If a film were made of today's readings, it would include some terrific special effects, but also some quite tender images. Daniel's prophetic vision imagines those who lead others to justice shining like stars in the sky, beacons to a new life. Hebrews visualizes Jesus' enemies as his footstool. Jesus warns his disciples that at the end of time the stars would fall from the sky and the sun would go dark.

Nothing can focus our minds like a deadline. Knowing a project must be finished by a certain day means that one cannot ignore it in the time leading up to that deadline. Vigilance focuses on our minds as well, but it can be difficult to sustain. If you don't know the day or hour of the deadline, it is difficult to remain vigilant. However, Jesus will not come to us only at the end of time. Jesus will come to us at any hour and on any day. We just need to recognize him. He may come as a stranger in need or a friend in pain. He may come into our hearts at a significant time or when we least expect it. It may not seem glorious in the least, but Jesus comes in ways great and small every day.

Let us be vigilant in keeping watch for him.

The Catholic Campaign for Human Development

Next weekend (11/20 & 21) begins the collection to support the Catholic Campaign for Human Development. More than thirty-eight million people in the United States live in poverty. This collection supports programs that empower people to identify and address the obstacles they face as they work to bring permanent and positive change to their communities. In the United States, one in eight people live in poverty. With this collection, you support programs that address the root causes of poverty and provide a sustainable future for those struggling across the country. See the CCHD flyer in this week's bulletin.

You may support this collection by using the CCHD pre-marked envelope found in your contribution packets. Just place your gift the envelope, and then drop in the collection basket at offertory at any weekend mass. Please, make checks payable to "Holy Family".
