29 Oct 1639. Thomas Gerrard demands land for transporting himself and men servants John Longworth, Samuel Parrett, Peter Keyward, Thomas Knight & Thomas Brasington in 1638 & 1639. Warrant to Mr Surveyor to lay out a Manor of 1000-acres on north side of Potomac near St. Clements Island and including said Island.

3 Nov 1639: Patented to Thomas Gerrard.
Erection of St Clements Hundred
16 March 1639/40

John Robinson, High Constable & Coroner.

Thomas Gerrard, Conservator of the Peace.
The Conditions of Plantation was a term used by the Proprietary of Maryland, Lord Baltimore, to describe the circumstances by which a Maryland adventurer (colonist) could hold land. These Conditions were based on the adventurer paying for the transportation (transporter) of themselves or other persons (transportees) into the colony. Each transportee (which included the transporter if they also immigrated) was termed a head-right.

The Conditions were not subject to colonial council or assembly approval and therefore need not have been recorded. Lord Baltimore could also waive the Conditions and grant land as a return for favors provided his lordship. These Conditions changed many times.
