The RELATIONSHIP between the PERMANENT DEACON and the BISHOP

POLICY

The Diocese of London recognizes that “the (permanent) deacon exercises his ministry within a specific pastoral context – the communion and mission of a diocesan Church. He is in direct relationship with the diocesan bishop with whom he is in communion and under whose authority he exercises his ministry … The diocesan bishop also enters into a relationship with the (permanent) deacon since the deacon is his collaborator in the service of God’s People.” (National Directory for the Formation, Ministry and Life of Permanent Deacons in the United States, 41)

REGULATIONS and PROCEDURES

1. Every permanent deacon of the Diocese is subject to the Bishop and is ultimately responsible to him in all matters of ministry.

2. Each permanent deacon of the Diocese is to be considered, primarily, in relation to the Diocese rather than in relation to a parish or faith community.
   a. The appointment and assignment of a permanent deacon of the Diocese will be determined firstly, by the needs of the Diocese, secondly, by the needs of a Deanery and, thirdly, by the needs of a parish.

3. In certain situations, where the Bishop deems it necessary, he may limit or suspend the exercise of one or more of a permanent deacon’s ministries or faculties.
   a. Such a limitation or suspension will be communicated to the permanent deacon in writing by the Bishop, with copies to the Director of Permanent Deacons, the permanent deacon’s pastor and, if applicable, his ministry of Charity supervisor.
FACULTIES

POLICY

A faculty is either a power of governance or an authorization, of ecclesiastical origin, not of divine origin, to perform an act of some kind. The act to be performed cannot lawfully be done without the faculty. With the faculty, the act is performed lawfully and the minister acts in the name of the Church, not solely in virtue of being baptized and in full communion with the Catholic Church.

The Diocese of London recognizes that the mere fact of ordination does not entitle a particular permanent deacon to enjoy and exercise those faculties generally granted to deacons. The permanent deacon’s right to faculties is a contingent right dependent upon the decision of his bishop, or his delegate. (Directory for the Ministry and Life of Permanent Deacons, 8)

REGULATIONS and PROCEDURES

1. By their ordination, deacons possess the faculty “of preaching everywhere; this faculty is to be exercised with at least the presumed consent of the rector of the church, unless the competent ordinary has restricted or taken away the faculty or particular law requires express permission”. (Can. 764)

2. The Bishop will normally grant the following faculties to a permanent deacon upon the occasion of the deacon’s ordination, including express permission to preach (cf Can. 764)
   a. to proclaim the Gospel of the Lord and to read the Scriptures to the faithful and to teach and preach to the people
   b. to attend to the following:
      i. to assist the bishop and the priest during the liturgical actions in all things which the rituals attribute to him;
      ii. to administer baptism solemnly outside Mass and to supply the ceremonies that have been omitted at baptism in the case of an infant or adult;
      iii. to have custody of the Eucharist, to distribute it to himself and to others and to impart Benediction of the blessed Sacrament to the people;
      iv. to administer sacramentals and to preside at funeral and burial rites;
      v. to preside over the Offices of religious worship and prayer services when there is no priest present;
   c. to conduct the rite of the administration of Viaticum (except the Apostolic pardon) and to assist dying persons and those with them by reciting the prayer of commendation and the prayers after death if no priest is present
   d. Within the limits of the parish to which he is assigned, to witness the vows at marriages outside Mass. (Italics indicate conditions required for the validity of the act)
3. These faculties lapse with loss of domicile in the Diocese of London, unless otherwise provided for.

4. In certain situations, where the Bishop deems it necessary, he may limit or suspend the exercise of one or more of a permanent deacon’s faculties.
   a. Such a limitation or suspension will be communicated to the permanent deacon in writing by the Bishop, with copies to the Director of Permanent Deacons, the permanent deacon’s pastor and, if applicable, his ministry of Charity supervisor.
   b. Where applicable, in the event of the limitation or suspension of one or more of a permanent deacon’s faculties, the Bishop and the Director of Permanent Deacons will develop a program of remediation, which will be communicated in writing to the permanent deacon, the permanent deacon’s pastor and, if applicable, his ministry of Charity supervisor.
   c. The Director of Permanent Deacons will oversee this program of remediation and, at the conclusion of the designated time, will recommend to the Bishop:
      i. that he restore the faculty or faculties to the permanent deacon
      ii. that he extend the permanent deacon’s program of remediation
      iii. that he continue to limit or suspend the permanent deacon’s faculty or faculties
DIACONATE APPOINTMENTS and ASSIGNMENTS

POLICY

The Diocese of London recognizes that “(t)he Second Vatican Council synthesized the ministry of deacons in the threefold ‘diaconia of the liturgy, the word and of charity’”. (Lumen Gentium, 29)

REGULATIONS and PROCEDURES

1. Every permanent deacon of the Diocese is to be considered, primarily, in relation to the Diocese rather than in relation to a parish or faith community.
   a. The appointment and assignment of a permanent deacon of the Diocese will be determined firstly, by the needs of the Diocese, secondly, by the needs of a Deanery and, thirdly, by the needs of a parish.
   b. A permanent deacon is not necessarily assigned to his own parish.

2. Every permanent deacon of the Diocese receives, upon ordination, a dual placement from the Bishop.
   a. The Bishop appoints each permanent deacon to the exercise of one or more specific ministries of Charity.
   b. The Bishop assigns each permanent deacon to a parish or faith community for the exercise of his ministry of Word and ministry of Sacrament.

2. From time to time, the Bishop may reappoint a permanent deacon to another ministry of Charity or reassign him to another parish or faith community in order to better serve the needs of the Diocese, a Deanery or a parish.

3. A permanent deacon may also petition for a change in his ministry of Charity appointment or his parish assignment.
   a. The permanent deacon should consult with his Spiritual Director before such a petition is made.
   b. The permanent deacon wishing a pastoral change will, ordinarily, petition the Bishop, through the Director of Permanent Deacons.
   a. The petition of the permanent deacon will be referred to the Bishop by the Director of Permanent Deacons, with a recommendation regarding the petition.

5. Once a year, permanent deacons will be asked to respond to a questionnaire, prepared by the Director of Permanent Deacons, about their ministry of Charity appointment and parish assignment.
COVENANT for DIACONAL SERVICE

POLICY

The Diocese of London recognizes that “(T)he bishop appoints the deacon to a specific assignment normally by means of an official letter of appointment. The principal criteria for the assignment are the pastoral needs of the diocesan Church and the personal qualifications of the deacon … also acknowledging the deacon’s family and occupational responsibilities.” (National Directory for the Formation, Ministry and Life of Permanent Deacons in the United States, 42). Whatever his appointment and assignment, the permanent deacon is expected to engage in team ministry. In order that the permanent deacon’s duties be made known and understood by all involved, the Diocese requires that, upon ordination and whenever else is appropriate, each permanent deacon complete a Covenant for Diaconal Service.

REGULATIONS and PROCEDURES

1. Each permanent deacon who has received an appointment to a ministry of Charity and an assignment to a parish for the exercise of his ministries of Word and Sacrament must take part in the development of a Covenant for Diaconal Service, which will list the responsibilities and specify the details of his ministries.

2. The specific details of the Covenant for Diaconal Service will be determined at a meeting chaired by the Director of Permanent Deacons and will include the permanent deacon, his pastor, the pastoral team of the parish, as appropriate, the ministry of Charity supervisor, if applicable, as well as the wife of the permanent deacon, as appropriate.

3. The Covenant for Diaconal Service is to be completed and signed by the permanent deacon, his pastor, the Director of Permanent Deacons and the permanent deacon’s wife, as appropriate, within three months of the appointment and assignment by the Bishop.

4. The Covenant for Diaconal Service will be reviewed and revised as necessary by the permanent deacon, his pastor, the Director of Permanent Deacons, the pastoral team of the parish, as appropriate, the ministry of Charity supervisor, if applicable, as well as the wife of the permanent deacon, as appropriate.

5. In the event of a change of pastor or if the permanent deacon changes his ministry of Charity appointment or parish assignment, the permanent deacon, his pastor, the pastoral team of the parish, as appropriate, the ministry of Charity supervisor, if applicable, as well as the wife of the permanent deacon, as appropriate, and the Director of Permanent Deacons, as appropriate, will meet to review and, where necessary, revise the Covenant for Diaconal Service.

6. Every permanent deacon is entitled to a sufficient period of vacation time each year. Normally each permanent deacon is permitted to configure his vacation time to match the vacation periods established for his secular work or profession or to meet his family’s needs.

COMPENSATION

POLICY

The Diocese of London recognizes that permanent deacons who “receive remuneration by reason of a civil profession which they exercise or have exercised, however, are to take care of the needs of themselves and their families from the income derived from it.” (CIC, can.281.3)

The Diocese also acknowledges that “it is entirely legitimate that those who devote themselves fully to the service of God in the discharge of ecclesiastical office be equitably remunerated, since ‘the labourer is deserving of his wage’ (Lk 10.7) …” (Directory for the Life and Ministry of Permanent Deacons, 15) The Diocese interprets this provision to apply to those who are appointed to Diocesan administrative positions involving responsibility and commitment of time beyond what is normally expected for diaconal ministry in the Diocese.

REGULATIONS and PROCEDURES

Salaries

A salary is a fixed regular payment made by an employer to an employee.

1. Permanent deacons will not receive a salary for their ministerial services.

2. A permanent deacon who assumes the position of Director of the Permanent Diaconate Formation & Study Program, Director of Permanent Deacons or other administrative position designated by the Diocese will either designate that position to be his diaconal ministry of Charity and will receive no salary or he will designate that position to be a gainful relationship and will engage in other appropriate ministerial opportunities in order to fulfill his commitment to his diaconal ministry of Charity.

3. Permanent deacons may not become pastoral ministers in the Diocese, in any parish or faith community within the Diocese or in any institution or organization that falls under the jurisdiction of the Diocese.

4. A man who is a pastoral minister in the Diocese, in any parish or faith community within the Diocese or in any institution or organization that falls under the jurisdiction of the Diocese may not continue such paid employment upon ordination to the permanent diaconate.

Stipends

A stipend is a fixed, regular sum paid as a salary or as expenses.

5. Permanent deacons will not receive a stipend for their ministerial services.
Offerings for Parochial Functions

An offering is a thing or sum of money given freely as a gift or contribution.

6. Parishes or faith communities may request a parish fee for services provided at the time of weddings or funerals. Permanent deacons providing these ministerial services will convey any such fees to the parish or faith community.

7. Additional special gifts offered to the permanent deacon on the occasion of baptisms, weddings and funerals may be accepted out of respect for the intention of the donor.

8. Gifts offered to the permanent deacon at Christmas or to commemorate other special occasions may be accepted out of respect for the intention of the donor.

Honoraria

An honorarium is a payment for services that are rendered nominally without charge.

9. Permanent deacons will not accept honoraria for preaching or for other ministerial services.

Expenses

An expense is a cost incurred in the performance of a job or task.

10. Permanent deacons are not remunerated for their services to the diocese. Because they are not considered to be employees of the diocese, they cannot claim ministry-related expenses as income tax deductions. It is, therefore, a matter of social justice that they be compensated for “out of pocket” expenses incurred in their diaconal ministry.

11. Permanent deacons will not receive any monthly stipend, honorarium or other regular payment of any sort to cover mileage, automobile-related expenses or other personal expenses.

12. Permanent deacons will be reimbursed for mileage or automobile-related expenses, at the current diocesan rate, if their ministry of Charity or their parish diaconal ministry requires travel within a parish, among the parishes within a cluster, among the parishes or institutions within a deanery or among the parishes and institutions throughout the diocese.
   a. Reimbursement will be the responsibility of the appropriate pastor or administrator, ministry supervisor, Episcopal Vicar or Vicar General.

13. Permanent deacons will be reimbursed for the costs of their continuing formation as follows:
   a. up to $500 annually for continuing formation
   b. up to $600 annually for an approved retreat
   c. the costs of diaconal and Diocesan study days in keeping with guidelines established by the Diocese of London.
14. Reimbursement for expenses related to continuing formation and to the approved retreat will be provided by the parish or faith community to which each permanent deacon is assigned for his preaching and liturgical ministries.

   a. If this assignment is to minister to the needs of a cluster of parishes, reimbursement will be by the principal parish or faith community and prorated amounts will be conveyed to the principal parish by the secondary parishes.

   b. If this assignment is to minister to the needs of a deanery, reimbursement will be by the Episcopal Vicar of that deanery.

   c. If this assignment is to minister to the needs of the diocese, reimbursement will be by the diocesan Vicar General.

15. Receipts must be provided and the appropriate forms completed prior to any reimbursement.

16. Permanent deacons are responsible for their personal income tax returns and should seek advice regarding whether any monies or other gifts received in the course of their official public diaconal ministry are taxable.

Liability Coverage

17. The Diocese will provide general liability coverage to permanent deacons. The Diocesan general liability coverage will protect the permanent deacons for bodily injury or property damage claims made by third parties. General liability coverage is provided to permanent deacons when they perform their duties of official public ministry and only for general liability claims when the Diocese is legally liable for the damages that arise from duties of official public ministry. The same policies that govern general liability for priests in the Diocese will apply to permanent deacons. General liability coverage does not protect the permanent deacons for any claim made by a third party that alleges an incident of sexual misconduct.

18. A claim made by a third party that alleges an incident of sexual misconduct will be dealt with according to the protocol contained in the Diocesan Safe Environment Policy.

19. It is the responsibility of each permanent deacon to ensure that there is clarity as to when his service constitutes official public diaconal ministry.
PARTICULAR LAW GOVERNING the PERMANENT DEACON in the DIOCESE of LONDON

POLICY

The Diocese of London recognizes that “(T)he rite of ordination includes a promise of obedience to the bishop: ‘Do you promise respect and obedience to me and to my successors?’ In making this promise to his bishop the deacon takes Christ obedient par excellence (cf. Phil 2.5-11), as his model.” (Directory for Ministry and Life of Permanent Deacons, 8)

While many of the rights and obligations of permanent deacons are determined by the Code of Canon Law and by the various liturgical norms, the particulars of certain of these norms may be determined but the competent Ordinary, in this case, the Bishop of the Diocese of London.

REGULATIONS and PROCEDURES

1. Attire of Deacons in the Diocese of London
   a. Permanent deacons are not bound by the prescriptions of clerical attire (Can. 288).
      i. Normal dress for permanent deacons in the Diocese of London is appropriate secular attire, such as shirt and tie.
      ii. Clerical attire is not expected at parish events, such as Sunday or weekday Masses or other liturgies, for RCIA sessions or sacramental preparation courses or parish meetings.
      iii. A permanent deacon may wear clerical attire when it is deemed to be helpful for the performance of his ministry of Charity, such as hospital or prison ministry.

2. Title of Permanent Deacons in the Diocese of London
   a. Permanent deacons in the Diocese of London are to be referred to as “Deacon …”, e.g., “Deacon John Smith”; “Deacon and Mrs. John Smith”, “Deacon John and Mrs. Mary Smith”.
   b. Correspondence to permanent deacons in the Diocese of London is to be addressed to “Deacon …”, e.g., “Deacon John Smith”; “Deacon and Mrs. John Smith”, “Deacon John and Mrs. Mary Smith”.

3. The Holding of Public Office
   a. Permanent deacons are not bound by the prescriptions on occupations foreign to the clerical state such as public office, administration of property belonging to the laity, positions requiring accountability, business and trade, participation in partisan politics and acting as officials in labour unions. (Can. 288)
   b. However, before seeking or accepting public office, a permanent deacon in the Diocese of London must receive express written permission from the Bishop of the Diocese of London.

4. Identification Cards
   a. All permanent deacons with faculties in the Diocese of London are required to have identification cards confirming their clerical status.
   b. Identification cards will be renewed and updated on a regular basis as decided by the Diocese.
The PERMANENT DEACON at LITURGY

POLICY

The Diocese of London recognizes that "(A)s an ordained participant in the Church’s ministry of liturgy, the deacon confirms his identity as servant of the Body of Christ. In the celebration of the sacraments, whether he serves as a presider or assists the presider, 'let him remember that, when lived with faith and reverence, these actions of the Church contribute much to growth in the spiritual life and to the increase of the Christian community'.” (National Directory for the Formation, Ministry and Life of Permanent Deacons in the United States, 82)

REGULATIONS and PROCEDURES

1. The liturgical responsibilities of each permanent deacon in his parish of assignment are to be identified in his Covenant for Diaconal Service.

2. Vesture at Mass
   a. The ordinary vesture of the permanent deacon at Mass is the alb, stole and dalmatic.
      i. At the minimum, the deacon is to be vested in alb and stole.
      ii. While not every parish or faith community will have the financial resources to provide the appropriate vesture for a deacon assigned there, it is something which should be made a priority, in the same manner as the provision of vesture for a presbyter.

3. Vesture at Other Liturgical Celebrations
   a. When a permanent deacon presides at Solemn Exposition of the Holy Eucharist or the Liturgy of the Hours or when he presides at a funeral outside Mass or witnesses the marriage vows outside Mass, he may wear a cope over the alb and stole.

4. Exercise of Ministry of Sacrament at Mass
   a. Every permanent deacon is expected to exercise his ministerial role at Mass in accordance with the prescriptions of Canon Law and the appropriate liturgical guidelines. The permanent deacon’s role at Mass is to include (GIRM, 171):
      i. assisting the priest and walking at his side
      ii. ministering at the altar, both as regards the chalice and the book
      iii. proclaiming the Gospel and, at the direction of the priest celebrant, giving the Homily
      iv. guiding the faithful people by giving appropriate instructions, and announcing the intentions of the Universal Prayer
      v. assisting the priest celebrant in distributing Communion, and purifying and arranging the sacred vessels
      vi. carrying out the duties of other ministers himself, if necessary, when none of them is present
   b. A permanent deacon is not, ordinarily, to serve as deacon at more than one Mass per day, unless he is preaching, unless otherwise stipulated in his Covenant for Diaconal Service.
   c. A permanent deacon is to receive the Eucharist when he acts as deacon of the Mass.
5. Exercise of Ministry of Word at Mass
   a. After receiving his faculty to preach from the Bishop of the Diocese of London, a permanent deacon may preach anywhere within the Diocese.
   b. A permanent deacon not given this general faculty may be permitted, on occasion, to preach within a specific parish, at the discretion of the pastor, in consultation with the Bishop.
   c. Except under exceptional circumstances, a permanent deacon is to be the deacon of each Mass at which he preaches.

6. For specific liturgical protocols, please refer to a. The Role of the Deacon in the Celebration of the Eucharist (Appendix A)
   b. The Role of the Deacon when the Bishop Celebrates the Eucharist (Appendix B)
The SPIRITUAL LIFE of the PERMANENT DEACON

POLICY

The Diocese of London recognizes that “[(t)he (permanent) deacon, mindful that the diaconia of Christ surpasses all natural capacities, should continually commit himself in conscience and freedom to His invitation: ‘Remain in me and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit unless it remains in the vine, so also with you unless you remain in me.’

Following Christ in the diaconate is an attractive but difficult undertaking … In order to live this ministry to the full, deacons must know Christ intimately so that He may shoulder the burdens of their ministry. They must give priority to the spiritual life and live their diaconia with generosity.” (Directory for the Life and Ministry of Permanent Deacons, 50)

REGULATIONS and PROCEDURES

1. Each permanent deacon is to cultivate his spiritual life in a responsible manner, for it is from this life that springs up the love which sustains his ministry and makes it fruitful.

2. Each permanent deacon is to have a Spiritual Director, who is not his pastor, with whom he meets on a regular basis.

3. Each permanent deacon is to include as part of his daily prayer, at least, Morning and Evening Prayer of the Liturgy of the Hours.

4. Each permanent deacon is to take part in an annual retreat. This is to be either a retreat planned specifically for permanent deacons or a personal retreat consistent with diaconate spirituality.

5. If there is any question as to whether a retreat format fulfills the requirements for the permanent deacon’s annual retreat, the Director of Permanent Deacons is to be consulted.
ONGOING HUMAN, SPIRITUAL, INTELLECTUAL and PASTORAL FORMATION

POLICY

The Diocese of London recognizes that “(t)he continuing need to provide and receive adequate, integral formation is an indispensable obligation of both bishops and deacons.

The continuing formation of deacons is a human necessity which must be seen in continuity with the divine call to serve the Church in the ministry and with the initial formation given to deacons, to the extent that these are considered two initial moments in a single, living, process of Christian and diaconal life.” (Directory for the Life and Ministry of Permanent Deacons, 63)

REGULATIONS and PROCEDURES

1. Ongoing formation for the permanent deacon is intended to enhance the spiritual, human, intellectual and pastoral knowledge and skills, as manifested in the Benchmarks of the Permanent Diaconate Formation & Study Program, that will enable each permanent deacon to live to the fullest the ministerial gifts with which he has been entrusted.

3. Ongoing formation may include:
   a. Workshops and Study Days for permanent deacons, developed by the Director of Permanent Deacons, the Director of Permanent Diaconate Formation & Study and St Peter’s Institute for Ongoing Formation
   b. Diocesan Pastoral (Study) Days and Clergy Study Days
   c. independent formation initiatives, such as:
      i. classroom or online courses
      ii. other courses or programs approved by the Director of Permanent Deacons

4. Each permanent deacon is expected to complete at least 20 hours of ongoing formation per year.
   a. This will include the Deacons’ Day with the Bishop (8 hours credit).
   b. This will not include the permanent deacon’s annual retreat.
   c. By the end of each calendar year, each permanent deacon will submit, to the Director of Permanent Deacons, an indication of his ongoing formation activities for that year.

5. Each permanent deacon will be reimbursed by the parish to which he is assigned for his ministries of Word and Sacrament, for the costs of his ongoing formation, following completion of the appropriate forms and provision of relevant receipts, as follows:
   a. up to $500.00 annually for continuing formation including, but not limited to, approved courses, books and periodicals
   b. up to $600 annually for an approved retreat
   c. the costs of diaconate and Diocesan study days in keeping with guidelines established by the Diocese of London.
6. Ongoing formation is optional for a permanent deacon who is inactive or retired and is tailored to the needs and capabilities of a permanent deacon on a leave of absence. A permanent deacon in these categories who chooses to take part in ongoing formation activities may apply to the Diocese for reimbursement in keeping with #5 above.

7. A permanent deacon may request a six to twelve month sabbatical for spiritual renewal, continuing formation and prayerful assessment of the future direction of his vocation.
   a. A permanent deacon planning such a request will define his objectives, goals, and plans for study, prayer and reflection well in advance so as to obtain the maximum benefit from his sabbatical.
   b. This preparation may include consultation with his pastor, ministry of Charity supervisor, Spiritual Director and the Director of Permanent Deacons.
   c. The permanent deacon’s application for a sabbatical will be referred to the Bishop by the Director of Permanent Deacons, with a recommendation regarding the application.
   d. The costs involved with a sabbatical will, normally, be the responsibility of the permanent deacon, himself.
DIACONATE ADVISORY COMMITTEE and REGIONAL GROUPS

POLICY

The Diocese of London recognizes that “(B) by virtue of their ordination, deacons are united to each other by sacramental fraternity … Each deacon should have a sense of being joined with his fellow deacons in a bond of charity, prayer, obedience to their bishop, ministerial zeal and collaboration … It would be opportune for deacons periodically to meet to discuss their ministry, exchange experiences, advance formation and encourage each other in fidelity.” (Directory for the Life and Ministry of Permanent Deacons, 6)

REGULATIONS and PROCEDURES

1. The Diaconate Advisory Committee (DAC), and the Regional Groups of permanent deacons and their wives that support it, play an integral part in the governance of the deacons of the Diocese and, also, contribute to the ongoing spiritual, human, intellectual and pastoral formation of, not only the deacons, but also their wives.

2. The Terms of Reference of the DAC direct the Committee to
   a. advance all aspects of diaconate life and to encourage balance in the lives of all deacons
   b. promote integration of diaconal ministry into the ministerial initiatives and the Pastoral Plan of the Diocese
   c. assist the Bishop and the Director of Permanent Deacons by offering advice on all matters pertaining to diaconal ministry.
   d. assist the Bishop and the Director of the Permanent Diaconate Formation & Study Program by offering advice on matters pertaining to diaconal formation.

3. Specific details of DAC membership, terms of office and frequency of meetings may be found in Terms of Reference: Diaconate Advisory Committee (Appendix C).

4. It is critical for each permanent deacon and his wife to have an opportunity to come together to pray and to socialize with their fellow deacons and wives. Regional Groups are intended to be this forum, within which, spiritual and human needs of the deacon and his wife can be met and which can offer, as well, the potential for meeting some of the deacon’s intellectual and pastoral needs, depending on the structure of the Group.

5. Recognizing that the primary supports for the permanent deacon is his wife, family and friends, Regional Groups are not intended, primarily, to be support groups.

6. Regional Groups are to meet at least three times per year, although they might meet more frequently should the members of the group choose to do so.

7. The coordinator and facilitator for the Regional Group meeting will, normally, be the Regional Representative to the DAC.
   a. These responsibilities may be shared or delegated.
8. Regional Group meetings should include time for
   a. prayer
   b. sharing
   c. socialization
   d. reception of issues raised by the DAC
   e. provision of input to the DAC

9. Specific details with regard to the Regional Groups may be found in Diaconate Advisory Committee: Regional Groups (Appendix D).
PERMANENT DEACON TRANSFERS

POLICY

The Diocese of London recognizes that personal circumstances, such as a work reassignment or a desire to be closer to children and grandchildren, may result in a permanent deacon relocating temporarily or permanently to the Diocese of London, while desiring to remain incardinated in his own diocese. Following written agreement with the bishop of the diocese of incardination, the Bishop of the Diocese of London will normally grant faculties to allow the exercise of ministry by the permanent deacon. (cf Can 271)

REGULATIONS and PROCEDURES

1. A permanent deacon transferring to the Diocese of London and seeking faculties will submit a letter to the Bishop indicating that he has taken up residence in the Diocese and setting out the reasons for the request.

2. Such a letter will be referred to the Director of Permanent Deacons, who will consider the merits of the request on behalf of the Bishop.

3. The Director of Permanent Deacons will oversee the collection of information regarding the permanent deacon's previous ministry. This will include:
   a. a summary of his service as a permanent deacon, including a list of the ministries that he has exercised and the faculties that he was granted
   b. letters of recommendation from the bishop of his diocese of incardination, from his most recent pastor and, if applicable, from his most recent ministry of Charity supervisor
   c. his Certificate of Ordination and other appropriate canonical documents
   d. an outline of his program of formation
   e. a current Vulnerable Persons Police Records Check
   f. a current psychological assessment

4. The Director of Permanent Deacons will submit the results of his assessment to the Bishop.

5. If the Bishop agrees to accept the permanent deacon into ministry in the Diocese of London, the permanent deacon will serve a probationary period of at least one year.

6. During the probationary period, the Bishop will grant temporary faculties to the permanent deacon, will appoint him to one or more ministries of Charity under the direction of a ministry supervisor and will assign him to a parish under the direct supervision of a pastor. The permanent deacon will complete a Covenant for Diaconal Service in conjunction with the ministry of Charity supervisor, the parish pastor, the Director of Permanent Deacons and the permanent deacon’s wife, as appropriate. The Bishop will also assign the permanent deacon to a permanent deacon incardinated into the Diocese who will be responsible for facilitating the probationary deacon’s integration into the Diocese.
7. At the end of the probationary period, the Director of Permanent Deacons will receive an evaluation from the ministry of Charity supervisor and the parish pastor and will recommend one of the following courses of action to the Bishop:

The Bishop of the Diocese of London will ordinarily permit permanent deacons from other dioceses who move to the Diocese of London and are granted faculties to minister in the Diocese, to petition for incardination.

COMPLAINTS AGAINST the PERMANENT DEACON

(Directory for the Life and Ministry of Permanent Deacons, 8) From time to time, questions unrelated to sexual misconduct may be raised with regard to some aspect of the ministries exercised by the permanent deacon.

Such complaints will be investigated and managed taking into consideration a fundamental respect for the human person, the right of each person to a good name and reputation and the common good of the Church and the People of God.

SEPARATION and DIVORCE

POLICY
The Diocese of London recognizes that marital strife between a deacon and his wife, potentially leading to separation and, even, divorce, can happen. The Diocese of London understands that “(b)y facing in a spirit of faith the challenges of married life and the demands of daily living … (the permanent deacon and his wife) show how the obligations of family life, work and ministry can be harmonized in the service of the Church’s mission”. Particular law for the Diocese of London stipulates that at the age of seventy a priest of the Diocese of London offers his resignation to the Bishop for his consideration.

In order to promote consistency of practice, upon his seventieth birthday, each permanent deacon of the Diocese of London will offer his resignation to the Bishop for his consideration.

FUNERAL of a PERMANENT DEACON

POLICY

The Diocese of London appreciates that at the time of the death of a permanent deacon, the wishes of his family are to take priority over Diocesan protocol with regard to his funeral arrangements.

At the same time, the Diocese recognizes that the permanent deacon is entitled to the celebration of a funeral attended by the full honour afforded to a cleric of his rank.

To avoid conflict with the family, during their time of grief, over the conduct of the permanent deacon’s funeral, the Diocese expects that permanent deacons and their families will pre-plan their funerals, utilizing the resources of the Diocesan Director of Liturgy as required.

REGULATIONS AND PROCEDURES

1. Each permanent deacon, in collaboration with his family members and utilizing the resources of the Diocesan Director of Liturgy, when necessary, will pre-plan the specific details of his funeral.

2. Details of the permanent deacon’s funeral plan will comply with the guidelines of the Rite of Christian Burial and will include: the funeral home of choice, the type of casket, the nature and venue of the visitation, the format of the Vigil Service, the Readings for the funeral Mass, the preacher for the funeral Mass and, as appropriate, the music for the funeral Mass.
   a. If an open casket is chosen for the period of visitation, it is proper that a “full couch” casket be chosen and that the permanent deacon’s body be vested in alb and stole and, if appropriate, dalmatic.
   b. Visitation may take place at a funeral home, at the parish church to which the deacon was assigned or at another appropriate location.
   c. If a eulogy or eulogies are deemed appropriate, these should be offered at the time of the Vigil service.
   d. If cremation is selected, this should be carried out, whenever possible, following the funeral Mass.

3. A copy of this plan will be filed with the Diocese through the Director of Permanent Deacons, and will be kept in the permanent deacon’s Personnel File.
   a. This plan is not irrevocable and may be modified at any time by the permanent deacon or his family.

4. For the funeral Mass, the permanent deacon’s body is to be oriented with his feet toward the entrance of the church, reflecting the fact that he is an ordained cleric of the Church and, even in his funeral, he remains in position facing the People of God whom he has served.

5. The presider at the funeral Mass of a permanent deacon will, ordinarily be the Bishop.
   a. The Bishop will be assisted by two deacons.
   b. Other deacons may be assigned roles during the funeral liturgy.
   c. Permanent deacons attending the funeral will vest in alb and stole and will be seated, as a college, in an appropriate place, behind any vested, concelebrating priests.

APPENDIX “A”
The Role of the Deacon in the Celebration of the Eucharist

Introduction

The Eucharistic celebration is the action of Christ and the Church, namely the holy people united and ordered under the Bishop. It therefore pertains to the whole Body of the Church, manifests it and has its effect on it. Indeed, it also affects the individual members of the Church in a different way, according to their different orders, offices and actual participation. In this way, the Christian people, “a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for his own possession”, demonstrates its cohesion and its hierarchical ordering. Therefore, all, whether they are ordained ministers or lay Christian faithful, in fulfilling their function or their duty, should carry out solely but totally that which pertains to them. (GIRM, 91)

The royal priesthood of the faithful … this people is the People of God, purchased by Christ’s Blood, gathered together by the Lord, nourished by his word, the people called to present to God the prayers of the entire human family, a people that gives thanks in Christ for the mystery of salvation by offering his Sacrifice, a people, finally, that is brought together in unity by Communion in the body and blood of Christ. This people, though holy in its origin, nevertheless grows constantly in holiness by conscious, active and fruitful participation in the mystery of the Eucharist. (GIRM 5)

After the Priest, the Deacon, in virtue of the sacred Ordination he has received, holds first place among those who minister in the celebration of the Eucharist. For the sacred Order of the diaconate has been held in high honour in the Church even from the early time of the Apostles. At Mass the Deacon has his own part in proclaiming the Gospel, from time to time in preaching God’s word, in announcing the intentions of the Universal Prayer, in ministering to the Priest, in preparing the altar and in serving the celebration of the Sacrifice, in distributing the Eucharist to the faithful, especially under the species of wine, and from time to time in giving instructions regarding the people’s gestures and posture. (GIRM, 94)

These sections from the GIRM serve to introduce the role of the deacon in the Eucharistic celebration. It is important to emphasize that “all...should do all and only those parts that belong to them”; therefore, the deacon is to have a meaningful role, which is properly his, in the celebration of Mass. However, it is equally important to recognize that diaconal participation in the Eucharistic liturgy is not meant to diminish or to dismiss the involvement of the laity, particularly the Lectors, the Extraordinary Ministers of Holy Communion and the altar servers, whose liturgical roles have attained the substance of custom and even tradition in the faith communities of our diocese.
Therefore, the introduction of the deacon into the Eucharistic liturgy of the various diocesan parishes is an ongoing process. More and more parishes are receiving deacons into their liturgical life for the first time and the “re-ordering” those parts of the liturgy that properly belong to the deacon, but which have, until now, been carried out by lay ministers, must be pursued sensitively, in the context of sufficient and appropriate catechesis for the parish community.

Mass with a Deacon

The following sections are drawn from and are representative of the GIRM (171-186).

- (171) When he is present at the celebration of the Eucharist, a Deacon should exercise his ministry, wearing sacred vestments. In fact, the Deacon
  - assists the Priest and walks at his side;
  - ministers at the altar, both as regards the chalice and the book;
  - proclaims the Gospel and may, at the direction of the Priest Celebrant,
  - give the homily (cf. no. 66);
  - guides the faithful people by giving appropriate introductions, and
  - announces the intentions of the Universal Prayer;
  - assists the Priest Celebrant in distributing Communion, and purifies and
  - arranges the sacred vessels;
  - carries out the duties of other ministers himself, if necessary, when none of them is present.

Introductory Rites

- (172) Carrying the Book of Gospels slightly elevated, the Deacon precedes the Priest as he approaches the altar or else walks at the Priest’s side.
  - As the Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops has not yet published a Book of Gospels, the Lectionary is our text for the entire Liturgy of the Word. Therefore, until such time as the Book of the Gospels is available to us, the Lectionary may be processed.
  - In the absence of a deacon, a lay person may process carrying the Book of Gospels or the Lectionary.
  - If he is not processing with the Book of Gospels the deacon normally processes (and recesses) at the right hand of the priest.

- (173) When he reaches the altar, if he is carrying the Book of Gospels, he omits the sign of reverence and goes up to the altar. It is a praiseworthy practice for him to place the Book of Gospels on the altar, after which, together with the Priest, he venerates the altar with a kiss.
If, however, he is not carrying the Book of Gospels, he makes a profound bow to the altar with the Priest in the customary way and with him venerates the altar with a kiss.

- If the tabernacle is in the sanctuary, behind the altar, the priest and deacon should genuflect, rather than bow, before they venerate the altar.

Lastly, if incense is being used, he assists the Priest in putting some into the thurible and in incensing the cross and the altar.

- In the Diocese of London, the deacon does not assist the priest as he incenses the cross and altar.

• Once the altar has been incensed, the Deacon goes to the chair together with the priest and there stands at the priest's side and assists him as necessary.

- Since the deacon will announce the intentions of the Universal Prayer, depending on the configuration of the sanctuary, he should sit on whichever side of the priest will allow him easier direct access to the ambo.

The Priest invites the faithful to make the Penitential Act … A brief pause for silence follows. The Priest, or a Deacon, or another minister, then says the following or other invocations with Kyrie, eleison (Lord, have mercy) … The absolution by the Priest follows. (Roman Missal, pp 492-493)

- This option applies only to the 3rd form of the Penitential Act.

Liturgy of the Word

• During the singing of the Alleluia or other chant, if incense is being used, the Deacon ministers to the Priest as he puts incense into the thurible.

Then, bowing profoundly before the Priest, he asks for the blessing, saying in a low voice, Your blessing, Father. The Priest blesses him, saying, The Lord be in your heart .... The deacon signs himself with the Sign of the Cross and replies, Amen.

- It may be considered more polite to say, “Father, may I have your blessing, please?” However, the declarative statement is to be used.

Having bowed to the altar, he then takes up the Book of Gospels which was placed on it and proceeds to the ambo, carrying the book slightly elevated. He is preceded by a thurifer carrying a smoking thurible and by ministers with lighted candles.

- If the Book of Gospels or the Lectionary is not carried in procession and laid on the altar, the deacon, after receiving the blessing, simply bows to the altar and proceeds to the ambo.

Incense will probably be used only on rare occasions outside of diocesan celebrations or celebrations associated with the Octave of Christmas or the Season of Easter.

At the ambo, the Deacon greets the people, with hands joined, saying, The Lord be with you. After this, at the words, A reading from the Holy Gospel ...., he signs with his thumb the book and then himself on his forehead, mouth, and breast. He incenses the book and proclaims the Gospel reading. When this is done, he acclaims, The Gospel of the Lord, and all reply, Praise to you, Lord Jesus Christ.
He then venerates the book with a kiss, saying quietly the formula, Per evangelica dicta …, (Through the words of the Gospel may our sins be wiped away) and returns to the Priest’s side.

- The greeting is given with hands joined.
- The signing of the book, etc. should be deliberate and plainly visible so as to maximize the symbolism.
- When the thurifer passes the thurible to the Deacon, the Deacon bows to the Lectionary before incensing and again after incensing before he passes the thurible back to the thurifer.

When the deacon is assisting the Bishop, he carries the book to him to be kissed, or else kisses it himself, saying quietly saying quietly the formula, Per evangelica dicta …, (Through the words of the Gospel may our sins be wiped away). In more solemn celebrations, if appropriate, the Bishop may impart a blessing to the people with the Book of Gospels.

Lastly, the Deacon may carry the Book of Gospels to the credence table or to another suitable and dignified place.

- (176) Moreover, if there is no other suitable reader present, the Deacon should proclaim the other readings as well.

- The Deacon may preach the homily [cf (66)]

- (177) After the introduction by the Priest, it is the Deacon himself who announces the intentions of the Universal Prayer, usually from the ambo.
  - In most parishes, this has traditionally been done by a Lector or Commentator. Transitioning this to a diaconal role will require sensitivity and catechesis.

Liturgy of the Eucharist

- (178) After the Universal Prayer, while the Priest remains at the chair, the Deacon prepares the altar, assisted by the acolyte, but it is the Deacon's place to take care of the sacred vessels himself.
  - The altar servers will typically bring the vessels and the Roman Missal to the altar. The Deacon will then come forward and arrange them.

He also assists the Priest in receiving the people's gifts.

After this, he hands the Priest the paten with the bread to be consecrated, pours wine and a little water into the chalice, saying quietly, By the mystery of this water and wine, may we come to share in the divinity of Christ, who humbled himself to share in our humanity, and after this presents the chalice to the Priest. He may also carry out the preparation of the chalice at the credence table.

  - The prayer is said in mandibly
If incense is being used, the Deacon assists the Priest during the incensation of the offerings, the cross, and the altar; and after this the Deacon himself or the acolyte incenses the Priest and the people.

- The Deacon typically incenses the Priest and the people.
  - He bows before and after incensing the priest and the congregation.
  - The Deacon is never incensed by the thurifer.

- (179) During the Eucharistic Prayer, the Deacon stands near the Priest, but slightly behind him, so that when necessary he may assist the Priest with the chalice or the Missal.

From the epiclesis until the Priest shows the chalice, the Deacon usually remains kneeling.

- If the deacon assists the priest with the chalice:
  - he stands to the priest’s right;
  - he removes the pall (if used) from the chalice, prior to kneeling at the epiclesis.
  - he replaces the pall (if used) as he stands following the consecration of the chalice;
  - he removes the pall (if used) from the chalice, prior to the final doxology;
  - he replaces the pall (if used) following the final doxology.

- If the deacon assists the priest with the Missal:
  - he stands to the priest’s left, after he has prepared the chalice;
  - during the preparation of the gifts, he turns to:
    - the prayers for the preparation of the gifts (as required by the priest)
    - the Prayer Over the Gifts
    - the Preface
    - the appropriate Eucharistic Prayer
  - during the Eucharistic Prayer,
    - he turns the pages as required.
    - he kneels at the epiclesis.
    - he turns the page as he stands following the consecration of the chalice.

If several Deacons are present, one of them may place incense in the thurible for the Consecration and incense the host and the chalice at the elevation.

- It is not a custom in our Diocese for a deacon to incense the host and chalice as they are shown to the people.

- (180) At the concluding doxology of the Eucharistic Prayer, the Deacon stands next to the Priest, and holds the chalice elevated while the Priest elevates the paten with the host, until the people have acclaimed, Amen.

  - The Priest is expected to hand the chalice to the Deacon.
    - As a rule, the Deacon does not “help himself” from the altar but waits for the Priest to give him the chalice.
  - The Deacon does not speak the words of the final doxology, either aloud or inaudibly.
(181) After the Priest has said the prayer for the Rite of Peace and the greeting, The peace of the Lord be with you always, and the people have replied, And with your spirit, the Deacon, if appropriate, says the invitation to the Sign of Peace. With hands joined, he faces the people and says, Let us offer each other the sign of peace. Then he himself receives the Sign of Peace from the priest and may offer it to those other ministers who are nearest to him.

- The invitation is offered with hands joined.

Following the Fractioning Rite, if there are concelebrating priests, the Deacon receives the paten from the Priest celebrant and, silently, offers the Body of Christ to the concelebrants.

(182) After the Priest’s Communion, the Deacon receives Communion under both kinds from the Priest himself and then assists the Priest in distributing Communion to the people. If Communion is given under both kinds, the Deacon himself administers the chalice to the communicants; and, when the distribution is over, standing at the altar, he immediately and reverently consumes all of the Blood of Christ that remains, assisted, if the case requires, by other Deacons and Priests.

- The Priest is expected to offer both kinds to the Deacon. Because of an older tradition in the Diocese, some priests expect that the Deacon will minister the chalice to himself and then minister the chalice to the faithful. Again, some gentle catechesis may be necessary!
- The Deacon does not absolutely necessarily have to be a minister of the chalice every time, if communion is offered under both kinds, but will ordinarily be a minister of the chalice, in keeping with diaconal tradition.
- See below (183), with regard to the protocol for purification.

(183) When the distribution of Communion is over, the Deacon returns to the altar with the Priest, collects the fragments, should any remain, and then carries the chalice and other sacred vessels to the credence table, where he purifies them and arranges them as usual, while the Priest returns to the chair. Nevertheless, it is also permitted to leave vessels needing to be purified on a corporal, suitably covered, on the credence table, and to purify them immediately after Mass, following the Dismissal of the people.

- If the purification is carried out at this time, the Deacon is responsible for doing this, assisted by other Deacons or Priests, as necessary.
- The purification is best carried out at the credence table. If the Deacon is asked to purify the sacred vessels at the altar, he is to do this at the side of the altar, not at the centre of the altar, where the Priest normally stands.

Concluding Rite

(184) Once the prayer after Communion has been said, the Deacon makes brief announcements to the people, if indeed any need to be made, unless the Priest prefers to do this himself.

(185) If a Prayer over the People or a formula of Solemn Blessing is used, the deacon says, Bow down for the blessing.

- This is said after the priest says, “The Lord be with you.”
After the priest’s blessing, the deacon, with hands joined and facing the people, dismisses the people, saying, Ite, Missa est (Go forth, the Mass is ended).

- The dismissal is given with hands joined.
- It is not appropriate to say “Let us go forth, the Mass is ended”. The dismissal is an exhortation rather than an invitation.

- Other formulary options include:
  - Go and announce the Gospel of the Lord.
  - Go in peace, glorifying the Lord by your life.
  - Go in peace.

- (186) Then, together with the Priest, the Deacon venerates the altar with a kiss, makes a profound bow, and withdraws in a manner similar to the Entrance Procession.
  - If the deacon processes at the right hand of the priest, he also withdraws at the priest’s right hand.

APPENDIX “B”
The Role of the Deacon when the Bishop Celebrates the Eucharist

Introduction

The bishop is the teacher, sanctifier and pastor of his Church. These roles are most apparent in any liturgy that he celebrates with his people. When the bishop presides at liturgy, these celebrations are, to be sure, not merely a matter of ceremony. Any liturgical celebration at which the bishop presides “manifests the mystery of the Church as that mystery involves Christ’s presence.”

Any liturgical rite is to be marked by a “noble simplicity”, and this applies, as well, to a liturgy at which the bishop presides. Nevertheless, the respect and reverence owed to the bishop by virtue of his office must always be kept in mind.

In addition, a liturgy at which the bishop presides typically involves the participation of those holding the different orders of the Church. In this way, the mystery of the Church is made more clearly visible to the entire assembly.

The local Church is most clearly manifested when the bishop celebrates the Eucharist, assisted by his priests, deacons and other ministers and with the full, conscious and active participation of all God’s holy people. While this expression of Church may be most fully experienced in the Stational Mass of the bishop, celebrated in his diocesan Cathedral, the celebration of the Eucharist by the bishop in any parish church or chapel remains a powerful articulation of the unity of the local Church and of the diversity of the ministries that are exercised, not only around the bishop but also around the Eucharistic celebration itself.

It is at such parish liturgies that most deacons are most likely to find themselves called to participation and are, even, expected to function, formally or informally, as Masters of Ceremonies, in order to facilitate the orderly progression of the celebration.

Mass Celebrated by the Bishop

The following sections are drawn from and are substantially representative of the Ceremonial of Bishops (1989) 119-170.

These excerpts are not intended to detail all the normal roles and responsibilities of the deacon at Mass, a description of which is provided in The Role of the Deacon in the Celebration of the Eucharist. Where appropriate, sections from the GIRM have been interposed.
What do we mean by “local custom”?

Ideally, all liturgical practices would follow the norms of worship at the diocesan Cathedral. However, multiple factors, including the physical design of the church or chapel, the available resources, and the size and nature of the assembly, inevitably contribute to the realization of any liturgical celebration. Therefore, “local custom” simply refers to the usual practice followed by a parish or faith community with regard to its liturgical protocols.

However, in order to foster the link between the bishop’s celebration of Mass in our diocesan cathedral and his celebration of the Eucharist in our parish churches, and to promote consistency of practice throughout the diocese, protocols for the deacon’s assistance at Mass celebrated by the bishop will conform, whenever possible, to those employed during diocesan liturgies.

What about the bishop’s mitre and his pastoral staff?

A constant concern for all those assisting the bishop at Mass has to do with when he takes and gives of the mitre and the pastoral staff. For this reason, these actions are highlighted in the following sections.

The deacon should ensure, if at all possible, that another minister, such as the parish pastor, another priest or deacon or even a knowledgeable altar server takes responsibility for managing the bishop’s mitre and pastoral staff. This is not the role of a deacon of the Mass and attempts to combine these responsibilities are, at best, awkward and, at worst, confusional!

Introductory Rites

- (128) As the entrance song is being sung, the procession moves from the vesting room to the sanctuary in the following order;
  - censer bearer carrying a censer with burning incense;
  - an acolyte carrying the cross, with the image to the front, walks between (two) other acolytes, carrying candlesticks with lighted candles;
  - the deacon carrying the Book of Gospels;
  - deacons, if present, two by two;
  - presbyters, two by two;
  - concelebrating presbyters, two by two;
  - the bishop, walking alone, wearing the mitre, carrying the pastoral staff in his left hand and blessing with his right;
  - a little in front of the bishop, the two deacons assisting him;
  - finally, the ministers who assist with the book, the mitre and the pastoral staff.

There is neither a stop nor a genuflection if the procession passes in front of the blessed sacrament chapel.

- This section refers primarily to the bishop’s Stational Mass in the Cathedral. For the usual Masses that would be celebrated in a parish church, or even in the Cathedral, the expectation is that there would be one or, perhaps, two deacons.
  - If there is one deacon, he would, according to our current Diocesan custom, either carry the Book of Gospels or, if the Book is not carried, process immediately behind the bishop.
  - If there are two deacons, one deacon would carry the Book of Gospels while the other deacon would process immediately behind the bishop or both deacons would process, two by two, immediately behind the bishop.
While the Ceremonial of Bishops assumes the presence of two deacons, for the purposes of the following sections, assume the presence of one deacon as normative for the typical parish liturgy.

- (130) On entering the sanctuary, all make a deep bow to the altar, two by two. Deacons and con-celebrating presbyters go up to the altar, kiss it, then go to their places.

- (131) When he reaches the front of the altar, the bishop hands the staff to a minister and takes off the mitre. Together with the deacons and other ministers accompanying him, the bishop makes a deep bow to the altar, then goes up to the altar and, together with the two deacons assisting him, kisses it.
  - The bishop always holds the pastoral staff with its curved head facing away from him. Any minister in charge of the pastoral staff always holds it with its curved head facing toward him.

If necessary, fresh incense is placed in the censer by an acolyte, and the bishop, accompanied by the two deacons assisting him, incenses the altar and the cross.
  - It is the custom in our Diocese that the Bishop places the incense in the censer (thurible).
  - Incense may or may not be used, according to local custom.
  - It is the custom in our Diocese that the deacon does not accompany the bishop as he incenses the altar.

When the altar has been incensed, the bishop takes the most direct way to the chair. The two deacons stand on either side near the chair, ready to assist the bishop.
  - The deacon is seated, but always immediately beside the bishop.

- (132) ... When the third form of the Penitential Act is used, the invocations are said by the bishop, by a deacon, or by another suitable minister.
  - It is the responsibility of the deacon to confirm with the bishop before Mass which form of the Rite will be used and who is to invoke it.

- (133) On Sunday, it is commendable that the rite of blessing and sprinkling water replace the usual Penitential Act.

  ... Receiving the sprinkler from the deacon ... he may go through the church, accompanied by the deacons.

- (136) Next, with hands joined, the bishop invites the people to pray [the Collect].

  ... At the end the people reply with the acclamation, Amen.

The bishop then sits and receives the mitre...
Liturgy of the Word

- (140) The Alleluia or some other song follows, depending on the liturgical season. When the Alleluia begins, everyone but the bishop stands.

During the singing of the Alleluia or other chant, if incense is being used, the deacon ministers to the bishop as he puts incense into the thurible.

Then, bowing profoundly before the bishop, he asks for the blessing, saying in a low voice, Your blessing, Father. The bishop blesses him, saying, The Lord be in your heart …. The deacon signs himself with the Sign of the Cross and replies, Amen.

- It may seem more respectful to say, “Bishop, may I have your blessing, please?” However, the declarative statement, as found in the Roman Missal, is to be used.

Then the bishop takes off his mitre and stands.

- Bishop Fabbro’s custom is to receive the pastoral staff as he gives off the mitre.

Having bowed to the altar, the deacon then takes up the Book of Gospels which was placed on it and proceeds to the ambo, carrying the book slightly elevated. He is preceded by a thurifer, carrying a smoking thurible, and by ministers with lighted candles.

- If the Book of Gospels or the Lectionary is not carried in procession and laid on the altar, the deacon, after receiving the blessing, simply bows to the altar and proceeds to the ambo, with ministers with lighted candles, according to local custom.

- Incense will probably be used only on rare occasions outside of diocesan celebrations or celebrations associated with the Octave of Christmas or the Season of Easter.

- (141) At the ambo, the deacon, greets the people, with hands joined, saying, The Lord be with you. After this, at the words, A reading from the Holy Gospel …., he signs with his thumb the book and then himself on his forehead, mouth, and breast. At this point, the bishop takes the pastoral staff. The deacon incenses the book and proclaims the Gospel reading.

- The greeting is given with hands joined.

- The signing of the book, etc. should be deliberate and plainly visible so as to maximize the symbolism.

- When the thurifer passes the thurible to the deacon, the deacon bows to the Book of Gospels or Lectionary before incensing and again after incensing before he passes the thurible back to the thurifer.

When this is done, he acclaims, The Gospel of the Lord, and all reply, Praise to you, Lord Jesus Christ. He carries the book to the bishop to be kissed, or else kisses it himself, saying quietly saying quietly the formula, Per evangelica dicta …, (Through the words of the Gospel may our sins be wiped away). In more solemn celebrations, if appropriate, the bishop may impart a blessing to the people with the Book of Gospels.

- The deacon carries the Book of Gospels to the bishop, open and facing toward the bishop unless the Gospel is contained in a binder or similar “non-liturgical” book.

Lastly, the deacon may carry the Book of Gospels to the credence table or to another suitable and dignified place and then returns to his place.

- Bishop Fabbro’s custom is to put aside the pastoral staff prior to giving the homily.
• (143) [A period of silence may be observed after the homily.] Unless the celebration of a sacrament or a consecration or a blessing is to take place at this point ... the bishop puts aside the mitre and the pastoral staff and stands. All present stand and ... sing or recite the profession of faith.

\textit{Liturgy of the Eucharist}

• (145) At the end of the Universal Prayer, the bishop sits and puts on the mitre. The deacons and acolytes arrange the corporal, purificator, chalice and \textit{The Roman Missal} on the altar.

The gifts are then brought forward. ... The deacons or the bishop receive the gifts of the faithful at a convenient place. The bread and wine are brought by the deacons to the altar.

• (146) The bishop goes to the altar, lays aside the mitre, receives the paten with the bread from the deacon ...

• (147) Meanwhile, the deacon pours wine and a little water into the chalice, saying inaudibly, \textit{By the mystery} ... He then hands the chalice to the bishop ...

• (149) Next, the censer bearer goes to the bishop. As a deacon holds the incense boat, the bishop puts incense in the censer and blesses it. The bishop receives the censer from the deacon and, in the same way as at the beginning of Mass and accompanied by a deacon, incenses the gifts, as well as the altar and the cross. After this, all rise, and a deacon, standing at the side of the altar, incenses the bishop, who stands without the mitre, then the concelebrants, then the people.

○ It is the custom in our Diocese that the deacon does not accompany the bishop as he incenses the altar.

• (153) [After the prayer over the gifts ...,] a deacon then removes the bishop’s skullcap and hands it to a minister.

○ The bishop will usually remove his own zucchetto; the deacon should be prepared to receive it from him and to place it, or arrange to have it placed, on the bishop’s chair.

The concelebrants come near the altar and stand around it in such a way that they do not interfere with the actions of the rite and the people have a clear view.

The deacons stand behind the concelebrants, but in such a way that one of them may assist at the chalice and the \textit{Roman Missal} as needed. But no one should stand between the bishop and the concelebrants or between the concelebrants and the altar.
• (155) The bishop continues the Eucharistic Prayer ...

If the chalice and ciborium are covered, a deacon uncovers them before the epiclesis.

One of the deacons puts incense into the censer and incenses the host and the chalice at each elevation.
  ○ Incensation of the host and chalice, if done, is typically carried out by an altar server.

The deacons kneel from the epiclesis to the elevation of the chalice.
  ○ ... as long as the deacons are physically able to kneel and to rise from a kneeling position without undue difficulty.

After the consecration, the deacon may cover the chalice and the ciborium.

• (158) At the final doxology of the Eucharistic Prayer the deacon, standing beside the bishop, holds up the chalice while the bishop holds up the paten ...
  ○ If the bishop does not spontaneously hand the cup to the deacon, the deacon may take it on his own.

• (161) After this, facing the people [the bishop] proclaims the greeting of peace, saying, The peace of the Lord ... One of the deacons may give the invitation to an exchange of the sign of peace by facing the people and saying, Let us offer each other the sign of peace.

• (163) After saying inaudibly the prayer before communion, the bishop genuflects and takes the paten. One by one the concelebrants approach the bishop, genuflect, and reverently receive from him the Body of Christ ... The concelebrants, however, may remain in their places and there receive the Body of Christ.
  ○ Once the host is fragmented onto the paten, the deacon takes the paten and offers the fragments to the concelebrants but does not say, The Body of Christ.
  ○ A deacon does not accept a host from the paten in this way but, rather, waits to be offered the Body of Christ by the bishop.

• (164) When the bishop has received the Blood of the Lord, he hands the chalice to one of the deacons and gives communion to the deacons and the faithful.

The concelebrants go up to the altar and receive the Blood of the Lord from a deacon, who presents the chalice and wipes it with a purificator after the communion of each concelebrant.
  ○ The concelebrants will typically self-communicate from the chalice. Occasionally, the deacon may be asked to present the chalice to concelebrants who are disabled or who are too far removed from the main altar to reasonably come forward. In such cases, the deacon does not say, The Blood of Christ.
  ○ The deacon does not absolutely necessarily have to be a minister of the chalice every time, if communion is offered under both kinds, but will ordinarily be a minister of the chalice, in keeping with diaconate tradition.
(165) When the giving of communion is over, one of the deacons consumes the blood that remains, takes the chalice to a side table, and there purifies it and arranges it, or he may do so after Mass. Another deacon or one of the concelebrants takes any remaining consecrated particles to the tabernacle, then at a side table cleanses the paten or ciborium over the chalice before the chalice is cleansed.

Concluding Rite

(169) Finally, the bishop receives the mitre and, with hands outstretched, he greets the people, saying, The Lord be with you ... One of the deacons may give the invitation, Bow down for the blessing. The bishop gives the solemn blessing ... As he recites the invocations or prayer of the solemn blessing, the bishop holds his hands outstretched over the people. All reply, Amen. Then he takes the pastoral staff and says, May almighty God bless you, the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit.
   - The invitation is given only if the bishop is giving a solemn blessing.
   - The invitation is given after the bishop says, The Lord be with you.

(170) After the blessing, one of the deacons dismisses the people, saying, Go and announce the Gospel, or one of the other formulas.
   - It is not appropriate to say “Let us go forth, the Mass is ended”. The dismissal is an exhortation rather than an invitation.

Then, as a rule, the bishop kisses the altar and makes the due reverence to it. All in the sanctuary reverence the altar, as at the beginning of Mass, and return to the vesting room in procession, following the order in which they entered.
   - If a deacon has processed with the Book of the Gospels, then that deacon recesses side by side with the other assisting deacon (if any), immediately behind the bishop.

APPENDIX “D”
Introduction

The Diaconate Advisory Committee (DAC), and the Regional Groups of deacons and their wives that support it, play an integral part in the governance of the permanent deacons of the Diocese and, also, contribute to the ongoing spiritual, human, intellectual and pastoral formation of, not only the deacons, but also their wives.

The Terms of Reference of the DAC direct the Committee to

- advance all aspects of diaconate life and to encourage balance in the lives of all deacons
- promote integration of diaconal ministry into the ministerial initiatives and the Pastoral Plan of the Diocese
- assist the Bishop and the Director of Permanent Deacons by offering advice on all matters pertaining to diaconal ministry.
- assist the Bishop and the Director of the Permanent Diaconate Formation & Study Program by offering advice on matters pertaining to diaconal formation.

This mandate speaks clearly to several aspects of Goal VI of the Diocesan Pastoral Plan, which states that:

Imitating Christ the servant-leader, we will employ and model governance practices at all levels that seek to

- meet the needs of God’s people
- support the Church’s mission
- ensure appropriate participation in decision making by the laity, religious and ordained
- uphold Gospel stewardship
- promote accountability and transparency

“… meet the needs of God’s people …”

It is easy for those in public ministry in the Church to forget that they, too, are God’s people, that they have as much of a right to have their needs met as do those to whom they minister and as much of an obligation to ensure that this takes place. Permanent deacons are no exception. Deacons are uniquely challenged to balance the demands of family, career and ministry. While they, typically, experience good general support from their families and circles of friends, deacons, more than priests or lay ecclesial ministers, may perceive themselves to be ministering in isolation, with not enough time for prayer and no one with whom to share their joys and struggles. Deacons’ wives may feel even more isolated because of their husbands’ ministries and the hours these take away from their time together.

For these reasons, it is critical for permanent deacons to have an opportunity to come together to pray and to socialize with their fellow deacons, an occasion that their wives can share, as well. The Regional Groups are intended to be this forum, within which spiritual and human needs of the deacons and their wives can be met, and which can offer, as well, the potential for meeting some of the deacons’ intellectual and pastoral needs, should the Group members choose to structure their gatherings to accommodate this.

The Regional Groups are not intended, primarily, to be support groups. Support groups, prayer groups and other “special interest” groups, typically, meet monthly or more frequently and have a specific focus. The Regional Groups are expected to meet three times per year, although they might meet more frequently should the members of the Group wish to do so. Group meetings should contain time for prayer, such as Evening Prayer, although Lectio Divina is also to be commended, either as a regular or alternative practice. Meetings should contain time for sharing about the joys and challenges of ministry, the social issues of the day and even personal struggles, according to the will of Group members. There should, of course, be adequate time for relaxation and socialization.

The term “governance” is, sometimes, looked upon negatively, in the sense of undue regulation of individual activities. Governance is, however, foundational to the establishment and maintenance of order in a community or organization. For the permanent deacons of the Diocese, effective and proactive participation in governance will facilitate the ongoing integration of their ministries into the life of the Diocese and will be of immeasurable assistance in confirming the Order of Deacon as a “full and equal Order” in the Diocesan structure.

So, at Regional Group meetings, there should also be an opportunity for the Regional Representative to put forth issues raised by the DAC and to receive input from group members to bring back to the Committee. This is critical to participatory governance of the permanent deacons. In the Diocesan administrative structure, the voice of the deacons is the Director of Permanent Deacons. He is a member of the Parish Leadership Team and Chancery Leadership but also, accesses the Bishop directly with regard to the ministry and life of the deacons. Especially as the number of permanent deacons increases, the Director will be less able to engage in ongoing one to one conversations with each deacon. He will become more reliant upon the members of the DAC to speak the “will” of the diaconate community through their input and feedback. This, in turn, will allow him to continue to make himself available to respond to the needs of any deacon, deacon’s wife or deacon’s family member.

As a result, the role of the Regional Representative, who is responsible for attending and actively participating in the meetings of the DAC, three times yearly, and for coordinating the Regional Group meetings, is of great importance. The Regional Representative is elected, by the incardinated deacons in his Region, to a three year term, which may be renewable to a total of six years. A deacon assuming this role should not consider it to be just another administrative burden, but rather an opportunity to take a more active part in the governance of the deacons as the voice of the deacons in his Region.

A significant element of the mistrust that surrounds governance, whether in secular or in ecclesiastical institutions, is the perception that decisions are made arbitrarily, without consultation and without regard for the needs of those who will be affected. Building trust through greater transparency of the decision making process and greater accountability on the part of those in authority for the impact of the decisions that they make, is a key pillar in the Diocese’s evolving Personnel Plan. Active participation, on the part of the permanent deacons, in governance, through their involvement in the Regional Groups that report to the DAC, will ensure adherence to the principles of accountability and transparency, not only by the DAC and by the Director of Permanent Deacons but, also, by all those within the Diocesan administrative structure.
