The best mathematical equation I have ever seen:

1 cross + 3 nails = 4 given

REFLECTING ON THE WORD

Jesus "did not regard equality with God something to be grasped" (Philippians 2:6). He "emptied himself" (2:7) and "humbled himself, becoming obedient to the point of death, even death on a cross" (2:8). He is the servant of whom Isaiah speaks. He gave himself to us as food and drink (John), out of love for us.

Jesus' journey from heaven to earth is what reconciled earth with heaven and humanity with God. By so doing he did God's will. When that meant imminent death, Jesus prayed, "Not my will but yours be done." The Lord of all did not cling to equality with God. He became one with us. That self-emptying was perceived as a threat by those who clung to their own authority, so they killed him. Even in the end he emptied himself: "Father, into your hands I commend my spirit."

Living as Jesus lived entails emptying ourselves, especially in the face of the troubles, contradictions, afflictions, and experiences that come our way in life. By not clinging to our own will and power and embracing them, we accept our cross as Jesus did, to paraphrase St. Francis de Sales. Humbling ourselves and admitting our need for God to help us teaches us the power of self-emptying in all situations. A contemporary version of "Not my will, but yours be done" might be "I admit that I am powerless and I need a power greater than myself to save me." The truth is that we can only find true freedom by surrendering our spirit into God's hands, as Jesus did.

As servants of God, take time each day this Holy Week to open your ears to hear God's voice. Empty yourself as Jesus did. Submit to God's power in every situation. Then your life will proclaim that Jesus Christ is Lord.

Consider:

- When have you prayed, "I need a power greater than myself to save me"?
- What cross(es) are you asked to accept during this Holy Week, as Jesus accepted his?

LIVING AND PRAYING WITH THE WORD

Passionate God, your unconditional love and concern for us is made clear in the birth, death, and resurrection of your Son, Jesus Christ. Help me walk the way of the cross with him this week. Teach me to pray with renewed sincerity and depth, "Thy will be done."
