the city’s Franklinton neighborhood. The convent served as a child-care center when it was built in the 1920s, later was a residence and a child-care center when it was built in the 1965. It is now vacant. The cost to build the chapel is estimated at between $750,000 and $1 million. The chapel will be the center of the convent and the proposed house of prayer and hospitality. The fullness of the sisters’ spirituality will be found in the chapel, where the Lord will be adored, preparation for sin will be offered and unity among Christians will be sought.

Construction of the church, which would cover most of the space on the vacant land, would follow completion of the chapel. Sister Floriana, O.S.S., said the sisters and Meyers are in the early stages of planning for the house and won’t have an idea of its approximate cost until preliminary discussions with contractors take place.

Father Stash Dailey, pastor of Holy Family Church and diocesan vicar for religious, said the house would include 27 guest rooms and have space for a library, a refectory for the sisters, a kitchen and dining area for the guests, rest and prayer areas, and easy access to the chapel. The house in Darien, located on 10 acres on Long Island Sound, has similar amenities and has been open since 1957. It is one of 54 guesthouses operated by the Bridgettines in 19 nations, in locations including Rome, Bethlehem and Jerusalem.

Sister Floriana is from Mexico and served there for 10 years and at Darien for 13 years. She came to Columbus to open the convent in October, along with another sister who has returned to Rome. Sister Eunice Kulangaratthiyil, O.S.S., a native of India, joined her four months ago. She has been a Bridgettine for 37 years and served in India, Rome, Sweden and Norway before coming to Darien 20 years ago. They were joined on Nov. 21 by Sister Nithya Ligori, O.S.S., a Bridgettine for 21 years. She is from India and was stationed in her native country for a short time before going to Rome, where she spent 20 years. She was assigned to the order’s community in Darien about eight months ago.

Father Dailey, who has helped five orders of sisters come to the diocese of Columbus in recent years, first learned of the Bridgettines 11 years ago when he was parochial vicar at Worthington St. Michael Church.

“At the time, I was doing many sick calls, especially at Riverside Methodist Hospital and the Ohio State University Medical Center,” he said. “I learned that many people travel to Columbus to be with loved ones in the hospital and have no affordable place to stay if they need to be here for a long period.

“I had to go to Rome to do research on a sainthood cause, and Alice Heller, a St. Michael parishioner, suggested I stay with the Bridgettines at their Piazza Farnese guesthouse and motherhouse, where St. Bridget of Sweden, who founded the order, lived and died. “During my stay, I learned about the foundress and about the Bridgettines’ attentiveness to pilgrims and their dual charisms of hospitality and promoting unity among all Christians.”

Father William Hahn has been appointed by Bishop Robert Brennan as vocations director for the Diocese of Columbus, succeeding Father Paul Noble, who will continue as pastor of Sunbury St. John Neumann Church. The change will take place in July after a period of transition to begin the new year. Father Hahn will live at the Pontifical College Josephinum. He has been pastor of Chillicothe St. Peter, Waverly St. Mary and Washington Court House St. Colman of Cloyne churches.

“Father Noble will be able to focus his multiple God-given gifts and talents full time at his growing parish,” Bishop Brennan said in a letter to diocesan priests. “Father Noble has served well the needs of the Diocese of Columbus and has fostered an incredible number of vocations during his 10 years as director of vocations. I am truly grateful – as all of us are, I am quite certain – for his dedicated service.

“Being a director of vocations requires a great deal of time and energy and is an incredibly rewarding position. And so I want to take this opportunity to thank you, Father Noble, for your generosity, your charitable giving heart, and your hard work as director of vocations over these many years, and doing so while serving as pastor of a very large and growing parish – something that very few can do, and you did it very well.”

“Father Hahn I have come to know as a man of God, a man of the Church, and one who has a heart of Christ,” the bishop said. “Since its inception, Father Hahn has done very well in shepherding the people of God in a parish cluster centered at St. Peter’s Parish in Chillicothe. I have great confidence in Father Hahn’s abilities as he transitions into the full-time role of director of vocations, and pray for his success in working with priests.

In the social doctrine of the Catholic Church, the virtue and practice of justice has a primary role. St. Thomas Aquinas defined the cardinal virtue of justice as “a habit whereby man renders to each one his due by a constant and perpetual will.” One’s due is that which belongs to a person by right. Catholic social teaching, in reflecting on God’s loving creation of the human person, male and female, in His image, with inherent worth and inalienable dignity, has understood the existence of fundamental human rights that flow from that dignity. They are not dependent on the fiat of any state or political power. Their source is God Himself, and the nature that He gave the human person. They are beautifully catalogued in St. Pope John XXIII’s encyclical Pacem in Terris (Peace on Earth), 1963. In our practice of justice, we strive to give all persons their due.

At this time of year, as we celebrate the feast of Christ the King and the American holiday of Thanksgiving, it would be good for us to ponder how we are doing in giving God His due. And one of the things that belongs to God by right is our thanksgiving for all that He has done for us. He has loved us into existence. He has redeemed us by the blood of His Son, Jesus. He sanctifies us by the power of the Holy Spirit through the Church and the sacraments. We can be thankful for our life, for the beauty and provision of the natural world, and for the ocean of God’s mercy. There are myriad blessings that we have all received from God, not because of anything that we have done, but because of God’s unsurpassed goodness. In thanking God, we can recall that we are made in God’s image and that we can demonstrate that best when we pass blessings along to others, especially those who find themselves in need.

We can also be thankful to God for the people in our lives who have loved us and in so doing have helped us better understand God’s love for us. They may be family members, teachers, coaches, neighbors, mentors or co-workers. They have walked with us in good times and in bad so that we could reach the place where we stand today. We thank God for the people (the saints, among others) whose achievements and sacrifices have laid the foundation for the placement of our living stones in the spiritual house that God is building throughout history.

Perhaps our most difficult task is in thanking God for the trials and sufferings that fall upon us, even the ones we bring upon ourselves and for the people who are the occurrences of those trials and sufferings. Even they offer us an opportunity for growth, by helping us shed the cocoon of self-protection and the illusion of control. They open us to a deeper level of compassion for others and a greater degree of closeness to God. There is a closing prayer used in the recitation of the Chaplet of Divine Mercy that says: “Eternal God, in whom mercy is endless and the treasury of compassion inexhaustible, look kindly upon us and increase Your mercy in us, that in difficult moments we might not despair nor become despondent, but with great confidence submit ourselves to Your holy will, which is Love and Mercy itself.”

Thanks be to God!

Serrans discuss abuse crisis

Members of the Downtown Columbus Serra Club looked at the sexual abuse crisis in the Catholic Church and were urged by Father Craig Eilerman to pray, continue faithful practices and not let their hope falter.

Father Eilerman talked about Bishop Robert Barron’s book, Letter to a Suffering Church: A Bishop Speaks on the Sexual Abuse Crisis, at the Serrans’ November meeting, which also included members of the North Columbus Serra Club.

Bishop Barron noted that the Catholic Church has endured many scandals, many of them sexual in nature, during its 2,000 years of existence and that in similar situations, God has raised up new religious orders and new devotions to help the Church fight back. There are indications that this is happening again today, the bishop said. He also pointed out that an extremely small percentage of priests have abused young boys.

Some people have left or have threatened to leave the Church because of the scandals. Father Eilerman and Bishop Barron concur that there is never a good reason for leaving the Church.

“We encounter Christ in the Church,” Father Eilerman said. “The second person of the Trinity enters humanity by marrying humanity as the bridegroom of the Church. By founding the Church, Christ reunited humanity with the divine after Adam and Eve divorced humanity from the divine in their original disobedience. For any of us who have been blessed by being in the Church, leaving the Church is divorcing ourselves from Christ.”

Father Eilerman urged perseverance in dealing with the situation and closed by suggesting that Catholics find time for silence, “in which we allow the Holy Spirit to guide us on how we might fight back against this diabolic scheme.”

Mommies Matter helps women who chose life

By MaryBeth Eberhard

Celebrating and supporting local mothers who chose life over abortion, more than 150 people gathered for the second annual Harvesting Hope benefit for Mommies Matter on Wednesday, Nov. 20 at the York Country Club.

Mommies Matter, founded by Monica Flynn, aims to remove barriers and empower single mothers in crisis. Flynn, who has spent more than 20 years in the pro-life movement, graduated from the University of Notre Dame with a degree in mechanical engineering. She served as a U.S. Air Force officer at the Pentagon in Washington, D.C. Flynn now resides in Galena, and she and her family are active parishioners at Sunbury St. John Newman Church.

Mommies Matter functions as an extension of pregnancy care services, walking alongside single mothers through their pregnancies until their child is 18 months old. Each mother is given an advocate to offer support, guidance and encouragement. Mommies Matter also offers support through group sessions, financial assistance and counseling.

In mandatory sessions, the mothers meet twice monthly for group support and enrichment. Topics include parenting, exercise, self-care and finding a strong male role model. Spiritual guidance, centered around Jesus Christ, also is given.

Each mother is linked with an on-staff family advocate who helps her utilize community resources and assists her in obtaining employment and education. One successful story shared at the Harvesting Hope event was of a mother who found herself pregnant with her second child. Each month, after paying her monthly bills, she was left with only $34 of spending money. With guidance from Mommies Matter, she paid off her car, obtained educational assistance and is now a nursing student working full-time at Nationwide Children’s Hospital in Columbus.

Counseling and support are keys to sustaining the growth new moms experience while working with Mommies Matter, Flynn said. Many of the women Flynn and her team help have experienced childhood trauma and/or are victims of domestic violence or sexual abuse. Through counseling, mothers learn how to form and maintain positive relationships, develop positive coping strategies, make peace with their past and acquire good decision-making skills.

Cindy Straub followed Flynn’s keynote with a talk titled, “The Reason Why.” Straub, a single mother, small business owner and Mommies Matter board member, addressed the difference between giving birth and giving...
Did Judas receive Communion?; refusing to baptize

Q  At the Last Supper, Jesus told the apostles to take this body and his blood. But Christ knew that Judas was in a state of serious sin. So how could he have let him receive? (Alexandria, Louisiana)

A  Scripture scholars indicate that there is room for debate as to whether Judas was still present at the Last Supper after Jesus had instituted the Eucharist. Luke’s account (22:17-23) would lead one to believe that Judas did share in consuming Christ’s body and blood.

In Luke, after blessing the bread and wine and indicating that it was now his body and blood, Jesus says, “Behold, the hand of the one who is to betray me is with me on the table; for the Son of Man indeed goes as it has been determined; but woe to that man by whom he is betrayed” (22:21-22).

The other evangelists, though – especially John – would seem to indicate that Judas may have already exited before the Eucharist was celebrated and shared.

In John (13:21-30), the apostles are greatly troubled at Christ’s announcement of his betrayal and, in response to their question as to the betrayer’s identity, Jesus says, “It is the one to whom I hand the morsel after I have dipped it.”

Then, after Jesus handed the morsel to Judas, Judas “took the morsel and left at once. And it was night.” There is no indication that this took place after the institution of the Eucharist or that this particular morsel was different from the other food consumed at the supper.

But if Judas did in fact receive the Eucharist that night, why would Jesus have permitted it? One possibility is that Jesus left Judas free to make the choice and that the burden for the decision would have been on Judas for sharing that sacred food unworthily, since he had already been plotting Christ’s betrayal.

Another explanation might be that Judas was already feeling remorse for what he had done, although he clearly chose the wrong way to demonstrate that remorse when, “flinging the money into the temple, he departed and went off and hanged himself” (Matthew 27:5).

Q  My wife and I married 53 years ago and have nine children. Some of them served on the altar, and all of them went to Catholic schools. Our ninth child was refused for baptism because the priest insisted that my wife had to go to classes first.

I was not a Catholic at the time (I have since converted), and it bothered me a lot. How, I thought, could anyone deny a child the love and protection of God? I felt then that it was wrong, and I still do. Can you help me to understand? (Lincolnshire, England)

A  As for the “love and protection of God,” I wouldn’t worry about that part. God would find a way to offer that, even if a child were not baptized. But as to the baptism itself, I agree with you.

The Church’s Code of Canon Law indicates that for a baptism, “there must be a founded hope that the infant will be brought up in the Catholic religion.” This same canon goes on to say that “if such a hope is altogether lacking, the baptism is to be delayed... after the parents have been advised about the reason” (Canon 868.1.2).

My own view is that the benefit of the doubt should always go to the parents, and I feel supported by the very wording of the canon. (To warrant a delay, says the canon, the hope of a Catholic upbringing must be “altogether lacking.”)

In your own situation, I don’t think there was any doubt at all: You were already, in fact, sending your other kids to a Catholic school. As for the baptismal preparation classes, they are surely worthwhile, especially for first-time parents. But for the ninth child, I would guess that your wife already knew a bit about the sacrament.

The reformed liturgy, 50 years later

Fifty years ago, on Nov. 30, 1969, the Catholic Church marked the First Sunday of Advent with the universal implementation of the revised Roman Rite of the Mass, approved by Pope Paul VI in response to the Second Vatican Council’s Constitution on the Sacred Liturgy.

And the liturgy wars broke out in earnest.

They have not abated since. If anything, they’ve intensified in recent years.

As these debates continue, it will be helpful to remember that the Liturgical Movement of the mid-20th century, which led to “the changes” approved by Pope Pius XII before it led to “the changes” approved by Pope Paul VI, believed that the renewal of the Church’s worship would foster both sanctity and mission, including the Church’s social witness. For leading liturgical reformers like Father Virgil Michel, OSB, of St. John’s Abbey in Collegeville, Minnesota, liturgical renewal, evangelical zeal and a commitment to living Catholic social doctrine went hand-in-hand.

The bishops of Vatican II (who adopted the Constitution on the Sacred Liturgy by a vote of 2,174 to 4) agreed. If I may quote myself in a passage from my new book, The Ivery of Modern Catholic History: “...the Council, building on and developing the teaching of Pius XII’s encyclical, Mediator Dei, sought to recover an understanding of the liturgy as the entire Church’s participation in the mystery of God’s presence through the sacraments, after a period in which ‘liturgy’ meant, primarily, the performance of rites at which the laity were spectators who attend because of legal obligation. That participation, both the Liturgical Movement and the Council fathers hoped, would be an energizer of mission, for at the center of the liturgy is Christ, and it is Christ who sends his people out as heralds of the Gospel. Or, as the Council fathers began (the Constitution on the Sacred Liturgy), ‘The sacred Council has set out to impart an ever-increasing vigor to the Christian life of the faithful... (and) to strengthen whatever can help call mankind into the Church’s fold.’ That was the intention; the results, to date, have been decidedly mixed.

It’s a basic error of logic to think that everything that happened after Vatican II happened because of Vatican II. But even proponents of the reformed liturgy, among whom I count myself, must posit some sort of connection between what happened 50 years ago and two disturbing phenomena: decreasing weekly Mass attendance, and a lack of conviction that, in the Eucharist, Catholics encounter the real presence of the Lord Jesus Christ, body and blood, soul and divinity. Perhaps it was inevitable that the cultural acids of late modernity would cause too many 21st-century Catholics to think of Sunday Mass as a weekend recreational option rather than a privileged moment of encounter with the Lord, in which worship equips us spiritually for mission. But even if that’s true, proponents of the reformed liturgy must concede that “the changes” did not stem the Catholic exodus from Sunday worship. Nor did they mitigate Catholic ignorance of the reality of the Eucharist.

But then there’s the other side of the coin. I grew up with the pre-conciliar liturgy. It was not a Mozart Missa Brevis and sonorous Latin every Sunday; it was more often badly pronounced (and often mumbled) Latin and acerbic, pietistic music (when there was any). Of course, there were dignified, beautiful celebrations of what we now know as the Ordinary Form of the Mass, and living in a cathedral parish, I was privileged to participate in them as an altar boy and choirboy. But they were hardly the norm in American Catholicism. Nostalgia for an imaginary past is not a reliable guide to the future.

A few weeks ago, I was discussing the latest twists and turns in the liturgy wars with a wise observer of Christian affairs in the United States, a convert to Catholicism from confessional Lutheranism. When I asked her what she thought millennials traditionalists were seeking in the “old Mass,” she immediately replied, “the awe.” That’s likely true. It’s also true that the Ordinary Form of the Roman Rite can be celebrated so that the awe and wonder of the divine presence is palpable.

For an example, go to smcgvl.org and click on “Mass Video” to experience the beauty of the reformed liturgy at St. Mary’s Catholic Church in Greenville, South Carolina – a parish that is also a thriving example of the New Evangelization, embodying the hope that the liturgical reform, reformed, can energize mission and empower missionary disciples.

So much to be thankful for

By MaryBeth Eberhard

I have indulged myself lately in opening the memory alerts that pop up from my photo library on my laptop.

Typically, I will just smile and move on with all the tasks at hand, as life as a mom of eight keeps me pretty busy. But lately, I have been stopping to reflect on how life has changed and where the Lord is leading us now.

As I scroll through photos, I am reminded of how richly we have been blessed as a family. Each photo holds a memory for which we are grateful; the trip to the zoo, the staycation with ice cream shop visits, the day we stopped the world and read books under a tree, a son graduated, a son making his first communion, violin concerts, an old friend’s visit, a date night, drama performances, and a home that welcomes in the stranger.

There are the obvious and expected reactions as one scrolls through a photo feed. I smile at how a child has grown. Laughter bubbles forth as I remember a funny moment saved for family lore.

There is a touch of sadness over missing a friend, coupled with gratitude that you were able to share that time together.

My picture feed is a bit different, as it also includes trips to doctor’s offices, photos of brittle bones, scars, infection, rashes, and post-op intensive care photos that put a pause in my breath and still my heart for a short moment.

Each picture tells a story. As we enter it, all our senses come alive and we can enter into again. This is a gift from God, as we can it change over time how we experience those moments. We can take away comparison and see joy. We can see the pain and recognize our growth.

Hartley advances in football playoffs

Hartley (12-1) advanced to the Division III state semifinals with a 27-14 win over Jonathan Alder on Nov. 22.

2019-20 HIGH SCHOOL BOYS BASKETBALL PREVIEW

BISHOP HARTLEY

Top players: Kylan Kortokrax, 6-3, sr. (3 points per game, 31 percent on 3-pointers last season); Will Miller, 6-4, jr. (2 ppg); Andrew Trainer, 5-10, sr.
Conference: Central Catholic League
2018-19 record: 15-11 overall, 3-5 CCL (Central District champion and regional semifinalist)
Coach: Randy Kortokrax (296-167 in 21 seasons overall and at Hartley)

Coach’s outlook: “This team really gets along, and they play hard for each other. We do have a chance to shoot the ball well if we are patient and wait for a good look. To return to the district final game for the third straight year, we will have to overcome the loss of eight of our top nine players. We will be young and inexperienced, so patience as a staff will be critical. We don’t have a true post player, so we will rely on more of a perimeter game. My take is, we will be the best team we can be by the end of the season, so how many wins will that be, I can’t tell you.”

Roster: Kortokrax; Miller; Trainer; Dejon Donnell, 5-10, jr.; Jack Tomlinson, 6-1, jr.; Nico Thomas, 6-2, jr.; Nate Rowling, 6-3, jr.; Amari Gaston, 6-3, soph.; Jay Henson, 6-0, jr.; Alex Blain, 6-0, soph.; Braden Blanchard, 6-0, jr.; Micah Slater, 6-0, sr.

BISHOP ROSECRANS

Top players: Weston Nurn, 5-11, sr. (13.6 points, 5.5 rebounds, 2.9 assists per game last season); Kaid Brown, 6-2, sr. (9.4 ppg, 2.8 rpg); Jack Goggin, 5-11, sr. (9.0 ppg, 2.3 rpg, 3.0 apg); Jack Miera, 5-9, jr. (7.9 ppg, 2.0 rpg); Marcus Browning, 6-0, sr. (6.0 ppg, 5.7 rpg)
Conference: Mid-State League, Cardinal Division
2018-19 record: 21-4 overall, 11-3 MSL Cardinal
Coach: Todd Rock (374-234 overall and in 26 seasons at Bishop Rosecrans)

Coach’s outlook: “After having only one senior in each of the past two seasons, we have eight seniors this year. This group knows the system, what it takes to compete at a high level and what is expected of them as leaders. We have five players who will be playing their third season of varsity ball, and they know there’s pressure to try to exceed last year’s accomplishments. We may have some matchup problems because we will feature a five-guard lineup, but our opponents could have problems matching up with our quickness and shooting ability from behind the arc. This should be a very interesting year, and people will enjoy seeing us play hard for four quarters every game.”

Roster: Nurn; Brown; Goggin; Miera; Browning; Paul Nurn, 5-11, sr.; Will Bernath, 5-9, sr.; Nick Losco, 6-0, sr.; Tommy Bernath, 5-7, soph.; Thomas Spohn, 5-10, jr.; Cam Hagy, 5-9, sr.; Brock Lowe, 5-8, soph.

BISHOP WATTSERSON

Conference: Central Catholic League
2018-19 record: 15-10 overall, 6-2 GCCL (GCCL co-champion, district finalist)
Coach: Vince Lombardo (447-366 overall in 34 seasons, 371-246 in 26 years at Bishop Watterson)

Coach’s outlook: “We’re looking forward to a challenging and fun season. We have a lot of good athletes but are relatively inexperienced at the varsity level. The GCCL should be very exciting once again with a lot of close, hard-fought games. You would be hard-pressed to find a more competitive league, game in and game out, than the GCCL.”

Roster: Crane; Brossese; Graney; Noah Grayem, 6-2, jr.; Davis Boone, 6-2, jr.; Sam Intihar, 6-1, jr.; Gavin Green, 6-0, jr.; Noah Gruever, 6-2, jr.; Nick Malagreca, 6-1, jr.; Jake Horyng, 6-1, jr.; Gilbert Oduro, 6-5, soph.

CRISTO REY

Conference: Independent
2018-19 record: 2-18
Coach: Andre Bolliger

Coach’s outlook: Not provided

LANCASTER FISHER CATHOLIC

Top players: Bryson Vogel, 6-4, sr. (9.2 points, 5.0 rebounds, 2.6 assists, 1.5 steals per game last season); Sam Maynard, 5-9, sr.; Kaden Starcher, 6-0, sr.; Joe Martin, 6-0, sr.
Conference: Mid-State League, Cardinal Division
2018-19 record: 18-8 overall, 9-7 MSL Cardinal
Coach: Shawn Brown (35-17 in two years at Fisher Catholic)

Coach’s outlook: “The 2019-20 season will be an exciting challenge. We graduated nine seniors last season and seven seniors the year before. We have one player, Bryson Vogel, returning with substantial varsity playing time, and the rest will be battling on the varsity hardwood for the first time night after night. We will need to work hard and implement our principles quickly, as a late start resulting from the football team’s success has put us a week behind. The great thing we have at Fisher is great kids who work hard and play even harder. We will be young in experience, but I expect us to compete every night with effort and intensity.”

Roster: Vogel; Maynard; Starcher; Martin; Trey

Fabricini, 5-11, sr.; Alexander Brander, 6-0, jr.; Josh Burke, 6-4, jr.; Alex Smith, 6-0, jr.; Colton Yeager, 6-2, jr.; Ben Shaw, 6-0, jr.; Nick Krooner, 5-9, jr.

NEWARK CATHOLIC

Conference: Licking County League 2018-19 record: 8-7 overall, 3-10 LCL

Coach: Nate Adams (first year at Newark Catholic)

Coach’s outlook: “We are a young team which graduated or transferred our top six scorers from last year. With football making a deep run in the playoffs and a lot of our guys being a part of that success, we did not have our team together through mid-November, and that may still be the case when this story comes out. With that being said, the guys we do have are working extremely hard, and our staff as a whole is excited about the season ahead of us. The LCL is a very tough league with lots of great basketball, and we will have to be prepared and ready for the challenge every time we step on the court.”

Portsmouth Notre Dame’s boys basketball team

PORTSMOUTH NOTRE DAME

Top players: Jackson Clark, 5-10, jr. (11.4 points per game last season); Caleb Nichols, 6-2, jr. (6.8 rebounds per game); Ethan Kammer, 5-10, jr.

Conference: Southern Ohio Conference, Division I 2018-19 record: 2-21 overall, 1-13 SOC

Coach: Matt Mader (103-80 in eight years overall and at Notre Dame)

Coach’s outlook: “We have 21 players in our program this year, compared with 11 last season.

Our depth and size were huge issues last season, and we are hoping that our increased numbers will help with our practices being more competitive.”

Roster: Clark; Nichols; Kammer; Jermaine Powell, 5-11, soph.; Carter Campbell, 6-0, fr.; Christian Alvarez, 5-10, sr.; Dominic Sparks, 6-5, fr.; Gary Zheng, 5-8, soph.; Tanner Richards, 5-7, sr.; Chris Schmidt, 5-11, jr.; Dylan Seison, 5-10, fr.; Xavier Shephard, 6-2, sr.; Darren Edgington, 6-4, soph.

ST. CHARLES

Top players: Spencer Martin, 5-11, sr. (9 points, 4 rebounds, 3 assists per game last season); Jared Frey, 6-3, soph. (17 ppg, 5 rpg, 3 apg); Victor Searls, 6-7, sr. (9 points, 6 rpg)

Conference: Central Catholic League 2018-19 record: 13-9 overall, 4-4 CCL

Coach: Jacob Daniel (142-81 in 10 seasons overall and at St. Charles)

Coach’s outlook: “So far, this group has been very fun to coach. All the guys seem to truly care for each other, and their attitudes as a whole have been refreshing. We lose three very valuable contributors from last season: Alec Lohiser (football injuries). As a result, we are very young with only two seniors and one junior. It will be fun to watch to see who will mature and step into leadership roles as well as (becoming) playmakers.”

Roster: Martin; Frey; Searls; Ryan Utl, 6-3, jr.; Doogie James, 5-9, soph.; Juan Reeder, 6-2, soph.; Joshua Whiteside, 6-4, soph.; Chase Walker, 6-4, fr.

ST. FRANCIS DE SALES

Top players: Kobe Righter, 5-10, sr. (12 points per game, three-year starter, second-team All-CCL last season); Desmond Watson, 6-4, jr. (10 ppg, two-year starter, second-team All-CCL); Chris Fleisher, 6-2, sr.; Obed Achirem, jr.; Austin Mann, 5-7, jr.

Conference: Central Catholic League

2018-19 record: 17-9 overall, 6-2 CCL (Division II District runner-up, CCL co-champion

Coach: Pat Murphy (129-140 overall, 30-21 at DeSales)

Coach’s outlook: “This year’s team will feature five returning lettermen ready to take on the challenge of defending the CCL title and winning a district championship. The Stallions have a wealth of returning experience and many reasons to be excited about this upcoming season. The 2019-20 schedule again features non-league tests with some of Ohio’s best, including Huber Heights Wayne at the All-Ohio Showcase, a tough lineup at the Newark Holiday tournament, Olentangy Liberty, Worthington Kilbourne, Beechcroft, Linden and the always-strong Central Catholic League. The CCL will feature a number of teams with key returners at multiple positions, and every game should be a battle.”

Schedule: Nov. 30, All-Ohio Showcase; Dec. 3, at Westerville Central; Dec. 6, Bishop Watterson; Dec. 13, Bishop Hartley; Dec. 14, at Bloom-Carroll; Dec. 19, at Bishop Ready; Dec. 21, Tri-Valley; Dec. 27, Lake Catholic at Newark Holiday Tournament; Dec. 28, Oak Hills or Newark at Newark Holiday Tournament; Jan. 3, at St. Charles; Jan. 4, Jonathan Alder; Jan. 11, Beechcroft; Jan. 14, at Granville; Jan. 17, at Watterson; Jan. 18, at Linden; Jan. 24, at Hartley; Jan. 28, Johnstown; Jan. 31, Ready; Feb. 1, Grove City; Feb. 7, St. Charles; Feb. 11, at Olentangy Liberty; Feb. 18, at Worthington Kilbourne.

TUSCARAWAS CENTRAL CATHOLIC

Top players: Ryan Dick, 5-10, jr. (8.0 points per game last season); Jake Miller, 5-11, sr. (3.0 assists per game)

Conference: Inter-Valley Conference, North 2018-19 record: 12-12 overall, 5-11 IVC North

Coach: Tyrone Miller (108-86 overall and at TCC)

Coach’s outlook: “We will have a very young group, but we expect our effort on the defensive end of the floor to allow us to compete on a nightly basis. Our coaching staff is excited to coach this group, as they are very coachable and learning quickly. Our goal is always to be playing at a high level in February and March.”

Roster: Dick; Miller; Landon Potopsky, 6-2, soph.; Andrew Angelini, 6-0, jr.; Zane Douglass, 5-11, soph.; Adam Decaminita, 6-1, soph.; Jacob Renicker, 6-3, soph.; Jordan Triplett, 5-9, soph.; Toby Grossi, 6-1, jr.; Cameron Costello, 5-9, soph.; Julius Franzen, 6-1, soph.

Four ways at Mass to prepare for when the Lord comes

Isaiah 2:1-5
Psalm 122:1-9
Romans 13:11-14
Matthew 24:37-44

At an hour we do not expect, the Son of Man will come. … We all make plans for the future as if there will always be a tomorrow. Yet, none of us can know just when the Lord will arrive for us. So, we must ask ourselves, are we ready? No one is ever really ready. A soul may be disposed, prepared spiritually to say “Yes” when the moment arrives. But there is always some unfinished business.

There is only one way to prepare: to pay attention to the present moment. Worry about an hour from now cannot accomplish anything, especially if the Lord chooses this moment to return for all of us, or for you alone. Tomorrow may never come. We are creatures born into time who will live eternal life. We are called to open our hearts and our lives to the Lord.

We must give God our whole persons. Our bodies are not our own. They belong to God. Our psyches, our minds, our emotions, which occupy so much of our attention, are not in our control. Our spirits are made by God for God, and we have absolutely no capacity to do anything at all for them without grace – the grace given to us freely through the sacraments.

How do we get ready for something? We think about what we are going to happen. We imagine the “flow” of things. We reflect on who will be there to happen. We imagine the “flow” of things. We reflect on who will be there to help us get through it.

Mass offers us four distinct ways of attending to the present moment so that we are ready when the Lord comes: Welcome, Word, Sacrament and Mission.

First, as we gather, we are welcomed into God’s presence. As you come in, use the holy water and make a “full body” Sign of the Cross: “Reach for the holy” as you say, “Holy Spirit.” genuflect toward the tabernacle, going all the way down on your right knee if you are physically capable of it, or making a profound bow if you are not. Be accommodating to your brothers and sisters by greeting them with a nod and by being silent for prayer before Mass.

Next, listen and respond to God’s Word, allowing its meaning to penetrate into your heart. Allow the Word to reveal you to yourself. Participate in the gestures that accompany the readings with attentiveness: sitting to hear the first and second readings, standing and making the threefold sign of the cross to give God your mind, your lips and your heart. Allow the homily to shape you and form you as a disciple.

In the parts of the Liturgy of the Eucharist, bring what you have to the Lord. Put your life and your concerns into the collection basket and onto the altar with the bread and wine. Allow your baptismal priesthood to flow as the priest exercises his ministerial priesthood to bring forth the eucharistic presence of the Lord Jesus.

Examine your heart to see whether you are ready to receive the Lord with proper reverence. If you are aware of grave sin, make a spiritual communion.

As you return to your pew, realize that everyone who has received with you is a living tabernacle. Enter into your own soul and commune with your loved ones and the saints who have gone ahead of us into glory. Relish the moment of silence that allows us to taste heaven.

The fourth moment for attentiveness is the rite of dismissal: the announcements giving us news about the life of our parish, the final blessing and the call to mission. Wait until the priest and ministers leave, acknowledging what Christ has done in them for you. As you depart, once again dip your hand in the holy water and make the Sign of the Cross, realizing that you carry the Word and the Sacrament to a world crying out for His presence. Don’t lose it in the parking lot or on the road.

This is how we prepare to meet Christ when He comes again. Will He find us ready?

Let us go rejoicing to the house of the Lord!

Deacons, religious and the people of God to foster vocations in our diocese. “I have been in discussion with Father Hahn and Father Steve Beseau, rector-president of the Pontifical College Josephinum, and we all agree that it would be advantageous in a number of ways for Father Hahn to reside at the Josephinum, where the majority of our seminarians are in formation for the priesthood.”

Father Noble, 64, grew up in suburban Detroit and was ordained a priest of the PIME missionary order on May 23, 1981. He was principal and spiritual director at the former PIME seminary in Newark, now Sts. Peter and Paul Retreat Center, for four years and was incardinated as a priest of the Diocese of Columbus in 1985. He served the diocese as parochial vicar at Westerville St. Paul and Gahanna St. Matthew churches and pastor at St. Matthew before becoming pastor of St. John Neumann in 2017. He also was principal at Lancaster Fisher Catholic High School and served for seven years as diocesan superintendent of schools.

Father Hahn, 44, a native of Logan, was ordained a priest of the diocese on June 26, 2004. He was associate pastor at Powell St. Joan of Arc Church for two years and has been pastor at Chillicothe St. Peter and Waverly St. Mary since 2006. The two parishes were joined with St. Colman of Cloyne as part of a cluster in 2015.

Life. She spoke of meeting the mothers where they are on their journey and offering empathy, acceptance and love, with an emphasis on making life better for the mother. Straub spoke of the focus on skill and strategy development for new mothers. She reminded guests of the adage, “It is better to teach someone to fish rather than give them a fish.”

New children’s books just in time for the Christmas season

By Sarah Reinhard

Guess Who’s in the Manger: A Christmas Story, Written by Vicki Howie, Illustrated by Julia Seal, Pauline Books, $14.95

“Perched high on a rafter,” we begin, and then we can’t help but look at the picture on the facing page. It is, in fact, a barn owl, just like the second line tells us. His flights take us through a barn in Bethlehem to see Mary and Joseph coming through town, and then on a search for a light to liven up the dreary stable area. He comes back because the angels advised him to, and finds that the Light has come. Delightful and engaging, with rhymes that rolled off my tongue instead of making my eyes roll. My four-year-old gives it two thumbs up, and so does his mom.

Light of Heaven: A Children's Book of Saints, Written and Illustrated by Adalee Hude, OSV Books, $16.95

You may think you have enough books of saints, but until you have this one, you don’t. The artwork is nothing short of stunning and the opportunities for discussion could be endless. In addition to 21 of your favorite saints, from the Virgin Mary to John Paul II, there’s a lesson in Latin included with each saint, along with a short bit about each one. There’s a companion coloring book that may make the book even more fun, because you can color as you read, or color after you read.

The Seed Who Was Afraid to Be Planted, Written by Anthony DeStefano, Illustrated by Erwin Madrid, Sophia Institute Press, $16.95

Seems like a simple premise, and you’ve certainly seen it before: The seed in the drawer doesn’t want to be planted, is planted, and experiences a change in perspective. What makes it delightful – and what makes my preschooler demand that we read it again and again and again – is the execution. The pictures are beautiful, and the words are, too. As you go through the story line, you can feel how tactile the planting and the growing are. The words and the pictures work together and make the story better as a sum than they are separately. We’re taught about courage, about overcoming fear, about accepting who and where we are – all without being told any of those things.

Mary Stories from the Bible, Written by Charlotte Grossetete, Illustrated by Sibyle Delaroix, Dominique Mertens and Eric Pubaret, Magnificat/Ignatius, $15.99

Who doesn’t love Mama Mary? And this collection of five stories, summarized from their biblical text, is perfect for the younger crew in my house. Included are “The Childhood of Mary,” “The Annunciation,” “The Birth of Jesus,” “The Wedding Feast at Cana” and “The Death and Resurrection of Jesus.” If it seems like a lot to be covered in one sitting, it is. And we don’t usually read it all at once. The book is broken up so that you can read one section easily enough. The images are cute without being overdone, and I find myself wanting to put my name in ink in the front cover, just to make sure this darling keepsake doesn’t slip out of my house.

Mr. Mehan’s Mildly Amusing Mythical Mammals, Written by Matthew Mehan, Illustrated by John Folley, TAN Books, $24.95

The book is a compendium of mammals, and I guess they don’t exist, though I remain unconvinced. We’ve been laughing about Angogrobogunkalungstis since we started reading, and we’ve had to reread some of them a couple of times. There are so many layers to this book: The letters of the alphabet are interwoven with the animals, and many have a full-page illustration. They’re described in verse (no surprise that Mr. Mehan has a doctorate in Shakespeare’s teachings on poetry), and the rereading reminds me of a revisit to a favorite photo. Once you’ve made it through the alphabet of mammals, you’re not done – not even close! There are 46 pages of glossary (and it’s a glossary worth reading front-to-back, then back-to-front), a two-page description of each of the alphabetical letters (yes, there’s more than meets the eye), and even an “I Spy” game you can play throughout the book.
