Saint of the week: Blessed Savina Petrilli (1851 – 1923) (Feast April 18) Born in Siena, Italy, this foundress had a lifelong devotion to St. Catherine of Siena. As a young member of a Marian sodality, she taught catechism to street children and gradually felt called to serve abandoned children and the poor. At 22, she began the work of establishing the Congregation of the Sisters of the Poor of St. Catherine of Siena, which received papal approval in 1877. Somewhat impulsive and impatient, Savina made a special vow never to deliberately refuse God anything. She counseled her sisters, "Whoever looks at us must see Jesus in us." She died of cancer and was beatified in 1988. Her congregation serves today in Italy, South America, Asia and the United States.

Supporting Josephite Seminarians: For over 140 years, the Josephites have long been a key to the vibrant black Catholic presence in the Washington and Baltimore area. St. Joseph's Seminary in Washington, DC, located just blocks from the Basilica, has formed Josephite priests and brothers for serving the African-American community through the proclamation of the Gospel and personal witness. The Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women (ACCW) invites you to join them in support of Josephite seminarians. Since most of the seminarians are far from home, the Council has decided to support each of them with a monetary gift. To donate, send a check by June 1, made payable to ACCW, to Sonia Bobis, ACCW Treasurer, 13901 Belle Chasse Blvd., #311, Laurel, MD 20707. Questions? Contact Carol-Ann Parker, ACCW Service Commission Chair, at 904-287-7862 or carolannparker1965@gmail.com.

Respect Life News: Among several encouraging state, pro-life legislative initiatives, we note a victory in the struggle with physician assisted suicide (PAS) advocates in Connecticut. As of 3.29.18, a coalition of organizations, including the Pro-Life Council of Connecticut, helped defeat an attempt to legalize PAS. The 2018 bill, euphemistically titled, "An Act Concerning End-Of-Life Care" (HB 5417), failed to be voted out of the state's House of Representatives Public Health Committee and therefore could not be voted on in the full House. Its leading proponent, predictably, was Compassion & Choices (C&C) formerly known as the Hemlock Society. One opponent of (HB 5417), born with spinal muscular atrophy and confined to a wheelchair, Cathy Ludlum of Second Thoughts Connecticut, observed: "It's bad enough to have to go through this ordeal all over again. We were shocked to see that HB 5417 (A) is identical to HB 7015, which was heard in 2015. The only things that have been changed are the title and the effective date. All of the testimony opposing the 2015 bill is still relevant." Second Thoughts Connecticut and Second Thoughts Massachusetts are disability organizations opposed to PAS. The former, in a letter to the House of Representatives Public Health Committee wrote, in part: "On behalf of our members at Second Thoughts Connecticut, we are writing to express our outrage that yet another bill to legalize assisted suicide is being raised this year. Similar bills were raised in 2013, 2014, and 2015. Each one resulted in a grueling 12-15 hour hearing, putting great stress on legislators, the public, and especially on disabled people like ourselves, many of whom find it hard to travel and stay out for hours at a time." Susan Smith, President of the Pro-Life Council of Connecticut, commented: "This 2018 Legislative Session was a great victory for our Pro-Life movement in Connecticut. We cannot let physician-assisted suicide legislation pass in our state. We should never provide a suicide pill or lethal injection to someone. They [sic] need the best of palliative care which includes genuine healthcare and comfort," but: "we must never take this win for granted. The pro-euthanasia movement is well organized in this battle, not only in our state, but in most states around the country."
