THE MUSINGS OF THE PASTOR

From February 21-24, 2019, over two hundred bishops representing 180 Bishops' Conferences from all over the world met in Rome to discuss the sexual abuse of minors. Cardinal Séan O'Malley, as the President of the Pontifical Commission for the Protection of Minors, attended this meeting and reflected on his experience in attending this meeting with the Holy Father, the other bishops, and other religious leaders. He summarized the eight points of action given by the Holy Father. Last week I gave the first four points. Today I want to give the other four points made by the Holy Father:

5) Strengthening and reviewing guidelines by Episcopal Conferences. In other words, reaffirming the need for bishops to be united in the application of parameters that serve as rules and not simply indications. Rules, not simply indications. No abuse should ever be covered up (as was often the case in the past) or not taken sufficiently seriously, since the covering up of abuses favours the spread of evil and adds a further level of scandal. Also and in particular, developing new and effective approaches for prevention in all institutions and in every sphere of ecclesial activity.

6) Accompaniment of those who have been abused. The evil that they have experienced leaves them with indelible wounds that also manifest themselves in resentment and a tendency to self-destruction. The Church thus has the duty to provide them with all the support they need, by availing herself of experts in this field. Listening, let me even put it this way: "wasting time" in listening. Listening heals the hurting person, and likewise heals us of our egoism, aloofness and lack of concern, of the attitude shown by the priest and the Levite in the parable of the Good Samaritan.

7) The digital world. The protection of minors must take into account the new forms of sexual abuse and abuse of all kinds that threaten minors in the settings in which they live and through the new devices that they use. Seminarians, priests, men and women religious, pastoral agents, indeed everyone, must be aware that the digital world and the use of its devices often has a deeper effect than we may think. Here there is a need to encourage countries and authorities to apply every measure needed to contain those websites that threaten human dignity, the dignity of women and particularly that of children. Brothers and Sisters: crime does not enjoy the right to freedom. There is an absolute need to combat these abominations with utter determination, to be vigilant and to make every effort to keep the development of young people from being troubled or disrupted by an uncontrolled access to pornography, which will leave deep scars on their minds and hearts. We must ensure that young men and women, particularly seminarians and clergy, are not enslaved to addictions based on the exploitation and criminal abuse of the innocent and their pictures, and contempt for the dignity of women and of the human person. Here mention should be made of the new norms on graviora delicta approved by Pope Benedict XVI in 2010, which included as a new species of crime "the acquisition, possession or distribution by a cleric of pornographic images of minors... by whatever means or using whatever technology". The text speaks of minors "under the age of fourteen".

Second Sunday in Lent

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

How can I become a witness to God's grace in my life?

RCIA - THE PENITENTIAL RITE

The Penitential Rite will be celebrated at the 11:15 Mass today. The Penitential Rite is celebrated for the RCIA Candidates (those who are already baptized). It serves to mark the Lenten purification of the Candidates who are preparing to receive the Sacraments of Confirmation and Eucharist. Along with the Candidates, the sponsors and the St. Francis community, also, participate in the celebration of the penitential rite. All participants, in their own different ways, will hear the comforting message of pardon for sin, for which we will praise the Father's mercy. Please, keep in your prayers our Candidates Clara Grothe, Emma Grothe, Erick Funte, and My-Linh Rouil.

7 continued) We now consider that this age limit should be raised in order to expand the protection of minors and to bring out the gravity of these deeds.

8) Sexual tourism. The conduct, the way of looking at others, the very heart of Jesus' disciples and servants must always acknowledge the image of God in each human creature, beginning with the most innocent. It is only by drawing from this radical respect for the dignity of others that we will be able to defend them from the pervasive power of violence, exploitation, abuse and corruption, and serve them in a credible way in their integral human and spiritual growth, in the encounter with others and with God. Combating sexual tourism demands that it be outlawed, but also that the victims of this criminal phenomenon be given support and helped to be reinserted in society. The ecclesial communities are called to strengthen their pastoral care of persons exploited by sexual tourism. Among these, those who are most vulnerable and in need of particular help are certainly women, minors and children; these last however need special forms of protection and attention. Government authorities should make this a priority and act with urgency to combat the trafficking and economic exploitation of children. To this end it is important to coordinate the efforts being made at every level of society and to cooperate closely with international organizations so as to achieve a juridical framework capable of protecting children from sexual exploitation in tourism and of ensuring the legal prosecution of offenders.

Cardinal O'Malley said that he was very edified by the spirit among the bishops because they realized that the protection of minors from sexual abuse is something that the whole Church must work to address. He grants that we may not have solved all the issues that we face in the United States around the accountability of bishops, but for the Universal Church it was a huge step forward.

Until next week,
Fr. John

PARISH COUNCIL DISCUSSES UPCOMING

MINISTRY FAIR, PARISH SECURITY

On Feb. 28, the Parish Pastoral Council discussed its intent to organize a parish Ministry Fair after all Masses the weekend of June 8/9 in the Gathering Space and in the church's front lawn, weather permitting. Ministry Fair Subcommittee Chair Daniel Koscinski reported that the event's goal would be to promote the existing parish ministries and offer more opportunities for parishioners to engage with parish life. To promote the Ministry Fair, the council would invite ministry leaders to speak briefly at the pulpit during Masses leading up to the event date. Council members offered several suggestions to the subcommittee, including having a meeting beforehand with ministry leaders to involve them in the planning process and borrowing small tents to set up in the church's front lawn, thereby expanding the area in which leaders could set up ministry displays. "We're looking for people outside of the [Parish} Council to participate," Daniel said.

Under other business, the council also:

- Heard reports from the Social Concerns and Adult Faith Formation Ministry, the Communications Ministry and the Religious Education Ministry.
- Discussed a mechanism whereby parishioners can learn about individual volunteers who give time to a St. Francis ministry, as well as about the ministry itself.
- Learned that the next Diaconate Ordination will be at 9:30 am Saturday, June 22, at the Basilica of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception.
- Began initial discussions about what to do for the parish's 50th anniversary in 2022.
- Learned about parish security recommendations issued by the Archdiocese of Washington and
- Received an update on facilities enhancements at the church.

In addition, Parish Council Member Alicia Church mentioned that the Youth Group would be going on its annual Spring Retreat with the St. Peter's Youth Group in Olney to the Skycroft Conference Center in Frederick, MD, on March 29-31. To see the approved minutes of past Parish Pastoral Council meetings, please see our parish web site, <https://www.sfadw.org/pastoral-council-meeting-minutes>.
